Dear Shareholder,

Following this letter is the PIMCO Funds: Global Investors Series plc Annual Report, which covers the 12-month reporting period ended 31 December 2019. On the subsequent pages, you will find specific details regarding investment results and discussion of the factors that most affected performance during the reporting period.

For the 12-month reporting period ended 31 December 2019

The global economy continued to expand, but the pace generally moderated. According to the International Monetary Fund's ("IMF") January 2020 World Economic Outlook Update, released after the reporting period ended, global growth is projected to be 2.9% in 2019, versus 3.6% in 2018. From a regional perspective, the IMF expects the U.S. economy to expand 2.3% in 2019, compared to 2.9% in the prior calendar year. Elsewhere, the IMF anticipates that 2019 GDP growth in the eurozone, U.K. and Japan will be 1.2%, 1.3% and 1.0%, respectively. For comparison purposes, these economies expanded 1.9%, 1.3% and 0.3%, respectively, in 2018.

Against this backdrop, in September 2019, the European Central Bank (the "ECB") cut its deposit rate from -0.4% to -0.5% – a record low – and restarted bond purchases of €20 billion a month in November 2019. Elsewhere, the Bank of Japan largely maintained its highly accommodative monetary policies. The Bank of England kept rates on hold, although there was speculation that it may reduce rates given uncertainties related to Brexit. However, in December 2019, Prime Minister Boris Johnson won the general election, likely paving the way for a faster Brexit resolution.

After raising rates four times in 2018, the Federal Reserve (the "Fed") reversed course and had a "dovish pivot." At the Fed's meeting in January 2019, the central bank tapered its expectations for the pace of rate hikes in 2019. Then, after the Fed's meeting in June 2019, Fed Chair Jerome Powell said, "The case for somewhat more accommodative policy has strengthened." Following its meeting that concluded on 31 July 2019, the Fed lowered the federal funds rate by 0.25% to a range between 2.00% and 2.25%. This represented the Fed's first rate cut since 2008. At its meeting that ended on 18 September 2019, the Fed again reduced the federal funds rate by 0.25% to a range between 1.75% and 2.00%. Finally, at its meeting that concluded on 30 October 2019, the Fed lowered the federal funds rate to a range between 1.50% and 1.75%.

The U.S. Treasury yield curve steepened as two-year Treasury rates declined more than their 10-year counterparts. In our view, falling rates were partially due to signs of moderating global growth, the Fed's dovish pivot and periods of investor risk aversion. The yield on the benchmark 10-year U.S. Treasury note was 1.92% at the end of the reporting period, versus 2.69% on 31 December 2018. The Bloomberg Barclays Global Treasury Index (USD Hedged), which tracks fixed-rate, local-currency government debt of investment grade countries, including both developed and emerging markets, returned 7.25%. Meanwhile, the Bloomberg Barclays Global Aggregate Credit Index (USD Hedged), a widely used index of global investment grade bonds, returned 11.85%. Riskier fixed income asset classes, including high yield corporate bonds and emerging market debt, also generated positive results. The ICE BofAML Developed Markets High Yield Constrained Index (USD Hedged), a widely used index of below investment grade bonds, returned 14.53%, whereas emerging market external debt, as represented by the JPMorgan Emerging Markets Bond Index (EMBI) Global (USD Hedged), returned 14.42%. Emerging market local bonds, as represented by the JPMorgan Government Bond Index-Emerging Markets Global Diversified Index (Unhedged), returned 13.47%.

Global equities also produced positive results. Despite periods of volatility, U.S. equities rose sharply. We believe this was driven by a number of factors, including corporate profits that often exceeded lowered expectations, a more accommodative Fed, and the "Phase 1" trade agreement between the U.S. and China. All told, U.S. equities, as represented by the S&P 500 Index, returned 31.49%. Emerging market equities, as measured by the MSCI Emerging Markets Index, returned 18.42%, whereas global equities, as represented by the MSCI World Index, returned 27.67%. Meanwhile, Japanese equities, as represented by the Nikkei 225 Index (in JPY), returned 20.69% and European equities, as represented by the MSCI Europe Index (in EUR), returned 26.05%.

