INVESTMENT MANAGERS' REPORTS

ECONOMIC & MARKET OVERVIEW

INTRODUCTION

Markets rose in the six months to the end of June 2017, aided by improving economic data, especially in Europe, and momentum in earnings growth. Central-bank intervention in developed markets also helped (notwithstanding interestrate rises in the US), as did expectations that a range of policies championed by US President Donald Trump could bring economic benefits. A number of markets including the S&P 500 Index and the FTSE 100 Index reached new highs during the period.

The US Federal Reserve (Fed) raised interest rates by 0.25% in both March and June following on from a similar rate increase in December 2016. The Fed cited the continued strength of US employment, with unemployment falling to record recent lows, as the rationale for the rise.

Belief in Trump's ability to deliver on an agenda encompassing tax cuts and infrastructure spending was knocked by a series of defeats in Congress. Attempts to repeal and replace former president Barack Obama's Affordable Care Act (ObamaCare) foundered. The sacking of FBI Director James Comey, who was leading an investigation into alleged links between Trump's campaign team and Russia during the presidential election, added to a mood of political uncertainty.

By the end of the period, there was concern around economic growth again as US inflation began to fall back. Oil prices declined as US shale oil and gas production reached record highs, with OPEC failing to extend production cuts among its members, and growth appearing to falter in some countries, such as the UK. Market participants became alarmed as the Fed spoke more openly about shrinking its US$4.5 trillion portfolio of mostly government debt (known as its 'balance sheet'). Comments from the Bank of England (BoE) and the European Central Bank (ECB) also seemed to suggest that an unwinding of easy money policies was not too far off

Over the year, global equity markets made progress in aggregate, with the FTSE All-World Index rising by 11.74%.

NORTH AMERICA

With the December 2016 interest-rate hike, the Fed gave guidance it would likely raise interest rate three more times through 2017. By the end of June, it had implemented two of them, bringing the benchmark lending rate to a range of 1.0% to 1.25%.

The US economy continued to show strength especially with the employment market tightening to levels not seen since 2001. Unemployment for May touched 4.3%. Non-farm payroll and private job growth figures during the period both also pointed to a tautening in the labour market in the US. (Non-farm payroll is the total number of people employed in non-agricultural businesses and is a closely watched indicator of unemployment.) Towards the end of the period, Inflation slowed as the US experienced a slowdown in consumer spending and oil prices fell back.

The Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) revised US economic growth rates for 2017 down from 2.4% to 2.1% and for 2018 from 2.8% to 2.4%. This was despite a weaker dollar boosting exports and reflected delays in Trump's plan to push ahead with planned tax cuts and infrastructure spending.

In this environment, the FTSE All-World North America Index (which includes Canada) returned 9.25%.

EUROPE

The European economy began to show encouraging signs of a sustained economic recovery in the first six months of the year. Positive sentiment towards Europe was also fostered by political developments.

For the first three months of 2017, employment across the eurozone marked a record high of 155 million people in employment. The eurozone unemployment rate for April and for May fell to 9.3%, the lowest level since March 2009.

Towards the end of the period, market participants began to speculate more roundly about the ECB's intentions on monetary policy. The ECB reduced the level of its monthly bond-buying programme in April (intended to stimulate the economy), by €20bn to €60bn. Mario Draghi, the president of the ECB, suggested that tapering of monetary policy was still not an immediate priority but also emphasised a well-entrenched recovery included a return to inflation in the economy.

On the political front, there were victories for the incumbent mainstream party in the Netherlands, which defeated far-right opponents. In the French presidential election, Emmanuel Macron secured a victory over the far-right candidate Marine Le Pen. Macron's rise to power was all the more remarkable given that his party, En Marche, only came into being in April 2016.

EUROPE cont'd.

The other distraction was the official request from the UK to leave the EU, by the triggering of Article 50 of the Lisbon Treaty. Formal talks began in April but were put on the sidelines during the UK's general election, which saw Theresa May lose her overall majority and effectively weaken her 'hard' stance in the Brexit negotiations. May was forced to seek a 'confidence and supply' arrangement with Northern Ireland's Democratic Unionist Party.

Late in the period, there was relief as Greece agreed funding with eurozone finance ministers for a further tranche of money to help it repay creditors in July.

Against this backdrop, the FTSE All-World Europe ex UK Index returned -2.09%. The UK stock market outperformed most of its continental peers, with the FTSE All-World UK Index returning 8.89% in euro terms.

ASIA

Although it seemed that much of the economic action and political focus was on Western markets, Asian markets performed well. Economic growth continued to be resilient across the major Asian economies. The International Monetary Fund (IMF) raised its forecast for growth for the Asian region in 2017 from 5.3% to 5.5%.

China maintained its growth rate above the 6.5% level. Economic growth for the first three months of 2017 came in at 6.9% compared to the previous quarter's 6.7% and marked the highest rate of growth since the third quarter of 2015. Both industrial output and consumer spending were buoyant. The IMF raised its growth expectations for China from 6.6% to 6.7% for 2017.

However, ratings agency Moody's cut China's sovereign rating in May due to concerns about debt levels and the slowing economy. This was the first ratings cut experienced by China in 30 years. At the end of the period, the market was buoyed by the long-awaited admission of select Chinese stocks to the MSCI Emerging Markets Index.

Japan experienced some recovery in economic terms with generally positive PMI data and a sizeable revision to economic growth forecasts for 2017 from the IMF, from 0.8% to 1.2%. Other data — including machinery orders, industrial production and retail sales — remained relatively volatile.

In Australia, where the economy has avoided recession since 1991, there were signs of some slowing, with a first-quarter growth rate of just 0.3%. Business investment levels shrank as did trade.

In South Korea, President Park Geun-hye was impeached on corruption charges, paving the way for liberal politician Moon Jae-in to become the new president.

Against this backdrop, the FTSE All-World Asia Pacific ex Japan Index returned 18.47% over the period. The FTSE All-World Japan Index returned 2.29%, in Japanese yen terms.

FIXED INCOME

Towards the end of the period, statements emanating from the likes of the ECB hinted that important changes in prevailing monetary policy might be close and caused bond yields to rise. A closer vote than expected at the BoE's Monetary Policy Committee meeting in June gave rise to speculation that its policy of ultra-loose interest rates might be drawing to a close.

Corporate bonds and particularly high yield bonds (those with a rating below BBB by the credit rating agency Standard & Poor's) generally performed well as spreads tightened over the period, reflecting more confidence concerning economic growth.

The Fed was the only key central bank to embark upon interest rate hikes, raising interest rates twice, in March and in June.

Over the six months as a whole, the JP Morgan Global Government Bond (Unhedged) Index increased by 4.07%.

CURRENCY AND COMMODITIES

The euro was the main major currency to show strength over the period as economic growth rates in Europe recovered, especially among eurozone nations. The US dollar weakened as investors and commentators alike softened their expectations around Trump's expansionary policies and in spite of higher domestic interest rates. The yen was marginally weaker against the US dollar over the period – and this provided support to Japanese exporters.

Commodity prices were weaker in aggregate over the six months to June. The oil price fell away in the final months of the period due to excess supply, with Brent crude falling below US$45 per barrel. OPEC, having successfully implemented production cuts across all its members in late 2016, found it difficult to extend those cuts towards mid-year. Nigeria and Libya boosted their production levels while US shale oil and gas production levels hit new highs.

Other commodity prices such as iron ore followed the oil price down having rallied hard in the final months of 2016. Copper was an exception, with pricing remaining steady.

All performance data is from 1 January 2017 to 30 June 2017, total return in US dollar terms unless otherwise indicated, sourced from Lipper Hindsight and Bloomberg.

ABSOLUTE RETURN & TOTAL RETURN

BNY MELLON ABSOLUTE INSIGHT FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's S share class returned 0.09%, compared with a return of -0.18% for 1-month EURIBOR, both in euro terms.

The Fund invests across five underlying absolute return strategies, four of which made positive contributions. Only the currency strategy was negative for performance.

The credit strategy added the most to performance following a strong period for credit markets and the manager's overall long bias. (Credit refers to fixed-income instruments issued by non-government entities, such as corporates.) Allocations to asset-backed securities, high yield and investment grade corporates and financials, remained relatively steady and each performed well at different points. (High yield is debt rated below BBB by the credit rating agency Standard & Poor's. Investment grade debt is rated BBB and above by the same credit rating agency.) The emerging market debt strategy also generated a strong positive contribution, supported by a broadening global recovery and a moderation in US inflation. Local rates in terms of duration positioning (a measure of a bond's sensitivity to changes in interest rates) generated the largest contribution to performance, with external government, external corporate and local currency corporate debt also recording gains. The dynamic opportunities strategy also contributed positively due to positions focused on generating stable returns. The absolute return equity strategy was also positive as performance was driven by a range of stock specific positions. The currency strategy was a negative contributor, largely as a result of long US dollar positions over a period when the currency weakened. (A long position is the buying of a currency with the expectation that it will rise in value. A short position is the reverse.)

Insight Investment Management (Global) Limited July 2017

BNY MELLON ABSOLUTE RETURN BOND FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's S share class returned -0.18%, compared with a return of -0.16% for EURIBOR 3 Months, both in euro terms.

The Fund generated a negative return and slightly underperformed its performance reference.

With inflation relatively subdued, government bond yields moved in a relatively tight range over the period before spiking in June on signs that several central banks could be contemplating interest-rate increases.

Market allocation was a material detractor, largely due to relative value positions. These came to the fore particularly in June, when two relative value positions — long German bunds and Australian government bonds, both held against short 10-year US Treasuries — were negative as US Treasuries generally sold off by less than other markets. The Fund's exposure to US inflation expectations was also a detractor. With regard to currency positions, exposure was generally limited but marginal losses each month resulted in a negative contribution over the six months as a whole.

The long positions in investment-grade credit and asset-backed securities (ABS) were positive over the period. (Investment grade is debt rated BBB and above by the credit rating agency Standard & Poor's. ABS are bonds backed by financial assets.) Duration positioning was also positive but the contribution to performance was volatile: the manager actively managed short positions in the US and Europe. (Duration is a measure of the sensitivity of the price of a fixed-income investment to a change in interest rates.) The Fund's small emerging-market debt exposure recorded gains over much of the period.

The manager took a number of measures over the period to adjust the Fund's positioning across its various strategies. This involved dealing in the debt securities of various banks. In particular, the Fund ended the six-month period with a positive duration position having been short for much of it.

In the US, there are expectations of a relatively gentle continuation of interest-rate rises by the Federal Reserve (Fed). However, apart from the macroeconomic picture, three structural factors have led the manager to adopt a short position: an expected increase in the government's debt funding needs; relatively hawkish potential new members of the Fed; and the clear intention of the Fed to reduce its balance sheet. (The Fed has a dual mandate to maximise employment and maintain low inflation. A 'hawk' is a member of the Federal Open Market Committee who places more emphasis on the inflation goal.) In Europe, the European Central Bank is expected to announce a tapering of its asset purchases in the second half of the year. In the UK, political uncertainty has increased following the general election and the course of future monetary policy remains difficult to predict.

The manager continues to have a modestly constructive view towards investment-grade credit. The manager sees value in European banks, where capital ratios are still recovering from financial crisis levels. In ABS, the manager continues to believe the long-term strategic value of the asset class is strong. The manager maintains a positive view on credit markets and believes that rising interest rates will be benign for credit provided market movements and interest-rate hikes remain orderly.

BNY MELLON ABSOLUTE RETURN EQUITY FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's R share class returned 0.53% compared with a return of 0.13% for LIBOR GBP 1 Month, both in sterling terms.

The performance of equity markets was generally supported by positive economic data. Political uncertainty in Europe and the US weighed somewhat on investor sentiment, including a growing belief that President Donald Trump would struggle to implement pro-growth policy proposals. Sentiment regarding the policy of central banks also continued to drive markets.

Fund returns were driven by a range of positions as the manager continued to run tight hedges to try to insulate the Fund from the risk of market fluctuations. (Hedging is aimed at minimising or eliminating risk.) One pair trade that performed well was a long position in Vivendi, hedged with market and media sector instruments. The manager's thesis is that the share price undervalues the music business, given the expected growth in music streaming. Another strong contributor was a long position in the product testing company Eurofins as the company's revenue growth accelerated from a fourth-quarter low. The position was mostly hedged against the healthcare sector. Conversely, packaging company RPC's shares were affected by a rights issue used to fund an acquisition. (A rights issue is when new shares are made available to existing shareholders.)

Looking ahead, the manager believes investors are in transition towards a world where markets dance to more than one tune; this will mean investors will have to tolerate varying levels of risk and the diffusion of stock returns. This scenario could play to the strengths of active stock picking, although this will take time and the manager expects higher volatility ahead.

BNY MELLON DYNAMIC TOTAL RETURN FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's A share class returned 3.34% in US dollar terms.

The Fund generated a positive total return due to gains from assets with growth and defensive characteristics.

Global equities had a strong start to 2017 and hit a series of record highs as firm global economic data and strong earnings supported investors' appetite for risk. The Fund's long position in US equities provided the most returns. The S&P 500 Index had one of its strongest first halves on record. A rally in technology stocks, notably the large-cap 'FANG' stocks, led the S&P 500 Index. ('FANG' is the acronym for Facebook, Amazon, Netflix and Google.)

Long positions in eurozone and Japanese equities also added to returns. Declining political risk and strong earnings growth aided eurozone stocks, while Japanese stocks benefited from record first-quarter earnings.

A long position in US Treasuries drove the gain from defensive assets, as a pause in the 'reflation trade' along with somewhat mixed economic and inflation data helped US Treasury bonds gain for the period. (The 'reflation trade' refers to the boost in output that the fiscal policies of the administration of Donald Trump seek to achieve.) A long position in Australian bonds also added to returns as yields in Australia moved lower along with Treasuries.

Diversifying assets detracted due to currency allocations. Short positions in the euro and sterling cost the most return as both currencies rose against the long position in the US dollar. (With a short position, an investor enters into an agreement to sell a currency for a predetermined price on a specified future date. The trading strategy is aimed at taking advantage of an expected fall in the value of the currency. A long position is the reverse.) The US dollar fell against all G10 currencies during the period as doubts grew about the ability of the Trump administration to enact pro-growth proposals. (G10 is G7 plus Switzerland, Belgium, the Netherland and Sweden. The Group of Seven or G7 comprises the US, Japan, Germany, the UK, France, Italy and Canada.)

BNY MELLON GLOBAL DYNAMIC BOND FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's A share class returned 1.58%, compared with a return of 1.47% for LIBOR 1 Month + 200bps, both in US dollar terms.

The Fund generated a positive return and outperformed its cash reference.

The six months to the end of June saw a modest recovery in bond markets in aggregate following the marked sell-off after Donald Trump's election in November. Government-bond yields moved in a tight range, expectations for global growth were upbeat and diminishing anxieties about US monetary policy enabled both government bonds and corporate-debt holdings to generate positive returns over the period.

Investment-grade credit made a notably positive contribution to performance, aided by stable spreads and a favourable underlying yield backdrop (particularly for sterling credit amid UK Gilt-curve flattening). (Investment grade is debt rated BBB and above by the credit rating agency Standard & Poor's. The spread on bonds is usually expressed as the yield difference between bonds of the same maturity but different credit quality. A spread measures how much more a business pays to borrow money than the government does. The yield curve is the graphic depiction of the relationship between the yield on bonds of the same credit quality but with different maturities. It can be used as an indicator of future interest rates.)

Government bonds, in particular US Treasuries, also produced positive returns, aided by a bias towards long bonds, which outperformed 10-year issuance as the US Treasury curve flattened in the final months of the period amid falling headline inflation. Tightening spreads on expectations of rising US and European growth ensured high-yield credit also added modestly to returns.

A bias towards financials and away from the long end of the curve proved beneficial in the final few months, as bank debt generally outperformed with improving European growth, and yield-curve steepening boosted profitability.

Sovereign debt in the emerging markets also boosted returns with local currency exposure in Peru, Poland and, in particular, Mexico contributing positively as headline inflation showed signs of peaking in these markets and as spreads continued to tighten.

A notable single-issuer drag on performance came from Agrokor 2020 holdings in the first quarter, amid uncertainty surrounding management's execution of asset sales compounded by subsequent evidence of accounting irregularities.

Short positioning in the Turkish lira and latterly the South African rand (versus the US dollar and Indonesian rupiah respectively) in the first three month of 2017 generated strong positive returns, which more than offset losses attributable to short South Korean won exposure. (With a short position, an investor enters into an agreement to sell a currency for a predetermined price on a specified future date. The trading strategy is aimed at taking advantage of an expected fall in the value of the currency. A long position is the reverse.)

Long European currency exposure (including long Swedish krona and Czech koruna positions) enabled the Fund to profit from stronger European growth and receding regional political risks, particularly following Emmanuel Macron's French presidential election victory.

Short-duration hedges on US Treasuries and Italian government bonds detracted from returns, as US government-borrowing costs continued to decline over the period, while Italian sovereign yields declined amid easing political concerns. (Duration is a measure of the sensitivity of the price of a fixed-income investment to a change in interest rates. Hedges are a type of protection against financial risk.)

In terms of activity, range-bound US Treasuries and more 'dovish' US Federal Reserve (Fed) rhetoric prompted an increase in headline duration (from 2.8 years to 3.2 years) in the first quarter, aided by the addition of US Treasury 2026 holdings. (The Fed has a dual mandate to maximise employment and maintain low inflation. A 'dove' is a member of the Federal Open Market Committee who places more emphasis on the employment goal. A 'hawk' places more emphasis on the inflation goal.) Meanwhile, the Fund reduced exposure to TIPS (Treasury Inflation-Protected Securities) in favour of greater conventional Treasury holdings, as inflation expectations softened with the peaking of year-on-year base effects from the rise in energy prices.

