Due to subsequent adjustments at individual target fund level, the annual figures reported to date from the previous years 2003-2023 differ from the data reported here. In this context, we would like to point out that after the end of a performance period and after the performance determination for the overall portfolio, there are sometimes retroactive corrections by the fund companies of funds allocated in the portfolio. These corrections are usually in the "immaterial range", as they are only a few tenths or even hundredths per fund and year. Up to now, we have always shown the performance calculated immediately after the end of the performance period. Due to technical reasons, we are forced to change this and to show the performance of the portfolios including the retroactive adjustments in the future. We kindly ask you to note this!