Commodity prices fluctuated, but generally rose during the reporting period. When the reporting period began, Brent crude oil was approximately $54 a barrel. It rose to roughly $66 a barrel at the end of the period. Elsewhere, copper and gold prices moved higher.

Finally, there were periods of volatility in the foreign exchange markets, due in part, in our view, to signs of moderating global growth, trade conflicts, and changing central bank monetary policies, along with a number of geopolitical events. The U.S. dollar returned 2.22% versus the euro, but the U.S. dollar fell 0.99% and 3.94% versus the yen and the British pound, respectively.

For disclosure of significant events that occurred post 31 December 2019, including discussion of COVID-19, refer to Note 23.

Thank you for the assets you have placed with PIMCO. We deeply value your trust, and we will continue to work diligently to meet your broad investment needs. Chairman

Performance quoted represents past performance. Past performance is no guarantee of future results. Unless otherwise noted, index returns reflect the reinvestment of income distributions and capital gains, if any, but do not reflect fees, brokerage commissions or other expenses of investing. It is not possible to invest directly in an unmanaged index.

Important Information About the Funds

This material is authorised for use only when preceded or accompanied by the current PIMCO Funds: Global Investors Series plc Prospectus. Investors should consider the investment objectives, risks, charges and expenses of these Funds carefully before investing. This and other information is contained in the Prospectus. Please read the Prospectus carefully before you invest or send money.

We believe that bond funds have an important role to play in a well diversified investment portfolio. It is important to note, however, that in an environment where interest rates may trend upward, rising rates will negatively impact the performance of most bond funds, and fixed-income securities held by a Fund are likely to decrease in value. The price volatility of fixed-income securities can also increase during periods of rising interest rates, resulting in increased losses to a Fund. Bond funds and individual bonds with a longer duration (a measure of the expected life of a security) tend to be more sensitive to changes in interest rates, usually making them more volatile than securities or funds with shorter durations. The longer-term performance of most bond funds has benefited from capital gains in part resulting from an extended period of declining interest rates. In the event interest rates increase, these capital gains should not be expected to recur.

The Funds may be subject to various risks in addition to those described above, in the Funds' Prospectus and in the Financial Risks in the Notes to Financial Statements. Some of these risks may include, but are not limited to, the following: real rate risk, derivative risk, small company risk, foreign security risk, high-yield security risk and specific sector investment risks. The Funds may use derivative instruments for hedging purposes or as part of an investment strategy. Use of these instruments may involve certain costs and risks such as liquidity risk, interest rate risk, market risk, credit risk, management risk and the risk that a Fund could not close out a position when it would be most advantageous to do so. Funds investing in derivatives could lose more than the principal amount invested in these instruments. Investing in foreign securities may entail risk due to foreign economic and political developments; this risk may be enhanced when investing in emerging markets. High-yield bonds typically have a lower credit rating than other bonds. Lower rated bonds generally involve a greater risk to principal than higher rated bonds. Smaller companies may be more volatile than larger companies and may entail more risk. Concentrating investments in individual sectors may add additional risk and volatility compared to a diversified fund.

Classifications of Fund portfolio holdings in this report are made according to financial reporting regulations. The classification of a particular portfolio holding as shown in the Schedule of Investments sections of this report may differ from the classification used for the Fund's compliance calculations, including those used in the Fund's prospectus, investment objectives, regulatory, and other investment limitations and policies, which may be based on different asset class, sector or geographical classifications. All Funds are separately monitored for compliance with respect to prospectus and regulatory requirements.

The geographical classifications of securities in this report are classified by the country of incorporation of a holding. In certain instances, a security's country of incorporation may be different from its country of economic exposure.