Following a strong rally in energy/infrastructure-linked sub-investment-grade debt after the US presidential election, the Fund took profits on several of its high-yield credit holdings, including Cemex 2021, Antero 2023 and Range Resources 2023. Range-bound Treasuries, stable global growth and reduced US foreign policy concerns prompted a significant increase in the Fund's emerging-market government-bond exposure, aided by hard-currency and local-currency emerging-market ETF (exchange-traded fund) purchases.

With sovereign yields drifting lower for much of the second quarter, despite relatively hawkish central-bank rhetoric, the manager reduced headline duration to 2.6 years over the period. US Treasury duration was reduced with the sale of 2026 holdings early in the period, while taking profits on a portion of the strategy's US long bond (2045) holdings in June, following a period of curve flattening.

Elsewhere, low Indian inflation, attractive real yields and ongoing structural reforms supported the addition of a new rupee-denominated 'Masala' bond from National Highways Authority of India (2022) in May.

US dollar exposure remained modest over the period amid low US headline inflation and expectations of narrowing interest-rate differentials versus many European currencies. Profits were taken on short sterling positions following more hawkish Monetary Policy Committee rhetoric and an imminent peak in currency-related inflation following last year's depreciation in the wake of the UK's decision to leave the European Union.

BNY MELLON GLOBAL OPPORTUNISTIC BOND FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's A share class returned 3.02%, compared with a return of 0.56% for LIBOR USD 3-Month, both in US dollar terms.

The US Federal Reserve (Fed) continued with its policy of interest-rate 'normalisation' by raising interest rates both in March and in June. Central banks in other developed economies are holding off from similar action for now but market participants are beginning to factor in expectations of higher rates and the tapering of quantitative easing. (Quantitative easing is intended to create new money for use in the economy.)

Overall duration in the Fund stood at 1.46 years at the end of June and broadly positioned for a steeper yield curve and underweight the intermediate and long end of the curve in favour of the short end. (Duration is a measure of the sensitivity of the price of a fixed-income investment to a change in interest rates. The yield curve is the graphic depiction of the relationship between the yield on bonds of the same credit quality but with different maturities. It can be used as an indicator of future interest rates.) Specific country duration underweights include Germany where, for the manager, rates still appear unrealistically tight in comparison to the US and certain other developed and emerging-market government bond markets.

Peripheral European government bond markets have performed well since the French presidential election in April and the Fund's holding in Portuguese government debt was accretive to performance as spreads to 10-year German Bunds collapsed through the second quarter 2017.

The Fund initiated an outright short duration position to the UK in expectation of a more hawkish Bank of England response to rising inflation and increased Gilt supply as the country looks to fund the eventual Brexit 'divorce bill' – the amount the UK will have to pay as part of its decision to leave the EU. (A 'hawk' is a policy maker who favours higher interest rates in the hope of curbing inflation.) Long duration exposures comprise intermediate US, 3-year Australia and New Zealand rates markets in developed economies and several local rates positions in emerging economies including Argentina, Mexico, South Korea and South Africa. The Fund has a positive view on emerging markets, with allocation favouring local currency versus hard currency.

Allocations to investment-grade and high-yield corporates helped performance as credit spread markets narrowed through the six-month period with exposure standing at around 27% split broadly 50:50 between investment grade and high yield as at June 2017. (Investment grade is debt rated BBB and above by the credit rating agency Standard & Poor's; high yield is debt rated below BBB. The spread on bonds is usually expressed as the yield difference between bonds of the same maturity but different credit quality. A spread measures how much more a business pays to borrow money than the government does.)

The Fund reduced its exposure to securitised bonds over the period with its holdings in asset-backed securities (ABS), commercial mortgage-backed securities and collateralised mortgage obligations being pared 5% to 18% by the end of June. (Securitised assets are the pooling of assets, such as mortgages, into securities that are divided up and sold to investors.) ABS remains the largest allocation, principally split across auto loans and other consumer finance programmes.

The manager continues to expect steady global expansion pulled along by above-trend growth in the US and China. The manager is mindful of risk and is positioned accordingly.

BNY MELLON GLOBAL REAL RETURN FUND (EUR)

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's A share class returned 2.19%, compared with a return of 1.82% for EURIBOR 1 Month + 400bps, both in euro terms.

The Fund generated a positive return and was ahead of its performance reference.

Global equity markets performed strongly over the period underpinned by recovering economic growth, stronger company earnings and generally still loose monetary policy, in spite of rising interest rates in the US. Government bonds and corporate-debt holdings generated positive returns over the period. As the period drew to a close, European Central Bank President Mario Draghi seemed to suggest that monetary stimulation would be gradually reduced, which caused bond and equity markets to take fright, leading to a spike in volatility.

The Fund benefited especially in the first three months of 2017 from the reversal of some of the investor optimism in Donald Trump's ability to generate the growth he has promised. Market euphoria dissipated somewhat and investors began to concentrate more on fundamentals.

The Fund's return-seeking assets made a positive contribution, particularly from equities, while corporate bonds made a marginally positive one. The Fund's stabilising assets and hedging positions, in particular currency hedging, also made an albeit smaller positive contribution. This was largely as a result of hedging non-euro exposure back to the base currency of the Fund. (Hedging is a type of protection against financial risk.) A position in Mexican government bonds also had a positive influence on returns. Derivative instruments were the main detractors to returns, largely because of the cost of significant equity protection implemented in the Fund.

BNY MELLON GLOBAL REAL RETURN FUND (EUR) cont'd. The holding in South Korean lithium-battery manufacturer Samsung SDI was a strong positive contributor over the period. Leading stock contributors also included information-services business Wolters Kluwer, tobacco company Reynolds American and healthcare company Roche Holdings. Vodafone Group and media-holdings RELX and Vivendi were also among the top contributors.

On the negative side was the holding in Teva Pharmaceutical Industries, which suffered as the company lowered its profit forecast for the year amid increased pressure on drug pricing. Positions in UK utility company Centrica, electrical retailer Dixons Carphone and manufacturer Cobham also had a negative impact on overall returns.

In terms of activity, additions were made in a broad range of companies about which other market participants had changed their view making them cheaper. These include US retailer Dollar General, Dong Energy and Associated British Foods (the owners of Primark). Elsewhere, the manager added equity exposure in emerging markets, buying positions in both retailer Walmart de Mexico and Indian tobacco company ITC.

Emerging-market debt is a relatively new asset class within the Fund and an area the manager added to during the period. The primary reason for initiating a holding in Mexican government bonds was the 'perfect storm' that affected Mexico in the wake of Trump's election victory. Trump's rhetoric led to a sell-off in both government bonds and the Mexican peso in a short period. This created an attractive entry point in terms of both the bond price and the currency.

Strong performance allowed the manager to take some profits in technology holdings, such as Microsoft, SAP and Samsung SDI. The stock prices of such companies had benefited from equity market optimism following Trump's election – a degree of profit taking was deemed prudent.

Elsewhere, gold equity exposure was reduced and was reinvested back into physical gold.

In the manager's view, a number of significant hazards exist, including China's efforts to lower risk in its economy and financial system, which is likely to have an effect on economic momentum globally. The manager also believes any withdrawal of monetary stimulus by central banks will need to be done gradually, owing to the fragility of the economic backdrop, thereby reducing the likelihood of a sustained pick-up in bond yields.

The Fund has a positive view on emerging markets, with allocation favouring local currency versus hard currency and together reaching 25.3% by period end, an increase of nearly 4% since year end.

Allocations to investment-grade and high-yield corporates helped performance as credit spread markets narrowed through the six-month period, with exposure standing at around 23.5% split broadly 70:30 between investment grade and high yield as at June 2017. (Investment grade is debt rated BBB and above by the credit rating agency Standard & Poor's; high yield is debt rated below BBB. BNY MELLON GLOBAL EQUITY FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's A share class returned 10.06%, compared with a return of 11.48% for the MSCI All-Country World Index NR and 11.61% for the Lipper Global Equity Global sector, all in US dollar terms.

The Fund produced a positive return but was behind the comparative index and the sector average. While asset allocation was a positive influence on returns, stock selection detracted from performance.

Global equity markets continued to rally in 2017 following their strong run in the latter half of 2016. Evidence of recovering economic growth in the hitherto relatively depressed regions of Japan and Europe encouraged market participants, as did improving earnings momentum and political developments, especially in Europe.

The 'Trump factor' – the hope harboured by many that the new president will be able to reinvigorate and reflate the US economy, and maybe even the global economy – was a significant influence on sentiment, although this effect was waning by the end of the period.

Sector allocations relative to the comparative index made a positive contribution. An underweight position to energy aided performance as the oil price pulled back, while the relative positioning to financials, telecommunications and health care also provided a modest lift.

Stock selection was the primary source of underperformance, notably so in information technology, consumer discretionary (non-essential goods and services) and healthcare.

Within healthcare, Teva Pharmaceutical Industries lowered its profit forecast for the year amid increased pressure on drug pricing and greater competition for its Copaxone drug. A greater than forecast reduction in the hepatitis-C portion of Gilead Sciences business proved detrimental. Technology company Western Union detracted from returns, weighed down by the uncertainty relating to the proposed acquisition of the number two player in the industry, MoneyGram, by Ant Financial, the parent group of Alipay.

Align Technology, an innovative player in the orthodontics market, was the Fund's top contributor as it reported a resoundingly strong set of results for the first quarter, with sales up nearly a third. The company continues to perform well and second-quarter guidance was welcomed by market participants. Unilever's share price reacted strongly to an offer from Kraft Heinz. In spite of the latter's decision to walk away from the proposed transaction, the aborted deal has pressurised Unilever management into pushing harder to create shareholder value. One of the Fund's best performers over the reporting period was Apple. The stock surged after quarterly results with revenue ahead of the market's expectations.

One of the key additions to the Fund was Indiabulls Housing Finance. The company's structural growth story was given additional support by the government's announcement of an expansion of its affordable housing scheme. Another new addition was Bangkok Bank. The stock trades on an appealing valuation and has an extremely strong balance sheet and good liquidity. In addition, the Fund purchased Allied Irish Banks (AIB), which continues to benefit from Ireland's growth-friendly macroeconomic situation, and, following eight years of balance-sheet reduction under state ownership, looks set to return to growth by the end of this year. The Fund purchased Newell Brands, a diversified consumer products group. The manager is confident cost savings can drive significant earnings growth and, as the largest player in fragmented product categories, there is scope for market-share gains.

In terms of sales, the Fund sold out of Toyota Motor. Although the company remains stable with an attractive dividend, its main profit driver, the US market, has plateaued. Dun & Bradstreet was also removed from the portfolio. At the valuation level, the market is already discounting the beginnings of success of the business-services company's IT transformation. The Fund sold industrial gas supplier Air Liquide after some strong performance. The company's valuation had moved to reflect fully the synergies from its acquisition of Airgas, as well as some pricing benefit from a more consolidated industry.

The Fund produced a positive return but was behind the comparative index and sector average. This pattern has been observed during periods of strongly rising markets owing to the portfolio's relatively defensive positioning. Asset allocation contributed positively to overall returns but stock selection was a drag on performance.

Global equity markets continued to rally in 2017 following their strong run in the latter half of 2016. The 'Trump factor' – the hope harboured by many that the new president will be able to reinvigorate and reflate the US economy, and maybe even the global economy – was a significant influence on sentiment, although this effect was waning by the end of the period.

In terms of asset allocation, the Fund especially benefited from the underweight exposure to the oil and gas sector. There was a market shift towards the more defensive sectors in the final three months of the period, as banks, miners and oil and gas underperformed, while healthcare performed better. This environment was broadly supportive for the Fund.

The overweight position to consumer goods was a positive, with a number of the Fund's holdings in the sector performing strongly. Consumer products company Unilever was also strong, after being the subject of an attempted takeover by Kraft Heinz. While Unilever swiftly rejected the bid, it has been the catalyst for a comprehensive review of how the company can accelerate delivery of value to shareholders. Tobacco company Philip Morris International announced a robust set of full-year results, as well as guiding for 2017 results to be ahead of consensus. French media company TF1 (Television Francaise 1) was also strong after posting good results amid signs that the French television market is starting to recover from its trough.

A key detractor was money-transfer business Western Union. The company agreed to pay US$586m to settle antimoney laundering and consumer fraud charges relating to compliance failures during the period 2004-2012; these were known to the market but the fine amount was substantially above the US$30m provision in the accounts. Elsewhere, toymaker Mattel was a further negative contributor, after reporting a decline in sales and earnings. Aerospace and defence group Cobham was a negative contributor after it cancelled its dividend and issued a profit warning. (Cobham was sold following the dividend cut, which invoked the Fund's sell discipline.) Within technology, a number of large index constituents including Apple, Facebook and Amazon all saw significant gains in their share prices. The Fund is unable to hold these companies as they do not meet its vield criteria.

In terms of activity, a holding in Gilead Sciences was initiated in the first quarter. The company has developed an extremely efficient business model and, consequently, has strong cash-flow generation. A position was initiated in Total, the French integrated oil and gas company. The manager believes the company should continue to benefit from deflation in the cost of services and a build-up in its cash flow. While remaining firmly underweight the financials sector, a further addition was Israel's Bank Hapoalim, the Fund's first bank holding in almost two years.

The company has achieved an improvement in margins and a strong build-up in its capital ratio, and has a globally leading leverage ratio of over 7%. (The leverage ratio is a financial measure to assess the ability to meet financial obligations.) Sales included tobacco company Imperial Brands. It was the least-favoured tobacco holding in the portfolio, owing to its lack of growth and balance-sheet debt. Swiss-based recruitment business Adecco was also sold following strong performance leaving the valuation looking unattractive.

BNY MELLON GLOBAL LEADERS FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's A share class returned 12.99% compared with a return of 10.51% for the MSCI World Large Cap NR USD and 11.61% for the Lipper Global Equity Global sector, all in US dollar terms.

The Fund generated a positive return and outperformed its comparative index.

Entering 2017, the stage was set for another politically tumultuous year, with a wave of anti-establishment politics gathering momentum. Hot on the heels of the UK's decision to leave the EU and Donald Trump's election victory, that populist insurgency had set its sights on Europe. The opening acts of 2017, elections in the Netherlands and France, did not live up to that billing but Germany will be the next one to watch in September.

Regardless of the political developments unfolding around the world, the manager believes comfort should be taken from the resilience of the companies owned within the Fund. Indeed, there has continued to be encouraging news flow from many of the companies held.

A case in point is CSL, the Australian life science company. It was the best performing stock over the period, following the announcement that it expects to nearly double its net profit growth for the year. The Fund's sole financial holding, AIA Group, was also a significant individual contributor, its performance underpinned by strong growth in new business.

Meanwhile, the energy sector was the largest absolute detractor with Schlumberger, EOG Resources and Suncor being the three weakest holdings in the Fund. This was driven by declines in the oil price rather than any stock-specific news. In fact, results from all three during the period were strong, particularly considering their operating environment. In the near term, the debate on the future direction of oil prices hinges on the extent of the recovery in US oil supply and the anticipated response from OPEC.

While the manager leaves predicting macroeconomic events to others, it would seem safe to assume that the 'noise' in equity markets, political or otherwise, should be expected to continue. It will most likely bring more volatility. Regardless, the manager's conviction in the Fund's global-leading companies remains resolute, underpinned by belief in their internal wealth creation prospects.

BNY MELLON GLOBAL OPPORTUNITIES FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's A share class returned 7.62%, compared with a return of 11.48% for the MSCI All-Country World Index NR and 11.61% for the Lipper Global Equity Global sector, all in US dollar terms.

The Fund generated a positive return but was behind the comparative index and the sector average.

TripAdvisor detracted from performance over the period as it posted earnings and revenue results that missed estimates. The business model transition from only being a review site to becoming a booking site as well has cost more and taken longer than the manager, and the market, had originally expected. Money-transfer business Western Union was a laggard over the reporting period partly due to a larger-than-expected US$586m fine for historic antimoney laundering process failures. Within healthcare, the weak performance of two stocks, Teva Pharmaceutical Industries and Gilead Sciences, affected returns. The former lowered its profit forecast for the year amid increased pressure on generic drug pricing and recent senior manager turnover. Gilead Sciences experienced a lacklustre period following a forecast cut for the hepatitis C portion of the business, primarily because their drug is more effective at curing patients than had previously been thought.

Consumer goods company Unilever was a top performer as the share price reacted strongly to an offer from Kraft Heinz. In spite of the latter's decision to walk away from the proposed transaction, the aborted deal looks set to pressurise Unilever management into pushing harder to improve profitability. One of the Fund's best-performing stocks was Walmart de Mexico. The Mexican market and the currency had been very weak in the final quarter of 2016, in the wake of Donald Trump's election, but as 2017 progressed, sentiment recovered causing Mexican equities and the peso to rally, with Walmart de Mexico benefiting strongly. Within technology, SAP performed well, aided by its competitive position, strong balance sheet and expanding addressable market. Apple surged after it published results with revenue ahead of the market's expectations, having previously reported its first sales decline in more than a decade. Publisher RELX made a strong contribution as positive trends in publishing look set to continue.

In terms of activity, the manager initiated a position in clothing business Ralph Lauren. Profitability is currently at a low ebb due to past over-expansion but there are signs that progress in turning the brand around this is already well underway. The manager bought shares in Allied Irish Banks (AIB), which continues to benefit from Ireland's steady macroeconomic recovery, and, following eight years of balance-sheet reduction under state ownership, looks set to return to growth by the end of this year. Newell Brands, a diversified consumer products group, was added to the portfolio. The manager believes cost savings after the recent acquisition of a rival can drive significant earnings growth and, as the largest player in fragmented product categories, there is scope for market-share gains which should be enough to sustain a strong cash-flow growth profile in the medium term. The market consensus does not reflect this and the valuation therefore seems attractive. The large holding in Vivendi was reduced having performed well this year. Given the large gains achieved by a number of the strategy's information technology holdings, the manager decided to reduce positions in Apple, Microsoft and Alphabet.

