SEB Eastern Europe Small Cap Fund aims to create long-term capital growth at a well-balanced risk level. This actively managed fund focuses on small caps companies in Eastern Europe including Russia and countries in the surrounded region. The main categories of financial instruments are equities and equity related instruments.

Derivatives may be used to achieve investment objectives or for hedging. Derivatives are a type of financial instrument, the value of which is derived from underlying financial instruments.

Risk and Reward Profile

1	2	3	4	5	6	7
---	---	---	---	---	----------	---

The risk and reward indicator illustrates the relationship between risk and return for the fund. The higher the fund is positioned on this scale, the greater the possible reward, but also the greater risk of losing money. Category 1 does not mean that the investment is risk free.

The risk category is calculated using historical data or simulated historical performance when actual historical data is insufficient. Past performance may not be a reliable indicator of the fund's future risk and reward profile.

This fund is in category 6. This means that the risk for value changes in the fund is high. This category may change over time.

Equity funds are generally subject to large fluctuations in value. The fund is exposed to small companies in Eastern Europe including Russia. This may imply a higher risk compared to funds with a broader geographic diversification in larger companies.

The following risks are not fully reflected in the above classification but still influence the fund's value:

Counterparty risk - if a counterparty does not fulfill its obligations to the fund (e.g. not paying an agreed amount or not delivering securities as agreed).

Liquidity risk - some of the assets of the fund may become difficult to sell at a certain time and for a reasonable price.

Operational risk - the risk of loss resulting from e.g. system breakdowns, human errors or from external events.

Currency risk - the fund invests in securities that are issued in currencies other than the base currency of the fund. As a result the fund is subject to currency risk, which arises from changes in the exchange rates.

Emerging market risk - the fund invests in emerging markets which can be subject to economic and political instability, possibility of large currency fluctuations or low liquidity in local markets.