Certain securities and instruments in which a Fund may invest rely in some fashion upon the London Interbank Offered Rate ("LIBOR"). LIBOR is an average interest rate, determined by the ICE Benchmark Administration, that banks charge one another for the use of short-term money. The United Kingdom's Financial Conduct Authority ("FCA"), which regulates LIBOR, has announced plans to phase out the use of LIBOR by the end of 2021. There remains uncertainty regarding the future utilisation of LIBOR and the nature of any replacement rate (e.g., the Secured Overnight Financing Rate, which is intended to replace U.S. dollar LIBOR and measures the cost of overnight borrowings through repurchase agreement transactions collateralised with U.S. Treasury securities). Any potential effects of the transition away from LIBOR on a Fund or on certain securities and instruments in which a Fund invests can be difficult to ascertain, and they may vary depending on factors that include, but are not limited to: (i) existing fallback or termination provisions in individual contracts and (ii) whether, how, and when industry participants develop and adopt new reference rates and fallbacks for both legacy and new products and instruments. For example, certain of a Fund's securities and investments may involve individual contracts that have no existing fallback provision or language that contemplates the discontinuation of LIBOR, and those investments could experience increased volatility or reduced liquidity as a result of the transition process. In addition, interest rate provisions included in such contracts may need to be renegotiated in contemplation of the transition away from LIBOR. The transition may also result in a reduction in the value of certain investments held by a Fund or a reduction in the effectiveness of related Fund transactions such as hedges. Furthermore, the transition process may also require changes to be made to a Fund's investment objectives and policies. Any such effects of the transition away from LIBOR, as well as other unforeseen effects, could result in losses to a Fund or in additional costs being borne by the Fund.

Past performance is no guarantee of future results. On each individual Fund summary page in this Report, the Total Return Investment Performance table measures performance assuming that all dividend and capital gain distributions were reinvested. Investment return and principal value will fluctuate so that Fund shares, when redeemed, may be worth more or less than their original cost. Returns do not reflect the deduction of taxes that a shareholder would pay (i) on Fund distributions or (ii) the redemption of Fund shares. Current performance may be lower or higher than the performance data quoted. All Fund returns are net of fees and expenses.

An investment in a Fund is not a deposit in a bank and is not guaranteed or insured by any government agency. The value of and income from Shares in the Fund may go up or down and you may not get back the amount you have invested in the Funds.

Investment Objective and Strategy Overview

Commodity Real Return Fund seeks to maximise total return consistent with prudent investment management by investing in derivative instruments (which may be listed or OTC), including swap agreements, futures, options on futures and structured notes and commodity index-linked notes, which enable it to gain exposures to any of the indices and sub-indices referencing commodities (including but not limited to any index within the Bloomberg Commodity family of indices) which meet with the requirements of and have; where necessary, been cleared by the Central Bank of Ireland. Details of any indices utilised by the Fund and the types of commodities they reference will be available from the Investment Advisor upon request. These instruments will provide exposure to the investment returns of the commodities markets without investing directly in physical commodities, and will be backed by an actively managed portfolio of global Fixed Income Instruments (as defined in the Prospectus). The Fund may also invest in common and preferred stocks as well as convertible securities of issuers in commodity-related industries.

Fund Insights

The following affected performance (on a gross basis) during the reporting period:

- » Exposure to broad commodities contributed to absolute performance, as broad commodities, as measured by the Bloomberg Commodity Index Total Return (BCOM), posted gains.
- » Overweight exposure to energy commodities contributed to relative performance, as these commodities outperformed the broader Bloomberg Commodity Index.
- » Overweight exposure to U.S. breakeven inflation (BEI) spreads (or the yield differential between U.S. nominal Treasuries and like-maturity U.S. TIPS) contributed to relative performance, as U.S. BEI spreads moved higher.
- » Underweight exposure to U.K. breakeven inflation (BEI) spreads (or the yield differential between U.K. nominal Treasuries and like-maturity U.K. TIPS) contributed to relative performance, as U.K. BEI spreads narrowed.
- » Overweight exposure to investment grade corporate credit contributed to relative performance, as these securities posted positive returns.
- » Underweight exposure to high yield corporate credit detracted from relative performance, as these securities posted positive returns.