BNY MELLON LONG-TERM GLOBAL EQUITY FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's A share class returned 2.57%, compared with a return of 2.33% for the MSCI World Index NR and 3.21% for the Lipper Global Equity Global sector, all in euro terms.

The Fund generated a positive return and outperformed its comparative index.

At the beginning of 2017 hope was high on the investor agenda across global equity markets. The dominant US equity market set the tone and led the way, with growing expectations around a multitude of pro-business steps that might come under the administration of President Donald Trump.

After a number of years of subdued activity, Europe contributed to the improved momentum as the macroeconomic environment there seems to be less bad than many had expected. With a number of elections taking place in key European countries, these have, so far, failed to cause any significant upheaval for the economic union. Within the Fund, Europe ex UK holdings were the largest absolute contributors, with LVMH one of the top performers.

Other significant contributors over the period included CSL, Intuitive Surgical and Cerner. In the manager's view, each of these demonstrated particularly strong fundamentals during the period, highlighting impressive growth credentials and positive momentum in each of the businesses.

Less positively, there has been further volatility in the oil price amid concerns that, despite OPEC and others' best efforts, there continues to be a global oversupply of crude oil. This inevitably had an impact on the sector as well as the Fund's related holdings including Schlumberger, EOG Resources and CNOOC. This despite the fact that there has been no change in the fundamental rationale for any of these three. Irrespective of such sector-specific market moves, the manager believes the Fund's constituents display a healthy mix of attractive growth, superior profitability, robust balance sheets and reasonable valuations.

REGIONAL & SPECIALIST EQUITY

BNY MELLON ASIA RISING STARS FUND

The Fund was launched on 10 January 2017.

Over the review period since its inception, the Fund's A share class returned 15.57%, compared with a return of 12.40% for the MSCI All Country Asia Small Cap TR and 14.01% for the Lipper Global Equity Asia Pacific Small & Mid Cap over the same period, all in US dollar terms.

The Fund held 75 stocks in the Asian Equity ex-Japan portion and 30 stocks in Japan small-cap section as of the end of the period.

The Asian Equity ex-Japan portion of the Fund had a strong first half. The Fund's positions in Indonesian and Philippines banks, Chinese consumer discretionary (non-essential goods and services) and Taiwanese technology were the key contributors to performance for the period. From a country perspective, India, Hong Kong/China and Taiwan were the key contributors to performance.

The manager continues to remain positive on the outlook for small- and mid-cap stocks in Asia as it is home to a very broad spectrum of countries, sectors and countries all at different stages of development. This provides investors in the region with a very large canvas from which to pick stocks and one that is likely to get larger as more companies list in order to raise capital, for instance.

For the Japan small-cap portion of the Fund, positive contributors to performance were services and information and communication where the Fund was overweight and banks where the Fund was underweight. Detractors were the overweight positions to electric appliances, nonferrous metals and chemicals.

The manager believes the mid- to longer term prospects for the Japanese equity market remain attractive as the domestic economy is at a rare transitional phase, moving from a period of contraction to one of expansion. The market has had a good recovery over the last 12 months but over a longer time horizon still lags the recovery in earnings since the financial crisis. While Japan will be affected by global developments or events, the country has a large domestic base and can weather such turbulence much better than most economies. Contrary to Japan's image as export dependent, reliance in terms of GDP is much smaller than most countries in Asia or Europe. The manager expects the Fund to continue to be overweight in companies that benefit from the longer term recovery of the domestic part of the economy, not just exporters.

BNY MELLON ASIAN EQUITY FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's A share class returned 21.80%, compared with a return of 19.93% for the MSCI All-Country Asia Pacific ex Japan Index TR and 19.63% for the Lipper Global Equity Asia Pacific Ex Japan sector, all in US dollar terms.

The Fund generated a positive return and was ahead of both the comparative index and sector. Stock selection was a key driver of performance.

Global equity markets forged ahead in the first six months of 2017 with Asia ex-Japan markets rebounding strongly. In this, recovering economic growth, stronger earnings momentum and generally loose monetary policy by authorities, all played a part.

China's economic activity continued to be relatively robust with data ahead of expectations. This led economic institutions, such as the International Monetary Fund (IMF), to raise their 2017 economic growth forecast.

In India, a poorly implemented policy of removing smaller denomination bank notes from circulation (demonetisation) affected the economy in the final three months of 2016. There were signs of a recovery of growth even as inflation touched new lows.

Political developments were to the fore in South Korea where President Park Guen-hye was impeached and removed from office. However, this did not prevent the market performing, supported by foreign inflows and strong economic data.

Indiabulls Housing Finance was the strongest individual performer. The company's structural growth story was given additional support by the government's announcement of an expansion of its affordable housing scheme. Indian tobacco and consumer goods company ITC was also a positive contributor, rallying on the back of more positive expectations regarding the new Goods and Services Tax (VAT) proposals and reduced concerns over the effects of demonetisation. Indian company Vakrangee, an Indian retail point-of-sale distribution business for real-time banking and e-commerce was also a strong performer following encouraging results and increasing broker coverage.

The holding in South Korean lithium-battery manufacturer Samsung SDI was another strong positive contributor over the period. Chinese company Alibaba contributed strongly after the share price recovered its lost ground from late 2016, driven by consensus-beating third-quarter results as well as investors' increasing appreciation of the dominance of the company's platform across e-commerce, 'cloud' and payments.

The worst performing stock over the period was Domino's Pizza Enterprises, which has suffered from the market participants scorning certain high-multiple stocks, believing it to be expensive. The manager believes the company, which is focused on technology and highly profitable, will be able to sustain its growth, driven by geographies outside of its domestic market. Fortis Healthcare was the only Indian company among the top ten detractors from performance. The denial of a takeover bid from Asian peer, IHH, sent the shares down at the end of June. Two Philippine companies, branded snack-food producer Universal Robina and power-generator First Gen, were also among the biggest detractors over the quarter.

New additions to the Fund included a holding in HollySys Automation Technologies. As one of China's top automation companies, HollySys is exposed to the country's huge industrial and rail markets, yet its revenue base remains small in comparison, offering room for growth in the manager's opinion. India's Vakrangee, another addition, has become the largest position in the Fund owing to its outstanding growth prospects in rural Indian e-commerce and financial services, supported by an excellent business model and sound corporate governance. A further addition was Silergy, a Chinese company engaged in the manufacture and sale of analogue integrated circuits. Being a small company in a large market, its opportunity for growth is significant.

Welspun, an Indian exporter with a leading market position in the home-textiles sector in the US and UK, was also added. The company increasingly outsources processes to small local companies, and the manager believes this should allow higher returns and stronger cash flow for shareholders.

Complete exits from the portfolio included fast-food operator Yum China, which was sold after a sharp rise in its share price.

The manager also took advantage of strong performance to realise some profits in Chinese internet platform company Alibaba and Indian tobacco company ITC. Dexus Property was sold as it had become relatively fully valued.

BNY MELLON ASIAN INCOME FUND

Over the six-month period, the Fund's W share class returned 9.96% compared with a return of 12.69% from the FTSE All-World Asia Pacific ex Japan Index TR and 13.80% for the Lipper Global Equity Asia Pacific ex Japan sector average, all in sterling terms.

The Fund generated a positive absolute return but was behind the comparative index and the sector average.

Asian ex-Japan markets continued to move higher, outperforming their developed market peers over the period. The region's dominant economy, China, continued to grow at a decent pace. At the same time, the Chinese authorities have moved to cool the housing market by tightening policy marginally and there are currently signs of a moderation in growth. Recovering global economic growth has seen other countries within the region prosper, such as South Korea and Taiwan. The US dollar depreciated slightly over the period, providing additional support for Asian equities.

On a stock level, Indiabulls Housing Finance Limited was the top performer overall. The company delivered positive results and forecasts and is well positioned to benefit from the long-term growth prospects for India's mortgagefinancing market, given improved mortgage affordability and government support for the segment. In Taiwan, shares in Catcher Technology, a manufacturer of metal casings for smartphones, rallied after the company delivered much better than expected results thanks to robust margins and gains in market share. Australian utilities company AGL Energy, an indirect beneficiary of the government's push for greater renewable-energy sources, also added value. In Australia, results from Transurban once more demonstrated the company's ability to generate strong cash flows from its network of toll roads in eastern Australia. Shares in Sydney Airports rebounded after robust results, with international passenger traffic growth remaining firm.

On the negative side and within telecommunications, the Fund's holding in Telstra of Australia suffered after the company reported results that missed consensus expectations owing to increased competition, which could intensify following a new entrant into the mobile market. China Mobile was another detractor from performance within the sector. Avoidance of large parts of the index, such as Tencent Holdings and Samsung Electronics, counted towards relative underperformance. The Fund cannot hold these stocks on account of its strict yield criteria, which assures a level of consistency across the entire portfolio, resulting in better long-term risk-versus-reward characteristics in the Fund.

In terms of activity, within the technology sector, the position in smartphone-casing manufacturer Catcher Technology was reduced after its share price rose sharply on the anticipation of the iPhone 8 launch. The proceeds were used to initiate a new position in Quanta Computer, a Taiwan-based manufacturer of notebook computers and other electronic hardware. Positions in electronic manufacturing services Venture Corporation and Telekom Indonesia were initiated. The manager took a position in IRB InvIT, which has only recently come to the public market and is the first infrastructure investment trust in its sector.

The Fund's Australian exposure was reduced with the sale of wealth manager AMP. Reductions to Singapore Telecommunications were made as well as to Taiwanese technology companies TSMC and Pegatron. Within the utilities sector, Genesis Energy was sold and the holding in its New Zealand peer Meridian Energy and in Australia's AGL Energy were reduced, reflecting their fuller valuations.

The manager continues to see promising prospects for the Asia Pacific ex-Japan equity markets over the long term, supported by valuations and structural growth opportunities including favourable population dynamics, reform initiated by governments and technological development. Risks include the richness of valuations within certain pockets of the market, the concentration of performance with the technology sector, a high level of complacency in markets and a potential rise in bond yields.

BNY MELLON BRAZIL EQUITY FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's A share class returned 1.29%, compared with a return of 2.74% for the MSCI Brazil 10/40 NR Index and 3.66% for the LIPPER Global Equity Brazil sector, all in US dollar terms.

The Fund generated a positive return but underperformed its comparative index.

At the industry level, food processors, utilities and capital goods were the main positive contributors. The negative performance came mainly from the exposure to logistics, consumer discretionary (non-essential goods and services) and the absence of exposure to the healthcare sector.

At the stock level, the Fund benefited from the exposure to Vale, Pao de Acucar and Itau Unibanco. Vale shares were positive in the six-month period as a result of higher-than-expected average prices for iron ore during the period. Additionally, the management proposed the collapse of its dual stock class into one, aiming to increase its corporate governance profile. Pao de Acucar stocks were positive with the reversal of the negative trend in its supermarket business unit margins and the expansion in its cash-and-carry segment. Itau Unibanco was positive as a result of lower default provisions in its previous financial results.

The biggest detractors at the stock level were Petrobras, Copel and Klabin. Petrobras stocks were negative with lower oil prices and the increase in political instability in the country. Copel shares were hit by the announcement of a possible follow-on offer, which would dilute the current shareholders. Lastly, Klabin was negative for the Fund due to lower local currency level during the period invested in the stock.

ARX Investimentos Ltda July 2017

BNY MELLON GLOBAL EMERGING MARKETS FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's A share class returned 25.83%, compared with a return of 18.43% for the MSCI Emerging Markets Index NR and 17.96% for the Lipper Global Equity Emerging Markets Global sector, all in US dollar terms.

The Fund significantly outperformed both the comparative index and the sector. Stock selection was the key driver of outperformance.

Global equity markets rallied in the period, with emerging markets leading developed markets, building on the trend seen in 2016. In this, recovering economic growth, stronger earnings and generally loose monetary policy by the authorities, such as central banks, all played a part.

China's economic activity continued to be relatively robust with data ahead of expectations. This led economic institutions, such as the International Monetary Fund (IMF), to raise their 2017 economic growth forecast. Nonetheless, a move by the Chinese authorities to cool the housing market did moderate growth somewhat during the period under review.

In India, a bold and inspired policy of removing smaller denomination bank notes from circulation (demonetisation) in order to squeeze the black market affected the stock market in the final three months of 2016. The first half of 2017 showed a rapid rebound as the worst fears were not realised and most of our holdings actually showed robust profit growth.

Brazil continued to struggle economically as President Michel Temer became embroiled in a fight for his political survival following an indictment for corruption. The Fund held no Brazilian stocks so was not affected.

Oil prices fell on the back of increasing supply from US shale fields and excess production by OPEC. Again, the Fund held no oil companies in the period so there was no direct impact.

Indiabulls Housing Finance was the strongest individual holding. The company's structural growth story was given additional support by the government's announcement of an expansion of its affordable housing scheme. The shares rebounded from weakness in November 2016, sparked by the demonetisation mentioned above, during which the Fund aggressively increased positions at discounted valuations given strong conviction.

Indian tobacco and consumer goods company ITC was also a positive contributor, rallying on the back of more expectations regarding the new Goods and Services Tax (VAT) proposals and reduced concerns over the effects of demonetisation. The Fund's largest holding, Vakrangee, an Indian retail point-of-sale distribution business for real-time banking and e-commerce, also added value following solid results and increasing broker coverage The Fund only started introducing the position in this inspirational company in mid May 2017 but it is now one of the largest positions. In the manager's view, it has an excellent business model and sound corporate governance.

Internet and media group Naspers benefited from ongoing good execution at Tencent. The holding in South Korean lithium battery manufacturer Samsung SDI was another positive contributor over the period as it recovered from the Galaxy Note 7 recall and the OLED (organic light-emitting diodes) business performed well; the stock is owned for the still unprofitable electric vehicle battery business, which has leading technology that the manager expects to be very profitable in the future. The Fund's lack of holdings in Brazil helped relative performance as that market fell back sharply.

Interms of negative contributions, Indian company Glenmark Pharmaceuticals was one of the weakest performers, following poor results, although this does not affect the manager's long-term investment case. The outperformance of Samsung Electronics, which the Fund does not hold, also negatively affected the Fund's relative performance, though not in absolute terms. Holdings in the Philippines, such as GT Capital, which owns the Toyota franchise in that country, were held back, in part, by concerns over a proposed tax reform bill, which is likely to increase taxes on autos, predominantly in the luxury segment.

On a sector basis, financials, consumer discretionary (nonessential goods and services) and telecommunication services (void position) were all positive contributors. The energy sector, in which the Fund has a zero weighting, also contributed to performance. The overwhelming performance contribution came from stock selection rather than asset allocation, with geographic allocation slightly negative and sector allocation slightly positive.

BNY MELLON GLOBAL EMERGING MARKETS FUND cont'd.

In terms of activity, a new position in HollySys Automation Technologies was added over the period. As one of China's top automation companies, HollySys is exposed to the country's huge industrial and rail markets, yet its revenue base remains small in comparison, offering room for growth as automation increases in China, in the manager's opinion. The position in Samsung SDI was increased even after strong performance. This was in line with the manager's conviction in the global growth prospects for electric-yehicles.

With regard to sales, holdings in Sands China and Banco Santander de Chile were sold following decent performance in order to fund ideas in which the manager has higher-conviction. A period of share-price strength was also used to sell the holding in Taiwanese bicycle maker Merida, owing to a lack of conviction that the brand has a sustainable competitive advantage to grant the company ongoing pricing power.

Newton Investment Management Limited July 2017

BNY MELLON GLOBAL PROPERTY SECURITIES FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's A share class returned -2.91%, compared with a return of -2.56% for the FTSE EPRA/ NAREIT Developed Index, and -1.60% for the Lipper Global Equity Sector Real Estate Global, all in euro terms.

While global real-estate securities markets experienced strong returns in Singapore and Hong Kong, (as residential, retail and office rent fundamentals have stabilised amid improved economic growth out of China), Japan, the US and Australia produce negative returns. Hawkish comments from the Federal Reserve (Fed) early in the year led to increases in the Federal funds rate in March and June, though the yield on the 10-year US Treasury fell from year end to mid-year. (The Fed has a dual mandate to maximise employment and maintain low inflation. A 'hawk' is a member of the Federal Open Market Committee who places more emphasis on the inflation goal.)

In the US, real-estate stocks have recently experienced strong mergers-and-acquisitions activity, which the manager believes is reflective of the value seen in the stocks and illustrates the disconnect between private and public real-estate markets. There was large performance divergence across US sectors in the review period, with the retail sector experiencing a strong sell off. In the UK, risks of a slowdown in economic growth and a potential recession have now increased as consumer confidence dropped. As a result, the manager increased the Fund's defensiveness by adding to healthcare exposure and reducing exposure to office. Meanwhile in Europe, markets strongly outperformed for the past three months amid the political clarity following the recent elections. In France, President Emmanuel Macron cemented his presidential win with a strong majority in the French parliamentary elections. This further removes uncertainty in France and has led the manager to increase the Fund's weight in Europe as a whole to broadly neutral. Within Europe, the Fund favours Spanish exposure as well as German residential.

Stock selection within Hong Kong and Australia were strongest contributors from a relative perspective. In Australia, the Fund's underweight position to the vast majority of retail REITs (real-estate investment trusts) continued to benefit as concerns surrounding the structural outlook for Australian retail were amplified by low wage growth and rising energy prices. Despite the Fund's underweight to Singapore underperforming, the manager is maintaining the underweight to both the developers and the Singapore REITs, as current valuations are pricing in a recovery that the manager believes is unlikely to emerge any time soon. In Japan, the Fund continued to maintain an overweight to developers, which outperformed, and an underweight to the Japanese REITs.

The much-anticipated June Federal Reserve rate increase moved rates on the short end of the yield curve. (The yield curve is the graphic depiction of the relationship between the yield on bonds of the same credit quality but with different maturities. It can be used as an indicator of future interest rates.) The manager believes, however, that while there is upward pressure on interest rates, the majority of the increase will occur at the short-end of the curve and that long-term rates (which drive real-estate values) will rise less. In the UK, the snap election has increased the risk of another election and made the result of the formal negotiations over the country's departure from the EU more uncertain. Within Europe, the above-mentioned French election brings clarity and has improved the overall confidence of the market. Within Asia Pacific, the markets continue to be responsive to the activities of the global central banks. In Australia, residential is increasingly becoming an area of concern as the introduction of macro-prudential measures is undermining investment demand. Finally, in Singapore, the manager continues to believe that while fundamentals seem close to a trough in some sectors, a sharp recovery is unlikely as property supply continues to remain elevated and higher demand will struggle to materialise in an economic environment that remains fairly tepid.

BNY MELLON JAPAN ALL CAP EQUITY FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's C share class returned 6.23%, compared with a return of 7.37% for the Tokyo Stock Price Index (TOPIX) TR and 7.86% for the Lipper Global Equity Japan average, all in Japanese yen terms.

The Fund generated a positive return but underperformed its comparative index. Stock selection detracted from performance, while sector selection contributed.

Detractors at the sector level were electric appliances, transportation equipment and chemicals where the Fund was overweight. Positive contributors to performance were information and communication and real estate where the Fund was overweight and retail trade where it was moderately underweight.

At the individual stock level, detractors were Osaki Electric, which supplies smart meters to utility companies, SUBARU, a major automobile manufacturer, and Mazda Motor, a leading car maker. Positive contributors to performance included Star Mica, which engages in brokerage of preowned condominiums, renovation and consulting, mainly in the Tokyo metropolitan area; SCSK, a leading IT services company created through the merger of Sumisho Computer Systems and CSK Corp; and Disco, the global leader of abrasive and precision industrial machinery to cut and grind for semiconductor and electronics industries.

The Fund started new positions in SMC, the world's largest manufacturer of pneumatic control systems; Anritsu, a global leader of test and measurement instruments for mobile telecommunication markets; SIIX, the largest EMS (electronic manufacturing service) provider in Japan; HOYA, the world's largest supplier of electro-optics products including mask blanks for semiconductors, photomasks for LCD panels and glass memory disks for HDDs; LIXIL Viva which manages nationwide home centres in Japan; UZABASE which operates SPEEDA, an information platform comprising company and industry analysis and NEWSPICKS, an online business news curation service; LINE which develops the LINE application for smartphones; Asahi Group Holdings, the largest beer manufacturer in Japan; Yamaha, the global largest manufacturers of musical instruments; Yonex, the worldwide leading manufacturers of badminton equipment; and IRISO Electronics which produces connectors for automobiles and consumer electronics goods.

Among other activity, the Fund sold out of Mitsubishi Heavy Industries, a comprehensive heavy machinery provider including turbines, engines and aircrafts; Nippon Shokubai, a leading manufacturer of acrylic acid, super absorbent polymer and automobile catalysts; travel agency HIS; Nihon Kohden which produces medical equipment; East Japan Railway Company, the largest railway company in Japan;

Japan Tobacco, a global tobacco company operating in over 120 countries; IDOM which operates specialised stores to purchase used cars; 77 Bank, a regional bank in Sendai; DENSO, a global leading auto-part manufacturer belonging to Toyota Motor group; and Nissan Motor, one of the largest auto manufacturers in Japan.

The manager believes the mid- to longer term prospects for the Japanese equity market remain attractive as the domestic economy is at a rare transitional phase, moving from a period of contraction to one of expansion. The market has had a good recovery over the last 12 months but over a longer time horizon still lags the recovery in earnings since the financial crisis.

While Japan will be affected by global developments or events, the country has a large domestic base and can weather such turbulence much better than most economies, in the manager's view. Contrary to Japan's image as export dependent, reliance in terms of GDP is much smaller than most countries in Asia or Europe. The manager expects to continue to be overweight in companies that benefit from the longer term recovery of the domestic part of the economy, not just exporters.

BNY MELLON JAPAN REIT ALPHA FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's C share class returned -7.19%, compared with a return of -7.06% for the Tokyo Stock Exchange REIT Index (Dividend Included), both in Japanese yen terms.

At the sector level, diversified real estate investment trust (REIT) was a detractor and office REIT and residential REIT were contributors. Stock selection was the main negative contributor to returns. In terms of sector contribution, the underweight position in diversified REITs was detrimental to returns, while the overweight exposure to office REITs proved most advantageous. In terms of stock selection, NIPPON REIT Investment, Heiwa Real Estate REIT and Star Asia Investment, all in diversified REITs, were key detractors to returns over the period. On the positive side, Daiwa Office Investment and Japan Prime Realty Investment, both in office REITS, and Invincible Investment, in residential REITs, were contributors.

In terms of activity, the Fund initiated positions in MIRAI, Mori Trust Hotel REIT and Hoshino Resorts REIT. No positions were sold off during the period. The Fund was overweight office REIT on expectations of solid rental income generation and residential REIT, while underweight diversified REIT and retail REIT. Residential REIT and hotel REIT were increased during the period on cheap valuation. The number of holdings at the end of the period was 50.

BNY MELLON JAPAN REIT ALPHA FUND cont'd.

The manager expects the Japanese REIT (J-REIT) market to stay flat. A falling vacancy rate and an upward trend in office rents in major cities continue, and the vacancy rate of existing office buildings (excluding new buildings) in the five major Tokyo midtown districts (Chiyoda, Chuo, Minato, Shinjuku and Shibuya) released by Miki Shoji is below 3%, indicating that office rents are still rising. The manager believes office rents will continue to recover, as demand for high-end offices owned by REITs has been strong in line with growing demand for higher seismic capacity and a tight job market.

The manager believes J-REITs will continue to be an attractive investment with increasing dividends for domestic financial institutions seeking investment opportunities, as long as long-term Japanese government bond yields remain stable.

BNY Mellon Asset Management Japan Limited July 2017

BNY MELLON JAPAN SMALL CAP EQUITY FOCUS FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's C share class returned 13.14%, compared with a return of 10.96% for the Russell/Nomura Small Cap Index TR and 3.49% for the Lipper Global Equity Japan Small & Mid Cap average, all in Japanese yen terms.

The Fund generated a positive return and outperformed its comparative index. Both stock selection and sector selection contributed to performance.

At the sector level, positive contributors to performance were services, information and communication where the Fund was overweight and banks where the Fund was underweight. Detractors were electric appliances, nonferrous metals and chemicals where it was overweight.

Positive contributors to performance included TechMatrix, which provides system integration and solution services; Vector, a promoter of customers' products using simple notification service (SNS) and the web and a leading provider of press releases; and ItoKuro, a leading portal websites operator of educational and preparatory schools. Detractors from performance included Osaki Electric, which supplies smart metres to utility companies; Sanken Electric, which produces discrete semiconductors and analogue integrated circuits; and Dowa Holdings, which operates smelting and environmental businesses.

The Fund added new positions: Wacom, the global supplier of pen tablets; eGuarantee, a provider of guarantee services for accounts and note receivables arising from business and financial service transactions; Anritsu, a global leader of test and measurement instruments for mobile telecommunication markets; RS Technologies, a major provider of silicon wafer reclaim services for semiconductor industry; and Yonex, a worldwide leading manufacturer of badminton equipment. The Fund sold out of FPG, which engages in tax leasing arrangement business and real-estate business; SHO-BOND Holdings, the largest operator to repair concrete buildings; PAL Group Holdings, which operates clothes retail stores; and Leopalance21, which builds and manages apartments.

The manager believes the mid- to longer term prospects for the Japanese equity market remain attractive as the domestic economy is at a rare transitional phase, moving from a period of contraction to one of expansion. The market has had a good recovery over the past 12 months but over a longer time horizon still lags the recovery in earnings since the financial crisis.

While Japan will be affected by global developments or events, the country has a large domestic base and can weather such turbulence much better than most economies, in the manager's view. Contrary to Japan's image as export dependent, reliance in terms of GDP is much smaller than most countries in Asia or Europe. The manager expects to continue to be overweight in companies that benefit from the longer-term recovery of the domestic part of the economy, not just exporters.

BNY MELLON PAN EUROPEAN EQUITY FUND

The Fund was closed on 9 March 2017.

Over the review period until closure, the Fund's A share class return 3.25%, compared with a return of 3.45% for the FTSEurofirst 300 TR and 3.29% for the Lipper Global Equity Europe sector, all in euro terms.

The Fund produced a positive return but was marginally behind the comparative index.

Information services business Wolters Kluwer was the top performer. Unilever was a positive contributor as the share price reacted strongly to an offer from Kraft Heinz. In spite of the latter's decision to walk away from the proposed transaction, the aborted deal has pressurised Unilever management into pushing harder to improve profitability. Royal Bank of Scotland (RBS) was another strong performer over the period. It has made progress in resolving its litigation issues; this has the potential to increase the visibility of the underlying earnings potential and capital position of the remaining banking businesses, which would be beneficial. Additionally, the next move in interest rates will most likely be upwards, which should boost the earnings potential of RBS as it reprices its loans.

Negative contributions came from the likes of CRH, which succumbed to profit taking after a good 2016 and as doubts began to creep in about the infrastructure plans in the US of President Donald Trump's administration. Retailer Next was another faller over the period following lacklustre sales figures, partly weather-related as well as more general worries about the health of the consumer in the UK. Royal Dutch Shell also underperformed as oil majors suffered from the volatility in the oil price.

BNY MELLON SMALL CAP EUROLAND FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's A EUR share class returned 12.78%, compared with a return of 14.95% for the S&P Eurozone Small Cap Index and 14.43% for the Lipper Global Equity EuroZone Small & Mid Cap sector, all in euro terms.

Equities delivered broadly positive results in the first half of 2017 – employment and wage trends in the eurozone are incrementally firming. In this environment, the portfolio underperformed its comparative index, however.

At the sector level, information technology, consumer staples and consumer discretionary boosted relative performance. (Consumer staples are regarded as essential products, such as food, beverage and household items, that are in demand no matter how well the economy is doing. Discretionary are non-essential goods and services.) Conversely, materials and energy detracted most, followed by positioning in industrials. By country, Austria, the Netherlands and Italy were the top relative performers, while Germany, Belgium and Spain lagged relative to the index.

Recently, the manager took profits in some of the stronger performing areas of the market, such as industrials and information technology. The assets were redeployed into some lagging, more defensive sectors, such as telecommunication services and utilities, particularly in Spain, Italy and Germany where the manager hold shares of Infrastrutture Wireless Italiane and Uniper. The manager retains an overweight position to materials and consumer discretionary, having identified unique opportunities in areas such as outdoor advertising, internet retailing and online gambling.

The victory of pro-EU candidate Emmanuel Macron in France, coupled with improving unemployment and modestly firming wages are tailwinds to earnings growth in the EU. (Tailwinds are conditions or situations that help move growth higher.) In the US, the expected policy agenda has increasingly been viewed as pro-growth and pro-business, sending equities higher. The manager has begun to see diverging monetary policy between the US and non-US developed markets, which the manager expects to continue into the latter half of the year.

Lead economic indicators in Europe continue to post strong trends, while GDP growth and earnings revisions continue to improve. Valuations remain attractive despite strong absolute returns in addition to some of the most robust asset-class inflows to the European region in years. Investors continue to reallocate some of their US exposure to non-US markets in anticipation of better relative return prospects. With a global growth backdrop of US acceleration and recovering emerging markets, European small cap markets look poised to move higher over the next 12 months, in the manager's view.

BNY MELLON U.S. DYNAMIC VALUE FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's A share class returned 2.01%, compared with a return of 4.66% for the Russell 1000 Value Index and 8.79% for the Lipper Global Equity US sector, all in US dollar terms.

The Fund generated a positive return but underperformed the comparative index and sector average.

In information technology, security selection in the electronic equipment instruments and components and semiconductor and semiconductor equipment segments contributed positively to relative returns. Within industrials, stock selection among industrial conglomerates, as well as the overweight position to aerospace and defence companies, fuelled relative outperformance.

With respect to consumer staples, the overweight positioning and selection among food products companies, as well as the zero-weight exposure to the tobacco segment, detracted from relative results. In financials, stock selection among consumer finance and diversified financial services companies, in addition to underweight positioning in capital markets, detracted from relative returns. Selection among oil, gas and consumable fuels companies weighed on results in energy.

In financials, the manager has increased the allocation to insurance and consumer finance companies, such as Allstate and American Express, while selectively reducing the allocation to banks and capital markets companies. The manager increased our exposure to healthcare in recent months, selectively adding pharmaceuticals and biotechnology companies such as Gilead Sciences and Johnson & Johnson. However, the manager is mindful of political rhetoric that may exert pressure on valuations.

The manager believes the move higher in US inflation expectations is noteworthy and sustainable. The US economy hit a soft patch in the first three months of 2017 and inflation moderated but recent indicators suggest that GDP growth is accelerating. The manager believes the US economy will sustain moderate growth driven by a strong labour market, improving wages, increasing consumer and business spending and accelerating growth overseas. With a tight labour market, inflation will likely head upwards, and the US Federal Reserve should continue on its path to normalising interest rates. While investors have given up on the potential for policy change, the US administration has not, with reduced regulation and efforts to advance tax and healthcare legislation. If the administration successfully implements its pro-growth agenda, it will provide additional economic stimulus and further fuel reflation expectations.

Reflation in the US is the impetus that will drive outperformance in value stocks, in the manager's view. (Reflation is the act of stimulating the economy by increasing the money supply or reducing taxes.) Financials are a prime example of a value sector that the manager believes will perform well over the next few years. Improving growth, particularly if accompanied by corporate tax reform, would lead to notable relative returns in this sector as interest rates rise, lending activity improves and investors realise the earnings growth and capital return potential for this relatively cheap sector. Of course, there is potential for growth to disappoint but the manager is not seeing the excess that generally brings about the end of an economic expansion - yields are low and the curve is upwardly sloped. (The yield curve is the graphic depiction of the relationship between the yield on bonds of the same credit quality but different maturities. It can be used as an indicator of future interest rates.). In addition, energy prices are up but not excessively so, financials have the strongest balance sheets in decades and inflation is still modest. While equity prices have risen to new highs and valuations have risen as well, they appear reasonable relative to history and still quite attractive relative to alternatives, such as bonds.

BNY MELLON U.S. EQUITY INCOME FUND

The Fund was launched on 17 January 2017.

Over the review period since its inception, the Fund's C share class returned 2.68%, compared with a return of 7.89% for the S&P 500 TR and 5.64% for the Lipper Global Equity US Income, all in US dollar terms.

US equities moved higher in response to solid corporate profits and the expectation that moderate but sustainable real economic growth would persist into 2018.

The US Federal Reserve (Fed) raised interest rates over the course of the review period. First-quarter GDP was revised up, driven largely by consumer spending. The upward revision doubled the original GDP reported in April but still undershot expectations. Key economic data reported was mixed, with consumer spending accelerating, while inflation remained weak. The US dollar ultimately weakened as mixed economic data may delay further Fed rate hikes.

The Fund underperformed its comparative index. On a sector basis, materials and utilities were the largest contributors to relative returns, while information technology and healthcare detracted. In materials, the Fund's position in Packaging Corporation of America, which is not held by the comparative index, drove the majority of outperformance relative to the index. Conversely, the Fund's lack of exposure to internet software and services and software companies detracted from relative returns in information technology.

In consumer discretionary, the manager added an attractively valued multiline retailer in the belief the company has specific catalysts for business improvement. The manager increased the exposure to healthcare, selectively adding pharmaceuticals and biotechnology companies, such as Johnson & Johnson and Gilead Sciences. The manager maintains an overweight position in financials and has increased the allocation to insurance and consumer finance companies, while selectively reducing the allocation to banks and capital markets companies, such as Morgan Stanley.

The manager believes the move higher in US inflation expectations is noteworthy and sustainable. The US economy hit a soft patch in the first three month of 2017 and inflation moderated but recent indicators suggest that GDP growth is accelerating. The manager believes the US economy will sustain moderate growth in 2017 driven by a strong labour market, improving wages, increasing consumer and business spending and accelerating growth overseas.

With a tight labour market, inflation will be biased upward and the manager expects the Fed to continue on its path to policy normalisation. While investors have given up on the potential for policy change, the US administration has not, with reduced regulation and efforts to advance tax and healthcare legislation. If the administration successfully implements its pro-growth agenda, it will provide additional economic stimulus and further fuel reflation expectations.

BNY MELLON US OPPORTUNITIES FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's C share class returned 9.16%, compared with a return of 9.34% for the Standard & Poor's 500 Index TR and 8.79% for the Lipper Global Equity US average, all in US dollar terms.

US equities moved higher in response to solid corporate profits and the expectation that moderate but sustainable real economic growth would persist into 2018.

In this environment, the Fund underperformed its comparative index.

At the sector level, information technology generated the strongest relative performance in the portfolio. Broad contributions came from IT services, software and semiconductors as each of these areas experienced robust cyclical and secular growth. A cautious and underweighted stance based on rich valuations and weak fundamentals (underlying market trends) present in the telecommunication services, real-estate and utilities sectors also assisted returns. The financials sector gave back part of its earlier gains.