Investment Objective and Strategy Overview

Emerging Markets Short-Term Local Currency Fund seeks maximum total return, consistent with preservation of capital and prudent investment management, by investing at least 80% of its assets in currencies of, or in Fixed Income Instruments (as defined in the Prospectus) denominated in currencies of, emerging markets. The Investment Advisor has a broad discretion to identify countries that it considers to qualify as emerging markets. The Investment Advisor will select the Fund's country and currency composition based on its evaluation of relative interest rates, inflation rates, exchange rates, monetary and fiscal policies, trade and current account balances, and other specific factors the Investment Advisor believes to be relevant. The Fund is likely to concentrate its investments in Asia, Africa, the Middle East, Latin America and the emerging countries of Europe. The Fund may invest in instruments whose return is based on the return of an emerging market security such as a derivative instrument, rather than investing directly in emerging market securities. The average portfolio duration of this Fund varies based on the Investment Advisor's forecast for interest rates and, under normal market conditions, is not expected to exceed two years. The Fund may invest all of its assets in high yield securities, subject to a maximum of 15% of its assets in securities rated lower than B by Moody's or S&P or equivalently rated by Fitch (or, if unrated, determined by the Investment Advisor to be of comparable quality).

Classes denominated in EUR
Institutional Accumulation (Inception 21-Apr-2006)	14.31%	8.04%
Bloomberg Barclays Euro Government (Germany, France, Netherlands) over 15 years Index <sup>2</sup>	12.81%	6.78%

Investment Objective and Strategy Overview

Euro Long Average Duration Fund seeks to maximise total return, consistent with preservation of capital and prudent investment management. The Fund seeks to achieve its investment objective by investing at least two-thirds of its assets in a diversified portfolio of Euro-denominated Fixed Income Instruments (as defined in the Prospectus). Under normal market conditions, at least two-thirds of the duration of the Fund will derive from exposure to Euro-denominated government and/or government-related Fixed Income Instruments.

Fund Insights

The following affected performance (on a gross basis) during the reporting period:

- » Interest rate strategies contributed to outperformance, primarily driven by exposure to US duration, DKK duration (via Danish mortgage exposure) and European Agencies, as yields fell globally.
- » An aggregate underweight in Core EMU duration detracted from performance, but relative losses were not large enough to offset gains in non-core EMU interest rate strategies.
- » Exposure to corporate credit in particular subordinated financial and Industrial corporates contributed to outperformance, as spreads tightened.
- » Long Exposure to a basket of high carry emerging markets contributed to performance as these currencies appreciated vs. the funding currency (USD/EUR).

Since inception benchmark return calculated since 30 June 2011.

Investment Objective and Strategy Overview

Euro Low Duration Fund seeks to maximise total return, consistent with preservation of capital and prudent investment management. The Fund seeks to achieve its investment objective by investing at least two-thirds of its assets in a diversified portfolio of Euro-denominated Fixed Income Instruments (as defined in the Prospectus) of varying maturities. The average portfolio duration of the Fund will normally vary within two years (plus or minus) of the duration of the Bloomberg Barclays Euro Aggregate ex-Treasury 1-3 Year Index.

Fund Insights

The following affected performance (on a gross basis) during the reporting period:

- » Overweight exposure to Eurozone duration contributed to relative performance, as yields fell during the performance period.
- » Positions in investment grade and high yield corporate credit, particularly financials, contributed to relative performance as spreads tightened over the performance period.
- » Overweight securitised assets, especially European mortgage backed securities contributed to relative performance as the price of these securities appreciated.
- » Overweight exposure to Danish duration detracted from relative performance, as yields rose predominantly over 4Q19.
- » Curve positioning in the US detracted from relative performance as shorter-end yields fell and longer-end yields rose over the performance period.