During the period, the Fund increased exposure to information technology through IT services companies Square and First Data. Both provided outlooks consistent with the manager's above-consensus investment thesis. In consumer staples, the manager sold positions in Conagra Brands and Molson Coors as they continue to face competitive pressures.

Recent US economic statistics have been encouraging and lend support to the manager's view that the US remains in a sustained but moderately growing business cycle. Near term, a small incremental pick-up in consumer spending combined with rising levels of federal spending should help sustained business cycle growth. Potential new sources of growth could include a higher level of US exports driven by a more competitive pricing environment for the US dollar, a related recovery in manufacturing and stabilisation of the energy industry. While anticipating that the data will vary month to month, overall the manager believes the trend will have a positive tilt to the numbers over the balance of the year.

GLOBAL FIXED INCOME

BNY MELLON GLOBAL BOND FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's A share class returned 4.63%, compared with a return of 4.07% for the JP Morgan Global Government Bond Index (Unhedged) TR and 3.95% for the Lipper Global Bond Global (Filtered USD) sector, all in US dollar terms.

The Fund generated a positive return and outperformed its comparative and the sector average.

The six months to the end of June saw a modest recovery in bond markets in aggregate following the marked sell-off after Donald Trump's election in November. Government-bond yields moved in a tight range, expectations for global growth were upbeat and diminishing anxieties about US monetary policy enabled both government bonds and corporate-debt holdings to generate positive returns over the period. Towards the end of the period, statements emanating from the European Central Bank and the Bank of Canada suggested an important change in prevailing monetary policy might be close and caused bond yields to rise. A closer vote than expected at the Bank of England's Monetary Policy Committee meeting in June gave rise to speculation that its policy of ultra-loose interest rates might be drawing to a close.

A bias towards US Treasury Inflation-Protected Securities (TIPS) boosted relative returns early in the period. The Fund's overweight position in US dollar duration and bias towards the long end of the yield curve proved beneficial as 30-year Treasuries outperformed amid a flattening of the yield curve as interest rates in the US rose. (Duration is a measure of the sensitivity of the price of a fixed-income investment to a change in interest rates. The yield curve is the graphic depiction of the relationship between the yield on bonds of the same credit quality but with different maturities. It can be used as an indicator of future interest rates.)

Long exposure in Australasian duration and sovereign bond holdings in emerging markets (not part of the comparative index), such as Peru and Mexico, also proved beneficial. Australian government bonds outperformed other markets perceived as 'safe havens' into end of first quarter of 2017, while debt in the developing markets benefited from the improved macroeconomic backdrop and rising risk appetite on the part of investors to rally strongly. ('Safe haven' assets are favoured by investors in times of crisis because they are judged to be stable and easy to liquidate.) Meanwhile, a bias towards the long end of the Japanese government bond market detracted from relative returns, as 30-year borrowing costs rose, while ten-year yields remained stable, aided by ongoing Bank of Japan support. Moving underweight Japanese government bond exposure later in the period recovered some of the relative losses.

Underweight euro-duration exposure also boosted relative returns towards the end of the period, although underweight 'peripheral' European exposure (particularly Italy) negated some of this benefit as spreads rallied amid receding regional political risks. (The spread on bonds is usually expressed as the yield difference between bonds of the same maturity but different credit quality. A spread measures how much more a business pays to borrow money than the government does.)

A bias towards European currencies (including the Swedish krona and Czech koruna) proved positive as the improving outlook for eurozone growth and declining near-term political risks led to regional currency strength versus the US dollar.

In terms of activity, the stabilisation in global bond markets prompted the manager to increase the overall duration, taking the Fund overweight US duration and long duration versus the comparative index (ex-Japan), aided by the purchase of US Treasuries (2026 and 2043 maturities). These were reduced later in the period following the rally in US Treasuries.

Profits were taken on much of the Fund's inflation-linked exposure, selling 2021 and 2025 TIPS.

Signs of softer UK economic data prompted the manager to reduce the Fund's underweight UK duration position, with the purchases of UK Gilt 2027 and 2055 holdings, while the addition of Spain 2044 holdings helped to reduce underweight periphery exposure following spread widening.

Meanwhile, the improving economic outlook for the eurozone prompted a reduction in the Fund's underweight 'peripheral' European sovereign exposure, with the purchase of 2034 Italian government bond holdings. Opportunities for 'carry' in selective emerging-market hard-currency bonds led the manager to increase the Fund's US-dollar denominated Indonesia 2026 and Morocco 2022 holdings. (A carry trade is a where an investor borrows money at low interest rates in a particular market to invest in another market backed by high interest rates.)

Expectations of stabilising US rate led to a decrease in the Fund's overweight US dollar positioning, initially towards neutral and ultimately to underweight, by the end of the period. There was also a reduction in the underweight euro positioning, while stronger growth in certain ex-eurozone economies underpinned continued European currency diversification (including Czech koruna and Swedish krona exposure).

Local-currency exposure in the emerging markets was also added with the purchase of Poland 2021 holdings to benefit from yield-curve steepening and increased expectations of a hike in interest rates. Exposure to other emerging-market currencies (the Indian rupee and Mexican peso), offering attractive real yields and falling or peaking headline inflation, was added in the final months of the period.

In terms of the Fund's outlook and positioning, ongoing US growth, monetary tightening by the US Federal Reserve (Fed) and receding European political risks suggest government bonds remain vulnerable, and so the manager is maintaining an underweight headline duration. Fed hikes, US labour-market tightening and the dollar's 'safe-haven' characteristics still favour some exposure to the world's reserve currency.

BNY MELLON GLOBAL CREDIT FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's C share class returned 2.90%, compared with a return of 2.92% for Bloomberg Barclays Global Aggregate Credit USDH TR and 7.02% for the Lipper Global Bond Global Corporates sector, all in US dollar terms.

The manager began the period with an overweight bias to US dollar credit but as relative value ebbed away, the manager moved closer to a neutral position. (Credit refers to fixed-income instruments issued by non-government entities, such as corporates.) From a sector perspective, the manager continued to have a positive bias towards the financial sector, increasingly tilting this allocation towards selective European banks that were recovering. The manager also continued to hold a favourable bias towards asset-backed securities (ABS) and an overweight position towards securitised debt. (Securitised assets are the pooling of assets, such as mortgages, into securities that are divided up and sold to investors.)

The government bond holdings demonstrated mixed performance. The manager had a bias towards an underweight in duration for much of the period, particularly within German bunds. (Duration is a measure of the sensitivity of the price of a fixed-income investment to a change in interest rates.) The manager held a long position in France into the French election and this contributed positively. The other key position was a relative value long in Australia largely against the US, although this contributed negatively overall.

The manager is shifting from corporate credit risk to banks that are recovering. In euro markets, there is a lack of issuance (issuing of debt) and it is difficult to see a near-term catalyst that will change this. In rates markets, the overall duration is close to flat, as valuations do not generally justify absolute duration positions. However, from a relative value perspective, the manager has short biases to the US at the front end of the yield curve. (The yield curve is the graphic depiction of the relationship between the yield on bonds of the same credit quality but different maturities. It can be used as an indicator of future interest rates.)

Insight Investment Management (Global) Limited July 2017

BNY MELLON GLOBAL HIGH YIELD BOND FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's C share class returned 4.94%, compared with a return of 6.50% for the Bank of America Merrill Lynch Global High Yield Constrained Index TR and 7.16% for the Lipper Global Bond Global High Yield sector, all in US dollar terms.

In the US and Europe, the improvement in global macroeconomic data is feeding through to high-yield corporates (those with a rating by the credit rating agency Standard & Poor's of below BBB), as highlighted by the strength in earnings in recent quarters. In respect of security selection, a number of the Fund's largest active positions generated strong performance in the period, including BWAY Holdings, Scientific Games and Cabot Financial.

While security selection was strong, asset allocation decisions dragged on performance somewhat, in particular the Fund's underweight positions in the telecommunications and transportation sectors. This was offset to an extent, however, by the heavy underweight in the retail sector. The Fund's retail positioning is largely a function of the manager's long-held view on the structural decline in 'bricks and mortar' retail. In addition, the Fund remains underweight peripheral European financials, on concerns of the stability of certain institutions in the region.

The manager expects the improvements in corporate earnings to continue, while defaults in the US should continue to fall and in Europe should remain significantly below long-term averages. In the US, volatility in oil prices has returned but the adverse impact is mostly contained to drillers. The manager expects the US Federal Reserve to continue its 'normalisation' policy of raising its rates towards the Federal Open Market Committee's target rate in the coming months. In Europe, political risk has eased over the course of 2017. The manager sees some threat to European spreads related to the tapering of the European Central Bank's asset-buying programme that was aimed at stimulating the economy. (The spread on bonds is usually expressed as the yield difference between bonds of the same maturity but different credit quality. A spread measures how much more a business pays to borrow money than the government does.)

BNY MELLON GLOBAL SHORT-DATED HIGH YIELD BOND FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's A share class returned 2.59%, compared with a return of 0.56% for the LIBOR USD 3 Month and 6.08% for the Lipper Global Bond Global Short Term, all in US dollar terms.

The Fund generated a positive return over the period.

A supportive economic environment and limited supply was positive for the high-yield asset class with the market remaining strong for most of the second part of the review period. (High yield is debt rated below BBB by the credit rating agency Standard & Poor's.) The market had weakened during March and some of April because of uncertainty related to US fiscal and monetary policy as well as the French presidential election but the sell-off was short-lived. Lower government-bond yields also resulted in a persistent search for yield by investors, with a notable feature being more investment-grade funds purchasing lower rated securities. (Investment grade is debt rated BBB and above by the credit rating agency Standard & Poor's.) Defaults continue to run at low levels, supported by the stable macroeconomic backdrop and solid capital markets.

The manager invests the majority (over 50%) of assets in a portfolio of high-yielding bonds that are short dated (mature or expected to mature within approximately three years) with no geographical, industry or sector focus. The manager invests in debt and debt-related securities that may be investment-grade or sub investment-grade quality. There are now 85 bonds in the portfolio with an average credit rating of B+ and duration of 1.4 years. (Duration is a measure of the sensitivity of the price of a fixed-income investment to a change in interest rates.)

The Fund was active in reinvesting maturities and investing some of its cash balance, adding to a number of holdings; sales were concentrated on the energy sector, basic materials and consumer sectors. (The basic materials sector comprises companies involved in the discovery, development and processing of raw materials).

Growth in the US and Europe should be sufficiently positive to support earnings momentum in 2017, keeping defaults in check, in the manager's view. However, there remains a risk from increased protectionism, due to President Donald Trump's policies. Credit fundamentals remain solid, helped by robust economic conditions and decent earnings growth.

Despite the significant tightening in yields and credit spreads, the high-yield sector still looks relatively attractive, in the manager's view, compared to many other asset classes, even in a rising rate environment. (The credit spread is the spread between Treasury securities and non-Treasury securities that — except for quality rating — are identical in all respects.) The manager continues to look for opportunities, particularly in the US and emerging markets.

The manager does not envisage European interest rates moving significantly higher, given continuing political factors, concerns surrounding Greece and ongoing European Central Bank purchases. The US high-yield market, however, could experience some short-term weakness from further interest-rate hikes, exchange-traded fund outflows and a weaker oil price.

Insight Investment Management (Global) Limited July 2017

BNY MELLON U.S. MUNICIPAL INFRASTRUCTURE DEBT FUND

The Fund was launched on 19 April 2017.

Over the review period since its inception, the Fund's C share class returned 1.26%, compared with a return of 0.91% from the Bloomberg Barclays US Municipal Bond/ Taxable US Municipal Bond (50:50) over the same period, both in US dollar terms.

The dilapidated state of US infrastructure, combined with a renewed emphasis on expansionary fiscal policies by the new government administration, is expected to fuel a surge in spending. In the US, municipalities are likely to remain the dominant source of financing and the manager expects growing issuance of both tax exempt and taxable bonds. The municipal bond market is a high-quality market characterised by low correlations with other asset classes. A portfolio focusing on infrastructure across multiple sectors and countries capitalises on the potential increased demand in construction equipment, structural supplies and staples and opportunities in both the public and private sectors.

The actively managed Fund seeks to capture excess yield through investing predominantly in taxable and tax-exempt US municipal bonds with an emphasis on infrastructure. The Fund's investment strategy seeks to diversify risk exposures and emphasises sector and security selection of both US tax-exempt and taxable coupon municipal infrastructure bonds.

BNY MELLON ASIAN BOND FUND

The Fund was closed on 31 May 2017.

Over the review period until closure, the Fund's A share class returned 2.41%, compared with a return of 3.01% for the JP Morgan Asia Credit Index and 3.66% for the Lipper Global Bond Asia Pacific HC, all in US dollar terms.

The Fund underperformed the comparative index as a consequence of its unwinding. Prior to being unwound, the Fund was outperforming the comparative index due to both asset allocation and security selection. In asset allocation, the Fund's overweight position to the US and Sri Lanka were significant contributors. Slightly offsetting performance was the underweight in Indonesia.

Latterly, the Fund gradually added exposure to emerging markets foreign exchange and local rates in terms of duration positioning (a measure of a bond's sensitivity to changes in interest rates), as valuations were attractive and the main external drivers of the asset class (oil and commodities, US monetary policy, and China) seemed to be more supportive going forward. The manager continues to believe the outlook for the asset class is positive, judging the bulk of the re-pricing of US rates has passed and that commodity prices will continue to reflect more balanced supply and demand dynamics in oil.

Standish Mellon Asset Management Company, LLC July 2017

BNY MELLON EMERGING MARKETS CORPORATE DEBT FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's A share class returned 4.75%, compared with a return of 5.01% for the JP Morgan CEMBI-BD (USD) and 6.23% for the Lipper Global Bond Emerging Markets Global Corporates sector, all in US dollar terms.

The Fund generated a positive return but underperformed its comparative index.

Emerging-market corporate bonds were supported by a number of factors over the period: global interest rates remained stable; the world economy showed further signs of improvement; bond market volatility remained low due to a calmer-than-expected political environment in the US; and commodity prices firmed. The expectation of higher US economic growth — helped by the new administration's proposed infrastructure spending and tax reforms — outweighed concerns over rising protectionism and geopolitical uncertainty. Inflows have continued, and accelerated, into the asset class. More recently, however, the expectation of monetary tightening (by raising interest rates) by various central banks, as well as a lower oil price, have pressurised emerging market bonds.

Performance was boosted by the high-yield credit positions, although this was offset by the investment-grade positions in the second half of the six-month review period. (High yield is debt rated below BBB and above by the credit rating agency Standard & Poor's. Investment grade is debt rated BBB and above by the same credit rating agency.) By region, Latin America was the primary driver of positive returns, followed by Central & Eastern Europe. Meanwhile, the Middle East & Africa was the chief detractor from relative performance. On a country basis, portfolio performance was boosted by Argentina, India and Ukraine, with Chile detracting. By sector, oil and gas was a significant positive contributor to relative returns, with utilities a key detractor.

In terms of country selection, the Fund has an overweight exposure to Argentina, Chile and Mexico in Latin America; Turkey, Kazakhstan and Ukraine in Europe; Kuwait in the Middle East and Africa; and India and Indonesia in Asia. However, the Fund is underweight countries where valuations are stretched to breaking point, such as Hong Kong, the Philippines, Singapore, South Korea and Qatar or countries with high political risks, such as Brazil and South Africa. The Fund has overweight exposures in the consumer, metals and mining, and oil and gas sectors while having underweight exposures in the financials and utilities sectors.

Over the first three months of 2017, the manager added to the Fund's Middle East and Africa exposure and took profits in Latin America, after a strong run. At the start of the year, the manager had added to the Fund's high-yield exposure but then switched some of this exposure back into investment-grade credit to take advantage of softening US Treasury yields. In the second quarter, the manager again increased the Fund's high-yield exposure, after moving out of some investment-grade securities that had performed well. More recently, the Fund has become more defensive in its positioning. The Fund also periodically adjusted its Middle East and Africa and Latin America exposures according to market conditions.

While central banks are contemplating less accommodative monetary policy, their aggregate balance sheets are still expanding and global liquidity is abundant. Global growth momentum and emerging-market fundamentals (underlying market trends) remain strong and inflation muted, implying gradual normalisation of interest rates. However, with higher valuations and strong net inflows into the asset class, the manager has become more defensive by raising cash, decreasing the Fund's duration and reducing the overweight position in the high-yield sector; this precedes some important central bank and OPEC meetings. (Duration is a measure of the sensitivity of the price of a fixed-income investment to a change in interest rates.) The manager continues to favour Brazil, Mexico, Chile and Peru in Latin America; Jamaica and Guatemala

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's A share class returned 6.73%, compared with a return of 6.20% for the JP Morgan EMBI Global and 7.70% for the Lipper Global Bond Emerging Markets Global HC sector, all in US dollar terms.

Positive performance was driven by country and asset allocation. Security selection also played a positive role.

The outperformance (relative to the comparative index) in country allocation can be attributed to the Fund's high-conviction underweight allocation to China. Also helping performance was the Fund's high-conviction overweight to Iraq in the beginning of the year as the manager believed there was positive news flow out of Iraq, specifically: higher oil prices, a possible de-escalation of the war against ISIS, and the IMF funding programme. Another overweight allocation that was a large contribution to performance was in Turkey. On the underweight side, the Fund's positions in the Philippines and Oman helped performance as these countries underperformed during the period. Slightly offsetting positive performance was negative attribution from overweights in Russia and India.

Similar to country allocation, the Fund's security selection was positive to performance for the period. The selection within Argentina, Morocco and Indonesia were the main contributors to performance. In Morocco, the Fund's overweight allocation to the OCP Group was a large contributor. In Indonesia, both the allocations to PLN and quasi-sovereigns helped performance. Slightly offsetting security selection was negative returns from the Fund's positioning in Brazil, specifically the overweight to engineering conglomerate Odebrecht.

Oil took centre stage after crude fell sharply during the first three weeks of June, as output unexpectedly increased. Liberia and Nigeria, two OPEC countries that were exempted from the production cut in November and then also from the extension in June, surprised positively. Their new production nearly overrode the OPEC cut in full. West Texas Intermediate fell significantly for the first three weeks of June. This unanticipated price drop turned investor sentiment negative towards emerging markets.

In the manager's view, the outlook for emerging markets is still very positive. Stable and improving fundamentals (underlying market trends), better prospects for the global economy, a US Federal Reserve intent on keeping interest rates low and an easing of the protectionist policies of President Donald Trump's administration have helped drive continued inflows into the asset class. In addition, emerging-market Asia has continued to outpace US growth, while there are positive differences to the US in the way the economies of Europe, the Middle East and Africa and Latin America have started to grow. The manager believes this should help sustain positive inflows into the emerging-markets.

BNY MELLON EMERGING MARKETS DEBT LOCAL CURRENCY FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's A share class returned 11.03%, compared with a return of 10.36% for the JP Morgan GBI-EM Global Diversified Index TR and 10.31% for the Lipper Global Bond Emerging Markets Global LC Average, all in US dollar terms.

The Fund outperformed the comparative index.

Positive performance attribution came from the Fund's security selection, currency exposure as well as the allocation to local rates. In currency allocation, several of the Fund's long positions helped performance for the period. (A long position is the buying of a currency with the expectation that it will rise in value. A short position is the reverse.) In Latin America, long positions in the Brazilian real, Colombian peso and the Mexican peso all significantly contributed to performance. In Europe, long positions in the Russian rouble and Czech koruna also helped performance.

Slightly offsetting some of the Fund's gains from currency was the short positioning in the South African rand and Asia. Specifically, underweights in the Thai baht and Taiwan dollar hurt performance. In terms of duration positioning (a measure of a bond's sensitivity to changes in interest rates) on the rates side, long positioning in Latin America was a significant contributor. Long rates positions in Argentina, Colombia and Mexico all helped performance as rates rallied. Also contributing to performance was the Fund's long allocation to Russia. Slightly offsetting the positive performance in these positions was negative contribution from the position in Turkey.

Latterly, the Fund gradually added exposure to emerging markets foreign exchange and local rates, as valuations are attractive and the main external drivers of the asset class (oil and commodities, US monetary policy and China) seemed to be more supportive going forward. The manager continues to believe the outlook for the asset class is positive, judging the bulk of the re-pricing of US rates has passed and that commodity prices will continue reflect more balanced supply and demand dynamics in oil.

BNY MELLON EMERGING MARKETS DEBT OPPORTUNISTIC FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's C share class returned 9.43%, compared with a return of 8.00% for BNYM Emerging Market Opportunistic Comparative Index (50/25/25) and 7.70% for the Lipper Global Bond Emerging Markets Global HC average, all in US dollar terms.

Positive performance attribution was driven by country and asset allocation. Security selection also played a role.

The Fund's outperformance (relative to the comparative index) in country allocation can be attributed to the Fund's high-conviction underweight allocation to China. Also helping performance was the Fund's high-conviction overweight to Iraq in the beginning of the year as the manager believed there was positive news flow out of Iraq, specifically, higher oil prices, a possible de-escalation of war against ISIS, and the IMF funding programme. In terms of underweights, the Fund's positioning in Hong Kong and Qatar helped performance as these countries underperformed during the period. Slightly offsetting positive performance was negative attribution from overweights in Bahrain and Mongolia.

In local currency, positive performance attribution came from the Fund's security selection, currency exposure as well as the allocation to local rates in terms of duration positioning (a measure of a bond's sensitivity to changes in interest rates). In currency allocation, several of the Fund's long positions helped performance for the period. (A long position is the buying of a currency with the expectation that it will rise in value. A short position is the reverse.) In Latin America, long positions in the Brazilian real, Colombian peso and the Mexican peso all significantly contributed to performance. With respect to Europe, long positions in the Russian rouble and Czech koruna also helped performance. Slightly offsetting some of the Fund's gains from currency was the short positioning in the South African rand and Asia.

Specifically, underweights in the Thai baht and Taiwan dollar hurt performance. On the rates side, long positioning in Latin America was a significant contributor. Long rates positions in Argentina, Colombia and Mexico all helped

BNY MELLON EUROLAND BOND FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's A share class returned 0.85%, compared with a return of -0.55% for the Bloomberg Barclays Euro Aggregate Bond Index TR and 0.15% for the Lipper Global Bond EUR sector, all in euro terms.

The US Federal Reserve (Fed) continued with its policy of interest-rate 'normalisation' by raising interest rates both in March and in June. Central banks in other developed economies are holding off from similar action for now but market participants are beginning to factor in expectations of higher rates and the tapering of quantitative easing. (Quantitative easing is intended to create new money for use in the economy.)

Overall duration in the Fund has remained lower than the comparative index, shortening further towards the end of the period and broadly positioned for a steeper yield curve and underweight the intermediate and long end of the curve in favour of the short end. (Duration is a measure of the sensitivity of the price of a fixed-income investment to a change in interest rates. The yield curve is the graphic depiction of the relationship between the yield on bonds of the same credit quality but with different maturities. It can be used as an indicator of future interest rates.) Specific country duration underweights include Germany where, for the manager, rates still appear unrealistically tight in comparison to the US and certain other developed and emerging-market government bond markets.

Peripheral European government bond markets have performed well since the French presidential election in April and the Fund's holding in Portuguese government debt was accretive to performance as spreads to 10-year German Bunds collapsed through the second quarter of 2017.

The Fund initiated an outright short duration position to the UK in expectation of a more hawkish Bank of England and increased Gilt supply as the country looks to fund the eventual Brexit 'divorce bill' – the amount the UK will have to pay as part of its decision to leave the EU. (A 'hawk' is a policy maker who favours higher interest rates in the hope of curbing inflation.) The largest relative long exposures versus index are positions not held by the comparative index to intermediate US, 3-year Australia and 2-year Canada rates markets.

The Fund has a positive view on emerging markets, with allocation favouring local currency versus hard currency. Holdings are primarily concentrated in Latin America and Eastern Europe. An out-of-index allocation to high-yield corporates (debt rated below BBB by the credit rating agency Standard & Poor's) helped performance.

The manager continues to expect steady global expansion pulled along by above-trend growth in the US and China. The manager is mindful of risk and is positioned accordingly.

BNY MELLON EUROPEAN CREDIT FUND

Over the six-month review period, the Fund's A share class returned 1.19%, compared with a return of 0.60% for the Markit iBoxx Euro Corporates TR and 0.97% for the Lipper Global Bond EUR Corporates sector, all in euro terms.

The Fund generated a positive return and outperformed its comparative index.

Political concerns – chiefly related to the Dutch and French elections – dominated the first half of the period but relatively business-friendly outcomes in both appeased markets. Economic data also continued to support European corporate bonds, with both growth and inflation in the eurozone on an upward trend. Yields moved sharply higher in June following comments from a range of central banks that suggested they were contemplating interest-rate rises.

Security selection and the overall credit strategy were beneficial. In terms of the short duration stance, it was a slight detractor from performance in the first three months of the review period but positively contributed in the second quarter. (Duration is a measure of the sensitivity of the price of a fixed-income investment to a change in interest rates.) The yield curve strategy and currency positions were the only slight detractors from performance over the period. (The yield curve is the graphic depiction of the relationship between the yield on bonds of the same credit quality but with different maturities. It can be used as an indicator of future interest rates.)

From a security selection perspective, the manager focused on new issues in the six months to the end of June, with profits taken on some of those that had performed well. In response to uncertainty ahead of the French presidential election, the manager also added to its French credit market exposure.

The Fund is modestly positive on credit (fixed-income investments) and has overweight positions in the property, telecoms and financials sectors but is underweight the basic materials and energy sectors. (The basic materials sector comprises companies involved in the discovery, development and processing of raw materials).

Domestic economic data remains very strong but core inflation is still relatively subdued. (Core inflation is a measure of inflation that excludes certain items that face volatile price movements.) The key risk is the UK's planned exit from the EU and how those negotiations are handled. The European Central Bank (ECB) is expected to scale back its quantitative easing programme that has as its aim the creation of new money for use in the economy. This could take effect over the first half of 2018. While the ECB will continue to buy corporate bonds, this is already largely reflected in credit spreads. (The spread on bonds is usually expressed as the yield difference between bonds of the same maturity but different credit quality. A spread measures how much more a business pays to borrow money than the government does). The manager believes trends in government bond yields should be benign for credit, provided market movements remain orderly.

BNY MELLON GLOBAL FUNDS, PLC

NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

1. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The significant accounting policies and estimation techniques applied in the preparation of these financial statements are set out below.

STATEMENT OF COMPLIANCE

The financial statements for the financial period ended 30 June 2017 have been prepared in accordance with Financial Reporting Standard ("FRS") 104: "Interim Financial Reporting" and Irish statute comprising the European Communities (Undertakings for Collective Investment in Transferable Securities) Regulations, 2011 (as amended) (the "UCITS Regulations") and the Central Bank (Supervision and Enforcement) Act 2013 (Section 48(1)) (Undertakings for Collective Investment in Transferable Securities) Regulations 2015, as amended (the "Central Bank UCITS Regulations"). The condensed financial statements should be read in conjunction with the audited financial statements for the financial year ended 31 December 2016 which have been prepared in accordance with FRS 102: "The Financial Reporting Standard applicable in the United Kingdom and the Republic of Ireland" ("FRS 102") and in accordance with Irish statute.

BASIS OF PREPARATION

The financial statements have been prepared on a going concern basis for the Company under the historical cost convention as modified by the revaluation of financial assets and liabilities held at fair value through the profit or loss.

The format and certain wordings of the financial statements has been adapted from those contained in the Companies Act 2014 (as amended) so that, in the opinion of the Directors, they more appropriately reflect the nature of the Company's business as an investment fund.

The Company has availed of the exemption available to open-ended investment funds under Section 7 "Statement of Cash Flows" of FRS 102 not to prepare a cash flow statement on the basis that substantially all of the Company's investments are highly liquid and carried at fair value, and the Company provides a statement of changes in net assets attributable to redeemable participating shareholders.

CRITICAL ACCOUNTING ESTIMATES AND JUDGEMENTS

The preparation of financial statements requires the use of certain critical accounting estimates. It also requires the Directors to exercise its judgement in the process of applying the Company's accounting policies. Management makes estimates and assumptions concerning the future. The estimates and assumptions that have a significant risk of causing a material adjustment to the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities are discussed below within "Financial assets and liabilities at fair value through profit or loss – Fair value estimation". The Funds based its assumptions and estimates on parameters available when the financial statements were prepared. However, existing circumstances and assumptions about future developments may change due to market changes or circumstances arising beyond the control of the Funds. Such changes are reflected in the assumptions when they occur and are recognised prospectively.

FOREIGN CURRENCY TRANSLATION - FUNCTIONAL AND PRESENTATION CURRENCY

Items included in the Company's financial statements are measured using the currency of the primary economic environment in which each Fund operates (the "functional currency"). In accordance with Section 30 "Foreign Currency Translation" of FRS 102, the functional currency of each Fund has been evaluated by the Board of Directors based on the currency that most faithfully represents the economic effects of the underlying transactions, events, investors' base and conditions. The financial statements are presented in US dollar, which is the Company's presentational currency.

The functional and presentation currency of the Funds are US dollar, Euro, Sterling or Japanese yen as noted in the Statement of Financial Position.

Foreign currency assets and liabilities, including net assets attributable to redeemable participating shareholders are translated into the functional currency using the closing rate applicable at the financial period end date. Foreign currency income and expenses in the Statement of Comprehensive Income are translated into the functional currency at the exchange rates prevailing at the dates of the transactions. Proceeds from redeemable participating shares issued and the cost of redeemable participating shares redeemed are also translated into the functional currency at the exchange rates prevailing at the dates of the transactions. Foreign exchange gains and losses arising from transactions and translations are presented in the Statement of Comprehensive Income within "net gains/losses on financial assets/liabilities at fair value through profit or loss".

For Company aggregation purposes, all assets and liabilities together with income and expenses for all classes of shares are translated into US dollar using the closing rate for assets and liabilities and the average rate for income and expenses including subscriptions and redemptions, as this is the currency of the primary economic environment in which the Company operates. A currency adjustment arises from the re-translation of the opening net assets at the financial period end exchange rates, as disclosed in the Statement of Changes in Net Assets Attributable to Redeemable Participating Shareholders. This method of allocation has no effect on the value of net assets allocated to the individual Funds.

FINANCIAL ASSETS AND LIABILITIES AT FAIR VALUE THROUGH PROFIT OR LOSS - CLASSIFICATION

This category has two sub-categories: financial assets and liabilities held for trading, and those designated at fair value through profit or loss at inception.

A financial asset or liability is classified as held for trading if it is acquired or incurred principally for the purpose of selling or repurchasing in the near term or if on initial recognition is part of a portfolio of identifiable financial investments that are managed together and for which there is evidence of a recent actual pattern of short-term profit taking. Derivatives are also categorised as held for trading. The Company does not classify any derivatives as hedges in a hedging relationship.

Financial assets and liabilities designated at fair value through profit or loss at inception are financial instruments that are not classified as held for trading but are managed, and their performance is evaluated on a fair value basis in accordance with the investment strategy of the Funds as documented in the prospectus.

FINANCIAL ASSETS AND LIABILITIES AT FAIR VALUE THROUGH PROFIT OR LOSS – RECOGNITION AND MEASUREMENT

Regular purchases and sales of investments are recognised on the trade date – the date on which the Company commits to purchase or sell the investment. Financial assets and liabilities at fair value through profit or loss are initially recognised at fair value. Transaction costs are expensed as incurred in the Statement of Comprehensive Income.

Financial assets are derecognised when the rights to receive cash flows from the investments have expired or the Company has transferred substantially all risks and rewards of ownership.

Subsequent to initial recognition, all financial assets and liabilities at fair value through profit or loss are measured at fair value. Gains and losses arising from changes in the fair value of the "financial assets or financial liabilities at fair value through profit or loss" category are presented in the Statement of Comprehensive Income within "net gains/losses on financial assets/liabilities at fair value through profit or loss" in the financial period in which they arise using the average cost method.

For hedge share class level forward foreign currency contracts, the realised and unrealised gains or losses are allocated solely to the relevant share classes. The unrealised gains or losses on hedging activities are reflected in the "financial assets or financial liabilities at fair value through profit or loss" category in the Statement of Financial Position.

FINANCIAL ASSETS AND LIABILITIES AT FAIR VALUE THROUGH PROFIT OR LOSS – FAIR VALUE ESTIMATION

The fair value of financial assets and liabilities traded in active markets (such as publicly traded derivatives and trading securities) are based on quoted market prices at the financial period end date. In accordance with FRS 102, the Company has applied the recognition and measurement provisions of International Accounting Standards No. 39 "Financial Instruments: Recognition and Measurement" as adopted for use in the European Union and the disclosure requirements of Sections 11 and 12 of FRS 102. Accordingly, the quoted market price used for financial assets held is the mid-market price. When the Company holds derivatives with offsetting market risks, it uses mid-market prices as a basis for establishing fair values for the offsetting risk positions and applies this mid-market price to the net open position, as appropriate.

FINANCIAL ASSETS AND LIABILITIES AT FAIR VALUE THROUGH PROFIT OR LOSS - FAIR VALUE ESTIMATION cont'd.

If a significant movement in fair value occurs subsequent to the valuation point of the Funds on the financial period end date, valuation techniques will be applied to determine the fair value. A significant event is any event that occurs after the last market price for a security, close of market or close of the foreign exchange, but before the Funds' valuation time that materially affects the integrity of the closing prices for any security, instrument, currency or securities affected by that event so that they cannot be considered readily available market quotations.

The fair value of financial assets and liabilities that are not traded in an active market (for example over-the-counter derivatives) is determined by using valuation techniques. The Company uses a variety of methods and makes assumptions that are based on market conditions existing at each reporting date. Valuation techniques used include the use of comparable recent arm's length transactions, reference to other instruments that are substantially the same, discounted cash flow analysis, option pricing models and other valuation techniques commonly used by market participants making the maximum use of market inputs and relying as little as possible on entity-specific inputs.

For instruments for which there is no active market, the Company may use internally developed models, which are usually based on valuation methods and techniques generally recognised as standard within the industry. Valuation models are used primarily to value unlisted equity, debt securities and other debt instruments for which markets were or have been inactive during the financial period. Some of the inputs to these models may not be market observable and are therefore estimated based on assumptions. The output of a model is always an estimate or approximation of a value that cannot be determined with certainty, and valuation techniques employed may not fully reflect all factors relevant to the positions the Company holds. Valuations are therefore adjusted, where appropriate, to allow for additional factors including model risk, liquidity risk and counterparty risk. There were no instruments during the financial period or at financial period end that were valued using such model.

The carrying value less impairment provision of other receivables and payables are assumed to approximate their fair values.