Investment Objective and Strategy Overview

StocksPLUS™ Fund seeks to achieve a return which exceeds the total return performance of the Standard & Poor's 500 Composite Stock Price Index ("S&P 500") by employing a proprietary portfolio management strategy, which combines an actively managed portfolio of Fixed Income Securities (as defined in the Prospectus) with an exposure to the S&P 500. The Fund may invest without limit in equity securities and securities that are convertible into equity securities.

Fund Insights

The following affected performance (on a gross basis) during the reporting period:

- » The Fund's exposure to equity index derivatives linked to the S&P 500 contributed to absolute returns over the twelve months ended December 2019 as the S&P 500 returned 31.49%.
- » The portfolio's bond alpha strategy added to returns. Highlights about the drivers of performance include the following:
  - » U.S. duration strategies added to performance where yields decreased.
  - » Short duration exposure to the U.K. detracted from performance where yields decreased.
  - » Tactical adjustments in exposure to U.S. TIPS breakeven inflation securities added to returns as inflation expectations moved in favor of our positioning.
  - » Holdings of corporate sector bonds contributed to returns as the values of these holdings increased.
  - » Holdings of Agency and Non-agency MBS contributed to returns as the values of these bonds increased.

* A new or smaller fund's performance may not represent how the fund is expected to or may perform in the long term if and when it becomes larger and has fully implemented its Investment positions may have a disproportionate impact (negative or positive) on performance in a new and smaller fund, such as the Fund. For example, the performance of certain investment strategies can benefit from purchasing smaller position sizes in certain investments (i.e., odd lot positions). The impact that these investments can have on performance may be particularly meaningful for a new and smaller fund, such as the Fund, but may not be a sustainable source of performance as the fund grows in size. New and smaller funds may also require a period of time before they are invested in securities that meet their investment objectives and policies and achieve a representative portfolio composition. Fund performance may be lower or higher during this "ramp-up" period, and may also be more volatile, than would be the case after the fund is fully invested. Similarly, a new or smaller fund's investment strategy may require a longer period of time to show returns that are representative of the strategy. New funds have limited performance histories for investors to evaluate and new and smaller funds may not attract sufficient assets to achieve investment and trading efficiencies. If a new or smaller fund were to fail to successfully implement its investment strategies or achieve its investment objective, performance may be negatively impacted, and any resulting liquidation could create negative transaction costs for the fund and tax consequences for investors.

Investment Objective and Strategy Overview

PIMCO StocksPLUS™ AR Fund seeks maximum total return consistent with prudent investment management, by using the investment advisor's proprietary portfolio management strategy known as "StocksPLUS" (which combines an actively managed portfolio of fixed income instruments with exposure to equity securities). Fixed income instruments are similar to loans and pay a fixed or variable rate of interest.

The Fund commenced operations on 29 March 2019.

Fund Insights

The following affected performance (on a gross basis) during the reporting period:

- » The Fund's exposure to equity index derivatives linked to the S&P 500 contributed to absolute returns over the nine months ended December 2019 as the S&P 500 returned 15.70%.
- » The portfolio's bond alpha strategy added to returns. Highlights about the drivers of performance include the following:
  - » U.S. duration strategies added to performance where yields decreased
  - » Tactical adjustments in exposure to U.S. TIPS breakeven inflation securities added to returns as inflation expectations moved in favor of our positioning
  - » Holdings of Investment Grade and HY corporate sector bonds contributed to returns as the values of these holdings increased
  - » Holdings of Agency and Non-agency MBS contributed to returns as the values of these bonds increased
  - » Illiquidity premia captured from purchasing smaller sized CMBS and RMBS securities (i.e., odd lot positions) and valuing them at round lot valuations contributed to performance*

1/3 each-Bloomberg Barclays Global Aggregate Credit ex-Emerging Markets, USD Hedged; ICE BofA Merrill Lynch BB-B Rated Developed Markets High Yield Constrained Index, USD Hedged; and JPMorgan EMBI Global, USD Hedged	The Bloomberg Barclays Global Aggregate Credit ex-Emerging Markets (USD Hedged) provides a broad-based measure of the global developed markets investment-grade fixed income markets. ICE BofA Merrill Lynch BB-B Rated Developed Markets High Yield Constrained Index (USD Hedged) tracks the performance of below investment grade bonds of corporate issuers domiciled in developed market countries having an investment grade foreign currency long term debt rating (based on a composite of Moody's, S&P, and Fitch). The Index includes bonds denominated in U.S. dollars, Canadian dollars, sterling, euro (or euro legacy currency), but excludes all multicurrency denominated bonds. Bonds must be rated below investment grade but at least B3 based on a composite of Moody's, S&P, and Fitch. Qualifying bonds are capitalisation weighted provided the total allocation to an individual issuer (defined by Bloomberg tickers) does not exceed 2%. Issuers that exceed the limit are reduced to 2% and the face value of each of their bonds is adjusted on a pro-rata basis. Similarly, the face value of bonds of all other issuers that fall below the 2% cap are increased on a pro-rata basis. Prior to September 25th, 2009, the ICE BofA Merrill Lynch Indices were known as the Merrill Lynch Indices. The JPMorgan EMBI Global (USD Hedged) tracks total returns for U.S. dollar-denominated debt instruments issued by emerging market sovereign and quasi-sovereign entities, Brady bonds, loans, Eurobonds and local market instruments. It is not possible to invest in an unmanaged index.

- (1) If the Fund is a seller of protection and a credit event occurs, as defined under the terms of that particular swap agreement, the Fund will either (i) pay to the buyer of protection an amount equal to the notional amount of the swap and take delivery of the referenced obligation or underlying securities comprising the referenced index or (ii) pay a net settlement amount in the form of cash, securities or other deliverable obligations equal to the notional amount of the swap less the recovery value of the referenced obligation or underlying securities comprising the referenced index.
- (2) If the Fund is a buyer of protection and a credit event occurs, as defined under the terms of that particular swap agreement, the Fund will either (i) receive from the seller of protection an amount equal to the notional amount of the swap and deliver the referenced obligation or underlying securities comprising the referenced index or (ii) receive a net settlement amount in the form of cash, securities or other deliverable obligations equal to the notional amount of the swap less the recovery value of the referenced obligation or underlying securities comprising the referenced index.
- (3) The maximum potential amount the Fund could be required to pay as a seller of credit protection or receive as a buyer of credit protection if a credit event occurs as defined under the terms of that particular swap agreement.
- (4) This instrument has a forward starting effective date. See Note 2, Securities Transactions and Investment Income, in the Notes to Financial Statements for further information.

- (1) If the Fund is a seller of protection and a credit event occurs, as defined under the terms of that particular swap agreement, the Fund will either (i) pay to the buyer of protection an amount equal to the notional amount of the swap and take delivery of the referenced obligation or underlying securities comprising the referenced index or (ii) pay a net settlement amount in the form of cash, securities or other deliverable obligations equal to the notional amount of the swap less the recovery value of the referenced obligation or underlying securities comprising the referenced index.
- (2) The maximum potential amount the Fund could be required to pay as a seller of credit protection or receive as a buyer of credit protection if a credit event occurs as defined under the terms of that particular swap agreement.
- (3) This instrument has a forward starting effective date. See Note 2, Securities Transactions and Investment Income, in the Notes to Financial Statements for further information.

- (1) If the Fund is a buyer of protection and a credit event occurs, as defined under the terms of that particular swap agreement, the Fund will either (i) receive from the seller of protection an amount equal to the notional amount of the swap and deliver the referenced obligation or underlying securities comprising the referenced index or (ii) receive a net settlement amount in the form of cash, securities or other deliverable obligations equal to the notional amount of the swap less the recovery value of the referenced obligation or underlying securities comprising the referenced index.
- (2) If the Fund is a seller of protection and a credit event occurs, as defined under the terms of that particular swap agreement, the Fund will either (i) pay to the buyer of protection an amount equal to the notional amount of the swap and take delivery of the referenced obligation or underlying securities comprising the referenced index or (ii) pay a net settlement amount in the form of cash, securities or other deliverable obligations equal to the notional amount of the swap less the recovery value of the referenced obligation or underlying securities comprising the referenced index.
- (3) The maximum potential amount the Fund could be required to pay as a seller of credit protection or receive as a buyer of credit protection if a credit event occurs as defined under the terms of that particular swap agreement.
- (4) This instrument has a forward starting effective date. See Note 2, Securities Transactions and Investment Income, in the Notes to Financial Statements for further information.

<sup>(1)</sup> If the Fund is a buyer of protection and a credit event occurs, as defined under the terms of that particular swap agreement, the Fund will either (i) receive from the seller of protection an amount equal to the notional amount of the swap and deliver the referenced obligation or underlying securities comprising the referenced index or (ii) receive a net settlement amount in the form of cash, securities or other deliverable obligations equal to the notional amount of the swap less the recovery value of the referenced obligation or underlying securities comprising the referenced index.

<sup>(2)</sup> If the Fund is a seller of protection and a credit event occurs, as defined under the terms of that particular swap agreement, the Fund will either (i) pay to the buyer of protection an amount equal to the notional amount of the swap and take delivery of the referenced obligation or underlying securities comprising the referenced index or (ii) pay a net settlement amount in the form of cash, securities or other deliverable obligations equal to the notional amount of the swap less the recovery value of the referenced obligation or underlying securities comprising the referenced index.

<sup>(3)</sup> The maximum potential amount the Fund could be required to pay as a seller of credit protection or receive as a buyer of credit protection if a credit event occurs as defined under the terms of that particular swap agreement.

- (1) If the Fund is a buyer of protection and a credit event occurs, as defined under the terms of that particular swap agreement, the Fund will either (i) receive from the seller of protection an amount equal to the notional amount of the swap and deliver the referenced obligation or underlying securities comprising the referenced index or (ii) receive a net settlement amount in the form of cash, securities or other deliverable obligations equal to the notional amount of the swap less the recovery value of the referenced obligation or underlying securities comprising the referenced index.
- (2) If the Fund is a seller of protection and a credit event occurs, as defined under the terms of that particular swap agreement, the Fund will either (i) pay to the buyer of protection an amount equal to the notional amount of the swap and take delivery of the referenced obligation or underlying securities comprising the referenced index or (ii) pay a net settlement amount in the form of cash, securities or other deliverable obligations equal to the notional amount of the swap less the recovery value of the referenced obligation or underlying securities comprising the referenced index.
- (3) The maximum potential amount the Fund could be required to pay as a seller of credit protection or receive as a buyer of credit protection if a credit event occurs as defined under the terms of that particular swap agreement.
- (4) This instrument has a forward starting effective date. See Note 2, Securities Transactions and Investment Income, in the Notes to Financial Statements for further information.

- (1) If the Fund is a buyer of protection and a credit event occurs, as defined under the terms of that particular swap agreement, the Fund will either (i) receive from the seller of protection an amount equal to the notional amount of the swap and deliver the referenced obligation or underlying securities comprising the referenced index or (ii) receive a net settlement amount in the form of cash, securities or other deliverable obligations equal to the notional amount of the swap less the recovery value of the referenced obligation or underlying securities comprising the referenced index.
- (2) If the Fund is a seller of protection and a credit event occurs, as defined under the terms of that particular swap agreement, the Fund will either (i) pay to the buyer of protection an amount equal to the notional amount of the swap and take delivery of the referenced obligation or underlying securities comprising the referenced index or (ii) pay a net settlement amount in the form of cash, securities or other deliverable obligations equal to the notional amount of the swap less the recovery value of the referenced obligation or underlying securities comprising the referenced index.
- (3) The maximum potential amount the Fund could be required to pay as a seller of credit protection or receive as a buyer of credit protection if a credit event occurs as defined under the terms of that particular swap agreement.
- (4) This instrument has a forward starting effective date. See Note 2, Securities Transactions and Investment Income, in the Notes to Financial Statements for further information.