The main valuation techniques of the Company are as follows:

- (a) Financial assets and liabilities listed and regularly traded on a recognised exchange and for which market quotations are readily available or traded on over-the-counter markets shall be valued at the mid-market price accordingly on the principal exchange in the market for such investment.
- (b) If the financial assets and liabilities are listed on several recognised exchanges, the quoted price on the recognised exchange, which, in the opinion of the Directors in consultation with the relevant investment manager, constitutes the principal market for such assets, will be used.
- (c) If for specific financial assets or liabilities the quoted price referred to in (a) or (b) above is not available or does not, in the opinion of the Directors in consultation with the relevant investment manager, reflect a fair or appropriate value, the value shall be calculated by alternative methods with care and in good faith by the Directors, as appropriate, approved for such purpose by BNY Mellon Trust Company (Ireland) Limited (the "Depositary"), in consultation with the relevant investment manager with a view to establishing the probable realisation value for such assets.
- (d) In the event that any financial assets or liabilities are not listed or dealt on any recognised exchange, such assets shall be valued by the Directors with care and in good faith and in consultation with the relevant investment manager at the probable realisation value. Such probable realisation value may be determined by using a bid quotation from a broker.
- (e) Cash and other liquid assets are valued at their face value with interest accrued, where applicable.
- (f) Units or shares in collective investment schemes (other than those valued pursuant to (a) or (b) above), are valued at the latest available net asset value of the relevant collective investment scheme.
- (g) Derivative instruments dealt on a market are fair valued at the settlement price for such instruments on such market. Where such derivative instruments are not dealt on a market, their value shall be the daily quotation from the counterparty provided that the valuation is approved or verified weekly by an independent party appointed by the relevant investment manager and approved for the purpose by the Depositary.
- (h) Forward foreign exchange contracts are fair valued by an independent price source by reference to the price at which a new forward contract of the same size and maturity could be undertaken.

FINANCIAL ASSETS AND LIABILITIES AT FAIR VALUE THROUGH PROFIT OR LOSS - FAIR VALUE ESTIMATION cont'd.

- (i) Initial margin deposits are made upon entering into futures contracts and are generally made in cash or cash equivalents. Futures contracts are fair valued based upon their quoted daily settlement prices. Changes in the value of open futures contracts are recognised as unrealised gains or losses on futures contracts until the contracts are terminated, at which time the realised gains and losses are recognised. Unrealised gains or losses on futures contracts are shown in the Portfolio of Investments. The variation margin receivable or payable at the reporting date is reported as an asset or liability, as applicable, in the Statement of Financial Position.
- (j) The premium on purchased put options exercised is subtracted from the proceeds of the sale of the underlying security or foreign currency in determining the realised gain or loss. The premium on purchased call options exercised is added to the cost of the securities or foreign currencies purchased. Premiums paid from the purchase of options, which expire unexercised are treated as realised losses. The premium on written call options exercised is added to the proceeds from the sale of the underlying security or foreign currency in determining the realised gain or loss. The premium on written put options exercised is subtracted from the cost of the securities or foreign currencies purchased. Premiums received from written options, which expire unexercised are treated as realised gains.
- (k) Interest rate, credit default and total return swap contracts are fair valued daily based upon quotations from independent pricing service or market makers and the change in the value if any is recorded as unrealised gains or losses. Payments received or made as a result of the contract termination are recognised net of any upfront payment as realised gains or losses. Income on over-the-counter derivatives accrues to the Funds and is not subject to any returns sharing arrangements with BNY Mellon Global Management Limited (the "Manager") or any other parties.
- (I) Commercial paper and time deposits are valued at amortised cost, as a best estimate of fair value. The Company may invest in financial instruments that are not traded in an active market, whereby fair value may be determined by applying valuation techniques, such as discounted cash flow analysis and other valuation techniques used by market participants.
- (m) Exchange traded funds are fair valued based upon quotations of the net asset value per share from independent pricing sources.
- (n) Certain Funds may enter into "TBA" (To Be Announced) purchase commitments to purchase securities for a fixed unit price at a future date beyond customary settlement time. Although the unit price has been established, the principal value has not been finalised. The Funds hold and maintain until settlement date, cash or high grade debt obligations in an amount sufficient to meet the purchase price, or the Funds may enter into offsetting contracts for the forward sale of other securities they own. Income on the securities will not be earned until settlement date. TBA purchase commitments may be considered securities in themselves and involve a risk of loss if the value of the security to be purchased declines prior to settlement date, which is in addition to the risk of decline in the value of the Funds' other assets. Unsettled TBA purchase commitments are valued at the current market value of the underlying securities. Although the Funds may enter into TBA purchase commitments with the intention of acquiring securities for their portfolios or for delivery pursuant to option contracts that they have entered into, the Funds may dispose of a commitment prior to settlement if the investment manager deems it the appropriate action.
- (o) Equity swaps are priced in accordance with the pricing basis for the underlying equity positions. Finance charges on equity swaps are accrued daily, reset on a monthly basis and subject to settlement on disposal of equity swaps. Income on equity swaps accrues to the Funds and is not subject to any returns sharing arrangements with the Manager or any other parties.
- (p) Loans are fair valued based on valuations provided by the pricing vendor Markit. Fees earned or paid are recorded as a component of "net gains/(losses) on financial assets/liabilities at fair value through profit or loss" in the Statement of Comprehensive Income. Where Markit is unable to provide a value for a loan, the loan is fair valued based on a quotation obtained from a loan house. Unsettled loans are fair valued based on the agreed purchase price until a valuation from pricing vendor becomes available.

LOANS

Certain Funds of the Company may invest in direct debt instruments which are interests in amounts owed to lenders or lending syndicates by corporate, governmental, or other borrowers. A Fund's investments in loans may be in the form of participations in loans or assignments of all or a portion of loans from third parties. A loan is often administered by a bank or other financial institution (the "lender") that acts as agent for all holders. The agent administers the terms of the loan, as specified in the loan agreement. A Fund may invest in multiple series or tranches of a loan, which may have varying terms and carry different associated risks. A Fund generally has no right to enforce compliance with the terms of the loan agreement with the borrower. As a result, a Fund may be subject to the credit risk of both the borrower and the lender that is selling the loan agreement.

When a Fund purchases assignments from lenders, it acquires direct rights against the borrower of the loan. When investing in a loan, a Fund has the right to receive payments of principal, interest and any fees to which it is entitled only from the lender selling the loan agreement and only upon receipt of payments by the lender from the borrower. As at 30 June 2017, loans are held on the portfolio of BNY Mellon Absolute Return Bond Fund, BNY Mellon Global High Yield Bond Fund, BNY Mellon Global Short-Dated High Yield Bond Fund and BNY Mellon Global Opportunistic Bond Fund (31 December 2016: loans were held on the portfolio of BNY Mellon Absolute Insight Fund, BNY Mellon Absolute Return Bond Fund, BNY Mellon Global High Yield Bond Fund, BNY Mellon Short-Dated High Yield Bond Fund and BNY Melon Global Opportunistic Bond Fund).

RECEIVABLES

Receivables include cash at bank, income receivable, receivable for investments sold, rebate receivable from the management company, margins on derivatives contracts, cash collateral received from broker, subscriptions receivable and other receivables. These amounts are recognised initially at fair value and subsequently measured at amortised cost.

FINANCIAL LIABILITIES AT AMORTISED COST

Financial liabilities at amortised cost include bank overdraft, payable for investments purchased, redemptions payable, expenses payable, performance fees payable, margins on derivatives contracts, cash collateral payable to broker, income payable on swaps, finance charges payable on swaps and other payables. These amounts are recognised initially at fair value and subsequently measured at amortised cost.

OFFSETTING FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

Financial assets and liabilities are offset and the net amount reported in the Statement of Financial Position when there is a legally enforceable right to offset the recognised amounts and there is an intention to settle on a net basis or realise the asset and settle the liability simultaneously.

CROSS INVESTMENT

As at 30 June 2017 and 31 December 2016, BNY Mellon Euroland Bond Fund and BNY Mellon European Credit Fund invest in other Funds of the Company. These cross investments have been eliminated in the financial statements of the Company. Where a Fund invests in another Fund or Funds of the Company, these cross investments have been deducted from the total net asset value when calculating the management fees payable. The realised gains and losses, including movements in unrealised gains and losses, on the cross investments, have been eliminated in the Total Company amounts disclosed in the Statement of Comprehensive Income.

CASH AND CASH EQUIVALENTS AND BANK OVERDRAFTS

Cash and cash equivalents are valued at face value, with interest accrued where applicable at relevant valuation point on the relevant business day. Cash equivalents include deposits held at call with banks and other short-term investments in an active market with original maturities of three months or less. Bank overdrafts are shown separately in the Statement of Financial Position.

COLLATERAL

Cash collateral provided by the Funds is identified in the Statement of Financial Position as "margins on derivative contracts" and is not included as a component of cash and cash equivalents. Cash collateral received by the Funds is identified in the Statement of Financial Position as "cash collateral received from broker". The obligation to return the cash collateral is identified in the Statement of Financial Position as "cash collateral payable to broker". Cash collateral received is restricted and does not form part of the Funds' cash and cash equivalents. For collateral other than cash, if the party to whom the collateral is provided has the right by contract or custom to sell or re-pledge the collateral, the Funds classify that asset in its Statement of Financial Position separately from other assets and identify the asset as pledged collateral. Where the party to whom the collateral is provided does not have the right to sell or re-pledge, a disclosure of the collateral provided is made in the Portfolio of Investments, as indicated by a "*" tick mark.

TRANSACTION COSTS

Transaction costs are costs incurred to acquire financial assets or liabilities at fair value through profit or loss. They include fees and commissions paid to agents, advisers, brokers and dealers. In respect of equities and financial derivative instruments, the transaction costs, when incurred, are immediately recognised in the Statement of Comprehensive Income as an expense and are included in the "net gains/(losses) on financial assets/liabilities at fair value through profit or loss". In respect of all other securities, the bid ask spread is embedded in the purchase and sale price of the securities and cannot be separately verified or disclosed.

DIVIDEND INCOME

Dividend income from financial assets at fair value through profit or loss is recognised in the Statement of Comprehensive Income within "dividend income" when the right of the Funds to receive payments is established. Dividend income is shown gross of any non-recoverable withholding taxes.

DIVIDEND EXPENSE

Interest on short equity swaps is recognised in the Statement of Comprehensive Income as "dividend expense", which may be subject to change, dependant on periodic resetting and/or final disposal of underlying swap instruments.

INTEREST INCOME

Interest income on interest bearing financial instruments is shown as a component of "net gains/losses on financial assets/liabilities at fair value through profit or loss". Bank interest income is accounted for on a cash receipts basis.

TAXATION

Under current law and practice, there is no income, gains or other taxes payable by the Funds. The Funds currently incur withholding taxes imposed by certain countries on investment income and capital gains. Withholding taxes are disclosed separately in the Statement of Comprehensive Income and net of any tax credits.

Effective 1 October 2016, BNY Mellon Brazil Equity Fund has elected to accrue for Brazilian capital gains tax on net realised and unrealised gains on investments. The capital gains tax is recorded in accordance with the understanding of the change in Brazilian tax regulations and rates on Irish investors, which came into effect on 1 October 2016. The capital gains tax expense and the amounts payable at the financial period end are reflected in the "withholding taxes on dividends and other investment income" and "tax payable" figures in the Statement of Comprehensive Income and the Statement of Financial Position, respectively.

EXPENSES

Expenses are accounted for on an accruals basis. Any costs associated with the termination of a Fund are paid for by the Manager.

SECURITIES LENDING

The Company has entered into a securities lending agreement (as amended, assigned, novated and assumed) with The Bank of New York Mellon, London Branch and the Depositary. The Company can lend securities with a value of up to 100% of any one line of stock, to borrowers approved by The Bank of New York Mellon. The Company receives securities, financial instruments or other assets as collateral against the loaned securities. The Company does not accept cash as collateral or engage in cash collateral reinvestment. Collateral held (and pending) will not be less than 102% of the value of the securities on loan. Securities lending income is accounted for on a cash receipts basis. Details of the securities lending position at the financial period end are contained in Note 13 to the financial statements.

DISTRIBUTIONS TO REDEEMABLE PARTICIPATING SHAREHOLDERS

Distributions to redeemable participating shareholders are recognised as "finance costs" in the Statement of Comprehensive Income when they are declared to the Irish Stock Exchange, as detailed in the prospectus.

For non-distributing share classes, all income earned and realised net capital gains after the deduction of expenses will be accumulated and reflected in the net asset value per share.

REDEEMABLE PARTICIPATING SHARES

The Company issues multiple classes of redeemable participating shares within each Fund which are redeemable at the holder's option and do not have identical rights. Such shares are classified as financial liabilities.

Redeemable participating shares can be put back to the Fund at any time for cash equal to a proportionate share of the Fund's net asset value attributable to the share class. The redeemable participating shares are carried at the redemption amount that is payable at the financial period end date if the holder exercises the right to put the share back to the Fund.

Redeemable participating shares are issued and redeemed at the holder's option at prices based on the Fund's net asset value per share at the time of issue or redemption. The Fund's net asset value per share is calculated by dividing the net assets attributable to the holders of each class of redeemable participating shares with the total number of outstanding redeemable participating shares for each respective class in accordance with the provisions of the prospectus in determining the net asset value per share for subscriptions and redemptions.

DILUTION ADJUSTMENT

To mitigate the effects of dilution, the Directors may, at their discretion, make a dilution adjustment to the net asset value per share. The Directors will retain the discretion in relation to the circumstances in which to make such a dilution adjustment.

The decision to make a dilution adjustment will depend on the volume of subscriptions or redemptions of shares in the Fund. The Directors may in their discretion make a dilution adjustment if, in their opinion, the existing shareholders, in the case of subscriptions, or remaining shareholders, in the case of redemptions, might otherwise be adversely affected. In particular, the dilution adjustment may be made in the following circumstances:

- where a Fund is in continual decline (i.e. is experiencing a net outflow of redemptions);
- if the Fund is experiencing large levels of net subscriptions or net redemptions relevant to its size; and
- in any other circumstances where the Directors believe it will be in the interests of shareholders to make a dilution adjustment.

The dilution adjustment will involve adding to the net asset value per share when the Fund is in a net subscription position, and deducting from the net asset value per share when the Fund is in a net redemption position, such figure as the Directors consider represents an appropriate figure to meet transaction costs, including but not restricted to market spreads, brokerage fees and taxes, to preserve the value of the underlying assets of the relevant Fund and in any other circumstances where the Directors believe it will be in the interests of the shareholders. The resultant amount will be the price rounded to such number of decimal places, as the Directors deem appropriate.

Where a dilution adjustment is made, it will increase the price at which shares shall be issued when there are net subscriptions and decrease the price at which shares shall be redeemed when there are net redemptions. The price at which each class of share shall be issued or redeemed (as appropriate) will be calculated separately but any dilution adjustment will in percentage terms affect the price of each class in an identical manner. Such dilution adjustment will not exceed 3% of the Funds' net asset value. As dilution is directly related to the inflows and outflows from a Fund, it is not possible to accurately predict whether dilution will occur at any future point in time. Consequently, it is also not possible to accurately predict how frequently the dilution adjustment will be applied.

As at 30 June 2017, there is a dilution adjustment on BNY Mellon Asian Equity Fund and BNY Mellon Global Opportunistic Bond Fund in the amount of USD 231,253 and USD 139,741, respectively. The dilution adjustment is included in "other payables" in the Statement of Financial Position and "redemptions" in the Statement of Changes in Net Assets Attributable to Redeemable Participating Shareholders. As at 30 June 2016, there was no dilution adjustment.

2. SHARE CAPITAL

AUTHORISED SHARES

The initial authorised share capital of the Company is EUR 38,092 divided into 38,092 subscriber shares of EUR 1.00 each and 25,000,000,000 at no par value initially designated as unclassified shares. The unclassified shares are available for issue as participating shares.

SUBSCRIBER SHARES

The 38,092 subscriber shares at EUR 1.00 each were all issued as fully paid, 38,085 of which are held by the Manager and the remainder are held on trust by nominees for the Manager. The subscriber shares do not entitle the holders to any dividend and on a winding up, entitle the holders to receive the amount paid up thereon but not otherwise to participate in the assets of the Company. The subscriber shares do not form part of the net asset value of the Company and are thus disclosed in the financial statements by way of this note only. In the opinion of the Directors, this disclosure reflects the nature of the Company's investment business.

REDEEMABLE PARTICIPATING SHARES

Redeemable participating shares carry the right to a proportionate share in the assets of the Funds and the holder of the share is entitled to one vote each on a poll. Shares are redeemed by shareholders at prices based on the value of net assets of the relevant class.

The activity on redeemable participating shares for the financial period ended 30 June 2017 is as follows:

The Company and each Fund may invest in Financial Derivative Instruments ("FDIs") for investment purposes where specified in the relevant supplement to the prospectus. 15. RISK MANAGEMENT OBJECTIVES AND POLICIES

STRATEGY IN USING FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

The Company's investment activities expose it to the various types of risk, which are associated with the financial instruments and markets in which it invests: market risk (including market price risk, interest rate risk and currency risk), credit risk and liquidity risk. The Company has in place risk management programmes that seek to limit the potential adverse effects of these risks on the Funds' financial performances.

^{}This Fund closed during the second half of 2016, hence only one period of NAV information.
^This share class was launched or closed during the financial period.

STRATEGY IN USING FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS cont'd.

The assets of each Fund will be invested separately in accordance with the investment objectives and policies of the relevant Fund, which are set out in the relevant supplements to the prospectus. Where a Fund maintains in its name reference to a particular currency, country, region, economic sector or type of security, at least three quarters of the assets of that Fund will comprise investments corresponding to the relevant currency, country, region, economic sector or type of security (as appropriate).

The Funds may use FDI for efficient portfolio management purposes or to protect against foreign exchange risks. Some Funds have the facility to use FDI for investment purposes according to the Central Bank UCITS Regulations. In their Risk Management Process ("RMP") it explains whether each Fund uses the commitment approach or Value at Risk ("VaR") to calculate its global exposure. The commitment approach measures the leverage effect produced by the use of derivatives and is calculated by converting all derivative positions, whether used as part of the Fund's general investment policy, for purposes of risk reduction or for the purpose of efficient portfolio management, based on the market values of the underlying assets or contracts. VaR for a pre-defined time horizon measures the threshold loss in value of a portfolio of financial instruments that may be exceeded for a given probability (either Absolute^[1] or Relative^[2]). The quality of the VaR model forecasts is demonstrated by back-testing. As a complement to VaR, stress testing is used to evaluate the potential impact on portfolio values of extreme, although plausible, events or movements in a set of financial variables.

For a more detailed discussion, the RMP for each of the Funds is available on request.

FINANCIAL RISK MANAGEMENT PROCESS

In order to achieve its investment objectives, the Company buys, sells and holds financial assets and liabilities. As a consequence, the Company is exposed to market price risk, interest rate risk, currency risk, credit risk and liquidity risk arising from the financial instruments it holds. The Company's overall risk management programme focuses on the unpredictability of financial markets and seeks to minimise potential adverse effects on the Company's financial performance. The Company uses FDI to moderate certain risk exposures.

The risk management policies employed by the Company to manage these risks are discussed below.

INVESTMENT RISK

Activities of each Fund expose it to a variety of financial risks: market risk (including market price risk, interest rate risk and currency risk), credit risk and liquidity risk.

MARKET RISK

Market risk is the risk that the fair value of a financial instrument will fluctuate because of changes in market prices. Market risk comprises three types of risk: market price risk, interest rate risk and currency risk.

MARKET PRICE RISK

Market price risk is the risk that the fair value of a financial instrument will fluctuate because of changes in market prices (other than those arising from interest rate risk and currency risk), whether those changes are caused by factors specific to individual financial instruments or its issuer, or other factors affecting similar financial instruments traded in the market.

Many of the Funds trade in financial instruments, taking positions in traded securities in the equity and equity derivative markets. The investment of the Fund is subject to market fluctuations and there can be no assurances that investments will appreciate in value, therefore presenting a risk of loss of capital.

The Investment Managers manage market price risk through building diversified investment portfolios across a range of industry and/or geographic sectors as is appropriate for the Fund and in accordance with the Central Bank UCITS Regulations and the investment objectives of the Funds. An analysis of exposures to market price risk is provided in the Portfolio of Investments for each Fund. The market positions of the Funds are monitored on a daily basis by the Investment Managers, reviewed on a monthly basis by the Investment Management Oversight Committee and on a quarterly basis by the Directors.

^[1] This is defined as the VaR of the Fund capped as a percentage of NAV.

 $^{^{[2]}}$ This is defined as the VaR of the Fund divided by the VaR of a benchmark or reference portfolio.

MARKET PRICE RISK cont'd.

The Company's market risk strategy is driven by the Company's investment risk and return objectives. The Board of Directors has instructed the Investment Managers to manage each of the risks in accordance with an established risk management system.

VaR is the risk measurement methodology used to assess the Fund's leverage and market risk volatility. When the VaR is calculated as a percentage of the net asset value of the Fund (absolute or relative VaR), it may not be greater than the Regulatory limits, as detailed in the prospectus. VaR is calculated on a daily basis using a one-tailed 99% confidence level and pre-determined holding period on either an absolute (where the figure is compared to the net asset value of the fund) or relative basis (where VaR is compared to the benchmark or reference portfolio). The historical observation period will not be less than one year unless a shorter period is justified.

Some limitations of VaR analysis are:

- the models' methodologies are based on historical data and cannot take account of the fact that future market price movements, correlations between markets and levels of market liquidity in conditions of market stress may bear no relation to historical patterns;
- the market price risk information is a relative estimate of risk rather than a precise and accurate number; and
- the market price information represents a hypothetical outcome and is not intended to be predictive.

Leverage is calculated as the sum of the notionals of the derivatives used. (This may be supplemented with leverage calculated on the basis of a commitment approach. The creation of leveraged exposure to an index via FDI, or the inclusion of a leverage feature in an index, must also be taken into account in meeting the prospectus disclosure requirements).

INTEREST RATE RISK

Interest rate risk is defined as the risk that the fair value of a financial instrument will fluctuate because of changes in market interest rates. This risk arises on financial instruments whose fair value is affected by changes in interest rates.

The majority of the Company's financial assets and liabilities i.e. those Funds holding substantially equity or equity derivative instruments are non-interest bearing, as a result, these assets are not subject to significant amounts of risk due to fluctuations in the prevailing levels of market interest rates. Any excess cash and cash equivalents are invested at short-term market interest rates.

For those Funds holding primarily interest bearing securities and as such exposed to the risk of fluctuations in the prevailing levels of market interest rates, the Investment Managers monitor the Funds' exposure to interest fluctuations on a daily basis. Whilst primarily an investment decision, the Investment Managers employ proprietary systems and processes to best position the Funds to benefit from or limit the risk of any fluctuations in the prevailing market levels of market interest rates.

The Investment Managers will endeavour to acquire interest bearing securities in liquid markets. However, not all securities invested by the Funds will be listed or rated and consequently liquidity may be low. Moreover the accumulation and disposal of holdings in some securities may be time consuming and need to be conducted at unfavourable prices. The Funds may also encounter difficulties in disposing of assets at their fair price due to adverse market conditions leading to limited liquidity. The financial markets of emerging market countries in general, are less liquid than those of the more developed nations. Purchases and sales of investments may take longer than would otherwise be expected on developed stock markets and transactions may need to be conducted at unfavourable prices.

CURRENCY RISK

Currency risk is the risk that a fair value of a financial instrument will fluctuate because of changes in foreign exchange rates. The risk arises on financial instruments that are denominated in a currency other than the functional currency in which they are measured.

The Investment Managers monitor the Company's currency position on a daily basis and may act to manage the Company's currency exposure through the use of FDI such as forward foreign currency contracts or options. The Investment Managers of hedged non-base share classes may also use derivative instruments such as forward foreign currency contracts or options as a key component of their operating strategy. Currency risk does not arise from financial instruments denominated in the functional currency.

CREDIT RISK

Credit risk is the risk that one party to a financial instrument will cause a financial loss for the other party by failing to discharge an obligation. This includes counterparty risk and issuer risk. Financial assets, which potentially expose the Company to credit risk, consist principally of interest bearing securities such as bonds, financial derivative instruments and investments in cash balances and deposits with and receivable from brokers.

The extent of the Company's exposure to credit risk in respect of these financial assets approximates their carrying values as recorded in the Statement of Financial Position.

The Investment Managers manage issuer risk through building diversified portfolios with a limited concentration of exposure (10%) to any one issuer in accordance with the Central Bank UCITS Regulations and the investment objectives of the Funds. Additionally, if required the Investment Managers will limit ownership of debt instruments to those instruments carrying a credit rating equal to or in excess of that provided for in the individual investment objectives of the Funds.

Substantially all of the assets of the Company are held by the Depositary. Bankruptcy or insolvency of the Depositary may cause the Company's rights with respect to securities and other positions held by the Depositary to be delayed or limited.

The Company only transacts with depositaries that are regulated entities subject to prudential supervision, or with high credit ratings assigned by international credit-rating agencies. The Directors monitor the credit quality of the Depositary on a quarterly basis in order to mitigate risk. The Depositary delegates the day-to-day responsibilities to its global sub-custodian, the London branch of The Bank of New York Mellon SA/NV, licensed as a bank in Belgium, whose long-term senior debt and long-term deposit rating by Standard & Poor's is AA- (31 December 2016: AA-) as at the end of the financial period.

The Company's securities and other positions are segregated from the assets of either the Depositary or its agents. Thus in the event of insolvency or bankruptcy of the Depositary, the Company's securities and other positions are segregated from those of the Depositary or its agents. The Company will, however, be exposed to the credit risk of the Depositary, or any custodian used by the Depositary, in relation to the Company's cash held by the Depositary and the subscription and redemption cash collection accounts held by the Global Sub-Custodian. In the event of insolvency or bankruptcy of the Depositary, the Company will be treated as a general creditor of the Depositary in relation to cash holdings of the Company.

Counterparty/issuer risk is monitored in the following manner:

- Each Investment Manager maintains an Approved Broker list which is subject to ongoing monitoring. The trading system only permits trading with approved brokers. New brokers are added, subject to a formal review process that includes a review of the broker's creditworthiness and financial strength.
- Measurement and monitoring of counterparty or issuer trade exposure is conducted daily and consists of reviewing all outstanding positions held.

The permanent risk function of the Company oversees this process as well as performing independent checks.

For Funds using the cash sweep management, cash balances are automatically swept into the short-term investment vehicle daily before the designated dealing time for the Funds. The cash investment auto-sweep is part of the daily cash management procedure. All money market funds available through the cash sweep management are triple-A rated by Standard & Poor's and Moody's and maintains a stable net asset value. US dollar, Euro and Sterling prime and treasury funds are available for investments, in addition to a number of funds in additional currencies, depending on the domicile of the investor and the tax implications.

CREDIT RISK cont'd.

Details of Standard & Poor's credit rating carried by investments held in interest bearing securities such as bonds and similar financial instruments, in certain Funds, as at 30 June 2017 and further analytics may be sourced from the Company's Datafile, produced by BNY Mellon Investment Management EMEA Limited.

All transactions in listed securities are settled or paid upon delivery using approved brokers. The risk of broker default is considered minimal as delivery of securities sold is only made once the broker has received payment. Payment is made on a purchase once the securities have been received by the broker.

Credit default swaps provide a measure of protection against defaults of debt issuers. The use of credit default swaps does not assure their use will be effective or will have the desired result. The credit events are specified in the contract and are intended to identify the occurrence of a significant deterioration in the creditworthiness of the reference asset. As a seller of protection on credit default swaps, the Funds will generally receive from the buyer of protection a fixed rate of income throughout the term of the swap provided that there is no credit event. As the seller, the Funds would effectively add leverage to their portfolios because, in addition to their total net assets, the Funds would be subject to investment exposure on the notional amounts of the swaps.

The maximum potential amount of future payments (undiscounted) that a Fund as a seller of protection could be required to make under a credit default swap equals the notional amount of the agreement. These potential amounts would be partially offset by any recovery values of the respective referenced obligations, upfront payments received upon entering into the agreement, or net amounts received from the settlement of buy protection credit default swap entered into by the Funds for the same referenced entity or entities.

Where possible the Company restricts its exposure to credit losses on the trading derivative instruments it holds by entering into master netting arrangements with counterparties (approved brokers) with whom it undertakes a significant volume of transactions. Derivatives are held with counterparties on an unsegregated basis. Master netting arrangements do not result in an offset of balance sheet assets and liabilities, as transactions are usually settled on a gross basis. However, the credit risk associated with favourable contracts is reduced by a master netting arrangement to the extent that if an event of default occurs, all amounts with the counterparty are terminated and settled on a net basis. The Company's overall exposure to credit risk on derivative instruments subject to a master netting arrangement can change substantially within a short period, as it is affected by each transaction subject to the arrangement.

The Company employs a risk management process which will enable it to measure, monitor and manage the risks attached to financial derivative positions and details of this process have been provided to the Central Bank.

For the purpose of providing margin or collateral in respect of transactions in financial derivative instruments, the Funds of the Company may transfer, mortgage, charge or encumber any assets or cash forming part of the Funds. The Funds may also be exposed to a credit risk in relation to the counterparties with whom they transact or place margin or collateral in respect of transactions in financial derivative instruments and may bear the risk of counterparty default.

The Funds may receive cash and eligible non-cash collateral in relation to derivative trading to reduce counterparty exposure. Cash collateral received by the Fund is shown as an asset in the Statement of Financial Position, which is offset by a corresponding liability.

Those Funds entering into securities lending arrangements are also open to counterparty risk. To minimise such risk, collateral is held, exceeding in value the amount of securities on loan. Details of these are provided in Note 13 of the financial statements.

BNY Mellon Absolute Return Bond Fund, BNY Mellon Global High Yield Bond Fund, BNY Mellon Global Short-Dated High Yield Bond Fund and BNY Mellon Global Opportunistic Bond Fund have investments in leveraged loans which are held on an unsegregated basis with the agent banks. These loans are not held with the Depositary and accordingly the Funds are subject to the credit risk of the borrower. The Funds are also subject to the credit risk of the agent banks.

LIQUIDITY RISK

Liquidity risk is the risk that the Company may not be able to generate sufficient cash resources to settle its obligations in full as they fall due or can only do so on terms that are materially disadvantageous.

The Company is exposed to the daily settlement of margin calls on derivatives and to daily cash redemptions of redeemable participating shares. Each Fund therefore invests the majority of its assets in investments that are traded in an active market and can be readily disposed of; it invests only a limited proportion of its assets in investments not actively traded on a listed exchange. Listed securities of each Fund are considered readily realisable, as they are listed on a regulated stock exchange.

The Investment Managers utilise derivative instruments and debt securities, if appropriate, such as exchange traded index future contracts to allow exposure to markets whilst maintaining sufficient liquidity.

Where any Fund acquires securities on the over-the-counter markets, there is no guarantee that the Fund will be able to realise the fair value of such securities due to their tendency to have limited liquidity and comparatively high price volatility.

The Company has the ability to borrow in the short term to ensure settlement. An overdraft facility is in place and has been utilised for settlement liquidity purposes. The Depositary shall be entitled to use available cash in the Fund's account and to liquidate securities in the account as is necessary to meet the Fund's obligations in connection with the provision of an overdraft facility to the Fund and/or unpaid amounts.

The Company's financial assets and liabilities are held for trading and are acquired principally for the purpose of selling in the short term. As these securities are not expected to be held to maturity or termination, the current market value represents the estimated cash flow that may be required to dispose of the securities. Future cash flows of the Funds and realised liabilities may differ from current liabilities based on changes in market conditions.

Redeemable shares are redeemed on demand at the holders' option. However, the Directors do not envisage that the contractual maturity will be representative of the actual cash outflows, as holders of these instruments typically retain them for the medium to long term.

In order to manage the Company's overall liquidity and to facilitate an orderly disposition of securities, the Directors are able to refuse to repurchase any shares in excess of one tenth of the shares in issue in a Fund on any one valuation day by way of the provisions in the prospectus.

NUMBER OF SHAREHOLDERS

The Company did not have less than 10 redeemable participating shareholders at the end of the financial period.

CAPITAL RISK MANAGEMENT

The capital of the Funds is represented by the net assets at the end of the financial period. The amount of net assets can change significantly on a daily basis as the Funds are subject to daily subscriptions and redemptions at the discretion of shareholders. The Funds' objective when managing capital is to safeguard the Funds' ability to continue as a going concern in order to provide returns for shareholders and benefits for other stakeholders and to maintain a strong capital base to support the development of the investment activities of the Funds.

In order to maintain or adjust the capital structure, it is part of the Company's policy to perform the following:

- The level of daily subscriptions and redemptions relative to the assets it expects to be able to liquidate is monitored and the amount of distributions payable to redeemable participating shareholders is adjusted accordingly.
- Redeemable participating shares are issued and redeemed in accordance with the prospectus and supplements of the Funds, which include the ability to restrict redemptions and requirement for certain minimum holdings and subscriptions.

FAIR VALUE ESTIMATION

The Company had adopted the Amendments to FRS 102, "Fair Value Hierarchy Disclosures", which are effective for accounting periods beginning on or after 1 January 2017. These amendments require the Company to categorise its fair value measurements into the following levels consistent with the fair value hierarchy set out in International Financial Reporting Standards as adopted for use in the European Union. These amendments did not have any impact on the Funds' financial position or performance.

- Level 1: Quoted prices (unadjusted) in active markets for identical assets or liabilities.
- Level 2: Inputs other than quoted prices included within level 1 that are observable for the asset or liability, either directly (that is, as prices) or indirectly (that is, derived from prices).

Level 3: Inputs for the asset or liability that are not based on observable market data (that is, unobservable inputs).

Instruments whose values are based on quoted market prices in active markets, and therefore classified within level 1, include active listed equities, exchange traded derivatives, highly liquid government bonds (G7 countries), certificate of deposit and other quoted securities. The Company does not adjust the quoted price for these instruments.

Financial instruments that trade in markets that are not considered to be active but are valued based on quoted market prices, dealer quotations or alternative pricing sources supported by observable inputs are classified within level 2. These include investment-grade government (non-G7 countries) and corporate bonds, over-the-counter derivatives, collected investment schemes, money market instruments, P-Notes and certain listed equities. As level 2 investments include positions that are not traded in active markets and/or are subject to transfer restrictions, valuations may be adjusted to reflect illiquidity and/or non-transferability, which are generally based on available market information.

Investments classified within level 3 have significant unobservable inputs, as they trade infrequently. Level 3 instruments include leveraged loans and corporate debt securities. Unobservable inputs shall be used to measure fair value to the extent that relevant observable inputs are not available, thereby allowing for situations in which there is little, if any, market activity for the asset or liability at the measurement date. However, the fair value measurement objective remains the same, i.e. an exit price from the perspective of a market participant that holds the asset or owes the liability.

Therefore, unobservable inputs shall reflect the assumptions that market participants would use when pricing the asset or liability, including assumptions about risk. The sensitivity of unobservable inputs used in the fair valuation of these level 3 securities is not readily determinable.

FAIR VALUE ESTIMATION cont'd.

The following table provides an analysis of financial instruments, as at 30 June 2017 that are measured at fair value in accordance with FRS 102.

The collaterals are held in the name of the Agent Lender to the order of its clients; the actual segregation to underlying client level is done with the Agent Lender's books and records. The collaterals are held on account at the tri-party agent, who acts as a settlement and collection service for securities and collateral between the lender and the borrower. The tri-party agents used are Euroclear, Global Collateral Management - The Bank of New York Mellon Institutional Bank and JPMorgan Chase Bank, N.A. (where JPMorgan are the borrower). For bilateral transactions, the collaterals are held on account at the Agent Lender.

The following table provides an analysis of the amounts held at each collateral agent as non-cash collateral received in respect of securities lending transactions as at 30 June 2017:
