Man Funds VI plc Investment Manager's Report

Man GLG European Alpha Alternative - Semi - Annual Report Commentary

The GLG European Alpha Alternative UCITS 1H net performance was -0.9% over the course of the first six months of 2017.

Market Review:

The Euro Stoxx 600 rose +5.0% during H1 '17. However this perhaps glosses over what has been a tale of two quarters during the half. From 15th May to 30th June, the index fell 4.3%, as the USD weakened versus the Euro and European cyclical stocks sold off.

The best performing sectors in 1H were the European Financial Services index +13.8% & the European Technology index +12.4%. The worst performing index by some distance was the European oil and gas index down -11%, followed by the European retail index down -3.2%. Since May we've witnessed some sharp sector rotation instigated by a rapid adjustment in the debt markets.

Strategy Review:

Throughout 1H17 we've held relatively low gross and net exposure as we've sought to optimise our process. Since the turn of the year we've developed and refined the signals within our strategy through rigorous analysis of both the signals and the universes in which they operate alongside relentless back-testing. We are confident these efforts will enable us to deliver higher risk-adjusted returns for our investors.

On the fundamental side, Andrew Stone joined the fund on 27th March to assist in our three-step process. A graduate of Cambridge University and the London School of Economics, Andrew joined us from Morgan Stanley where he had worked in the Equity Sales and Trading teams since January 2013. Andrew's addition to the team has reinforced our fundamental expertise and enabled us to optimise the fundamental side of our process further.

Market and Fund Outlook:

Whilst we do not take a view on market direction, it is perhaps worth noting that European consensus earnings revisions have fallen to a one year low at a time when European growth is improving after years of lagging global economic growth. To this end, we see the potential for a number of surprises in the second half of 2017.

Having spent much of this year refining our processes at relatively low gross exposure, we will be deploying higher capital in the second half. As such the gross exposure of the fund will increase as we look to capitalise on our improved processes.

Finally, we very much look forward to meeting with our investors in the coming months to delineate the above.

Performance and Market Update

Whilst global equities continued their upward momentum amid improved global economic data sets and strong corporate earnings results, the first half of 2017 has been an eventful period in the world of politics. In the UK, Theresa May called a snap election in April to increase her slim majority and bring strong and stable leadership to the country. In the event, although the Conservatives remained the largest party, they lost their majority and were forced into an alliance with Northern Ireland's DUP. This means that in addition to the uncertainties brought by Brexit, the UK now has added pressure of a fragile government. The FTSE 250 index reversed its previous gains post the election result; however, the flip side was that Sterling remained weak and continued to support the majority of FTSE 100 companies who are largely exposed to overseas earnings. Elsewhere in Europe, Emmanuel Macron won landslide victories in the French presidential and parliamentary elections, raising hopes that sweeping economic reform could be possible and bringing renewed strength to the Eurozone integration. Eurozone equities staged a relief rally as political risks dissipated, but was slightly pulled back by the hawkish comments from the ECB towards the end of the period. Meanwhile in the US, President Trump hasn't announced any expansionary fiscal policies he has proposed, leading to increasing skepticism of his ability to implement these policies.

Fund Performance

The fund has delivered strong performance of 8.5% (Man GLG Alpha Select Alternative IL GBP, net of fees) during the first half of 2017. Past performance is not indicative of future results. Returns may increase or decrease as a result of currency fluctuations.

The YTD performance has been predominantly driven by stock specific factors. The largest positive contribution came from our long position in Forterra Plc. We saw extreme misvaluation in this stock given brick companies were agnostic to how the housing shortages were being addressed whereas housebuilders were reliant on the Help to Buy scheme which had a finite life. Additionally, little new capacity was entering the market and the fall in sterling had made imports less attractive. We believed the stock had been held back due to the private equity ownership which was cleared with a placing in April. Post the placing the stock rerated from less than 9x 2017 earnings to 11x. The second largest contributor to fund performance was International Consolidated Airways: the stock has reacted positively to strong results, the initiation of a buyback and a confident outlook regarding industry capacity growth. Another significant contributor was RELX plc, a core holding of the fund. We believed the market underestimated the quality of the business, given its rotation away from print products, and the sustainability of the growth that it could generate from its data based tools. The stock derated towards the end of 2016 as a result of rotation into more cyclical sectors; however, strong results catalysed upgrades to organic growth expectations and rerating in the first quarter of 2017.

The fund's gross exposure has reflected the range of opportunities that we saw at the stock level rather than any macro or thematic expressions. Gross exposure was increased to around 200% in the first quarter to take advantage of the elevated levels of stock dispersion, and reduced to around130% in the lead up to and after the UK general election as we took profit in winning positions, while taking a more cautious stance. In the second quarter, the rebound in many domestic stock and softer recent data in the UK led us to think the opportunity set in domestic stocks was more balanced than at the beginning of the year. Internationally, we remained of the view that the growth outlook was far more stable than the volatility in relative sector performance would suggest. Despite the euphoria produced by President Trump having faded, we believed global demand remained solid, if not exciting. Europe is one area where there is evidence to suggest that the demand is surprising on the upside. As a result, the fund has taken profits in some of the more defensive names that had worked well over the last few months and were reaching target prices; and capital has been redeployed into opportunities that we saw in some more cyclical areas, most notably financials. We have also initiated a position in Rio Tinto.

Looking forward, macro developments are clearly important factors for equity markets, however forecasting the timing and magnitude of their potential impact is difficult. As such we will remain focused on stock specific ideas where we continue to see compelling opportunities.

Man GLG European Equity Alternative - Semi - Annual Report Commentary

Overview

In the first six months of 2017, equity markets reached new highs amid a backdrop of low volatility and generally positive global economic data. The momentum from the changes implemented post-Brexit helped deliver strong performance in the first month of 2017. This was followed by negative performance in February and March as a result of a reversal in specific returns. Geopolitical concerns in April, including the potential nuclear conflict in North Korea and the political uncertainty surrounding the French presidential election, created a risk off environment that proved to be frustrating for us. Throughout this time, we adhered to the Strategy's portfolio construction discipline by maintaining strict market neutrality and managing other factor exposures tightly. As a result of these steps, the losses during this period were primarily driven by negative alpha and not a failure in risk management. The second quarter, the market environment was more supportive for the Strategy, with June being a particularly strong month in terms of performance.

Performance

Despite the drawdown earlier in the year, the Man GLG European Equity Alternative Fund (the 'Fund') ended the first half of the year up 0.85% net of fees.

Looking at the underlying book returns, we saw strong contributions from Event Driven (+116bp), Europe Midcap (+79bp) and Global Technology, Media, and Telecom (+75bp). Returns from specific risk once again dominated the contributions from all three managers. The top performer, Event Driven, continued to benefit from risk-arbitrage spreads tightening in several deals. The Europe Midcap contributed to stock specific returns with a long position in United Internet AG<sup>i</sup> following the announcement it would acquire telecommunications provider Drillisch. Global TMT's long positions in internet dominated market segments also produced strong performance in the first half of the year. We also saw strong contributions from our UK Core and Centre Book managers over the last six months. On the negative side, our Oil Services (-26bp) and Industrials (-17bp) managers found the market environment challenging. Oil price volatility weighed on the markets as production cuts by OPEC members and other producer nations failed to address the oversupply on the market.

Turning to factor attribution, our returns from Specific risk were strong year to date and were the primary driver of the Fund's return. The Fund also benefited from modest contribution from Industry risk, Country, and, Style risk factors.

An update on specific risk

In the final quarter of 2016, we increased the portion of our risk in specific as opposed to factors with the aim of improving returns and reducing the severity and length of drawdowns. Most importantly, we made this decision in order to harness the Sharpe ratio of specific risk (which to date is 2.80) and potentially reduce the volatility from historical levels. Since then, the Fund has operated with at least three quarters of its risk in specific through a combination of either fund level hedges or book level intervention. This decision has resulted in a Sharpe ratio of 2.40 on gross returns in the last 12 months when the Sharpe ratio historically has been closer to 1.0. Furthermore, the realized one year window rolling correlation is approaching zero providing our clients with the additional benefit of diversification.

We should note that in June of this year, the Fund's specific risk briefly fell below its target range and was addressed with changes to the portfolio.

Looking ahead

As we start the second half of 2017, we are highly optimistic about the prospects for the strategy. We are excited about the ongoing enhancements to the ELS platform and the addition of new talent to the portfolio management team.

Man GLG European Mid-Cap Equity Alternative - Semi - Annual Report Commentary

The market backdrop was significantly less challenging for Hedge Funds during the first half of 2017 compared to the year 2016 as a whole.

Last year we operated with significant political event risk, two major phases of significant hedge fund de-leveraging (February and June) and significant sector and style rotation particularly during the post Trump election rally in the fourth quarter of the year.

Global Equity Markets have started this year strongly. Company stock prices have been less correlated to one another, and stock specific factors have played a more dominant role in driving share prices than last year. The economic data in Europe has improved and European Mid Cap company earnings growth has been strong over the period. In addition we have seen a sustained period of inflows into European Equities.

In spite of the more favourable environment there are clearly some remaining areas of concern such as the marked slowdown in economic surprise indicators in Europe and the US towards the end of the first half 2017, the ongoing risk of a disorderly Brexit and the recent sharp rally in the Euro vs the Dollar – a currency move that can broadly act as a headwind to European earnings growth.

We continue to believe our asset class is becoming increasingly inefficient. This is because of the structural changes that are taking place within the Equity Research functions of banks which means there are fewer analysts researching companies in the Mid Cap space. We believe that the introduction of the MIFID 2 transparency and disclosure requirements at the end of the year is likely to accelerate these changes. We believe this represents an ongoing opportunity for us.

We continue to build our portfolios from the bottom up and we seek to control the sector risk, country risk and other risks that are not stock specific. We are also running low market exposure which means the fund returns generally exhibit low correlation with market returns.

Our performance in the first half of 2017 was primarily driven by positive stock specific factors though we were also impacted positively by our country and style positioning. In addition, we were impacted slightly positively by our small net positive directional exposure as markets rallied. In contrast, we were slightly negatively impacted by our country positioning.

The primary positive contributors to stock specific returns were long positions in German listed alternative Telecoms company United Internet (merger of mobile telecoms operations with Drillisch), a short position in a German listed retailer (weakness ahead of the demerger of its supermarkets and electronics businesses) and a short position in a UK listed motor rescue organisation (weak operational results combined with financial leverage).

The primary negative contributors to stock specific returns were the long position in UK listed packaging company RPC (concerns over the pace of acquisitions), a short position in a German listed airport operator (improved passenger traffic trends) and a long position in a German listed chemical distributor (weaker than expected margins in the US at the start of the year).

We have maintained broadly consistent themes and structure on the fund since inception.

For example on the long side we continue to hold positions in distribution companies (DCC, Brenntag, Rubis, IMCD), exhibitions and event companies (Informa, Ascentail, UBM) and alternative telecoms companies (United Internet, Drillisch). On the short side we continue to short a number of listed Continental European Supermarket chains. We are also short retailers with significant bricks and mortar exposure who face increasing online competition as well as a listed property company with significant retail exposure.

During the period we have initiated a thematic short position in a number of listed automotive suppliers. Over the past few months we have become increasingly bearish on the short, medium and long term outlook for the automotive industry and in particular a number of listed Mid Cap suppliers to the industry. We have continued to witness a decline in the US car market (Year to date sales are now down 2%) and European growth rates have decelerated. In the short term we are concerned that the decline in residual (second hand) values could be a leading indicator that demand for new cars will slow further. There are also some signs of increased stress in the US auto loan market which, we believe could also be a near term drag given 85% of passenger vehicles are bought on finance in the US (source Redburn). In the medium term the transition to electronic and hybrid engines is creating uncertainty especially amongst the suppliers with the largest exposure to the internal combustion engine (ICE). Longer term there are doubts over the potential impact of autonomous vehicles and increased car sharing. We are also somewhat puzzled by the extent of the valuation discrepancy between the car manufacturers which trade at a significant discount to the listed suppliers.

Regarding the structure of the fund we continue to run a diversified portfolio of longs and primarily single name short positions (normally 50-70 names) whilst employing leverage (normally 140-160%) with an aim to enhance returns whilst maintaining low net market exposure and seeking to limit non stock specific factor risk exposure.

We remain confident that that our disciplined process will continue to generate solid returns in an increasingly inefficient asset class.

PERFORMANCE SUMMARY

The Fund gained 19.75(USD) and 10.74 (EUR) net of fees¹ over the first half of 2017. By comparison, the fund's benchmark, the MSCI Emerging Markets TR index, gained 18.43 (USD) and 9.52 (EUR) respectively. This outperformance needs, in our view, to be seen in the context of a market which was dominated by passive flows and by the outperformance of stocks which have large weights in the index, particularly those in the technology sector. Given the Fund's clear style as active and concentrated (with an 'active share²' of consistently over 85%) this market style may have been expected to penalise the Fund's relative performance.

MARKET SUMMARY

1H2017 marked not only the strong overall performance cited above for Emerging Markets ('EM'), but also a significant outperformance of developed markets as measured by the MSCI World Index. This improved performance in EM is, we believe, the result of the factors below:

- US dollar weakness, which has traditionally been favourable for EM, and the reduction of political risk in Europe following the French presidential election, created an environment where global assets could perform.
- The continuing resilience of the Chinese economy in a continuation of the trend from 2016, with credit growth, the housing market and infrastructure development proving supportive. Capital flight out of China also appears to have been kept under control by the authorities.
- In other EM's, we saw signs of continued favourable political and economic developments. New political leadership in South Korea appears committed to improving corporate governance in the country. India's government consolidated its political position and continued to push through with reforms to the ease of doing business. Mexico's economy continued to improve and the lowering of rhetoric from the US government eased fears of a trade war. Brazil's reform path suffered some setbacks with the resumption of political scandals, but the economy continues to slowly recover.

KEY POSITIONS

The Fund's investment style can be characterised as 'quality growth at a reasonable price', meaning that the Managers seek out investment opportunities in businesses with good growth prospects and the ability to finance that growth through internal cash flow and solid balance sheets, but whose shares have upside potential on valuation grounds. Thus the average weighted return on invested capital of the Fund's was significantly higher than that of the benchmark, but the Fund had lower debt to equity and a similar free cash-flow based valuation, on average. These investments are made across a concentrated portfolio that comprised 47 companies at the end of the period, with the five largest positions being Korea Zinc (metals processing, Korea), Semen Gresik (cement, Indonesia), Hollysys (engineering, China), Zhengzhou Yutong Bus (transport, China) and Sun Pharmaceutical (healthcare, India). The largest country allocation was to China (19.9% of the Fund), followed by India (13.3% of the Fund).

During 1H2017, the Fund divested of its remaining shares in tobacco producers and now aims to exclude both tobacco producers and producers of military hardware in their entirety. This reinforces the Fund's longstanding commitment to promoting social-responsible investment in EM.

MARKET / FUND OUTLOOK

The managers do not anticipate that the bias towards benchmarking so prevalent in 1H17 will remain so extreme in the future. The managers have seen such periods before and their experience is that such periods of intense style concentration can create contrarian opportunities to reinforce positions in existing position which are 'out of favour'. This could possibly create opportunities to add substantial relative value for a fund which is prepared to deviate substantially from the index. The managers remain positive on the opportunities of investment in a variety of EM markets. Sentiment towards emerging markets, whilst far more positive than a year ago, still remains depressed on a long-term basis. Valuations in EM appear to be particularly attractive when adjusted for the cyclically low level of earnings in emerging markets. Thus, we remain fundamentally optimistic that investment in good emerging market companies at today's depressed prices should prove rewarding to the long-term investor.

Past performance is not indicative of future results. Returns may increase or decrease as a result of currency fluctuations. #### Man GLG Global Emerging Markets Debt Total Return - Semi - Annual Report Commentary

Market Review

The first half of 2017 has been an overall positive period for most financial assets, and Emerging Market (EM) debt has been no exception with the EM local currency segment (L.C.) and Hard Currency (H.C.), as measured by JP Morgan Government Bond Index Emerging Market Global Diversified (JPM GBI-EM GD) and JP Morgan Emerging Market Bond Index Global (JPM EMBIG) which posted returns of +10.4% and +6.2% YTD, respectively. Investor's search for yield and abundant global liquidity provided a fertile ground for inflows into the asset class that reached +USD64.3bn³ in 2017 H1, surpassing by 50% the +USD42.6bn of inflows for the all of 2016.

These inflows have been largely complacent with deteriorating fundamentals in Brazil (with political tensions resulting in diminished reform prospects), South Africa (a much feared cabinet reshuffle resulted in the country losing its investment grade rating by S&P and Fitch), and commodities, as well as rising geopolitical tensions in Korea and Qatar. In Venezuela, political and social tensions continued to escalate, while concerns over default increased as reserves dwindle.

EM H.C. debt issuance reached an all-time high of USD341bn<sup>4</sup> in 2017 H1 (+54% versus the same period of last year), and its composition also goes in line with the above trend, with the segments presenting the fastest growth by rating being High Yield (+137%) and unrated (+117%), and by issuer type being corporates (+83%) and financials (91%).

In local currency, the weak USD was the main driver of the strong performance, with FX gains being the largest contributor to the semester performance (+4.42%), followed by carry (+3.07%) and lastly rates (+2.58%). Worth noting that, since March, local currency returns, have been bifurcated. Mexico, which had been coming off very cheap valuations continued to outperform, together with EUR-related currencies that had also looked cheap versus the dollar and rallied along the EUR. Elsewhere, currencies such as COP (impacted by a combination of bond outflows from foreign investors, unfavourable price action in oil, fiscal concerns, and risk of rating downgrade), BRL and RUB, which were starting off at richer valuation in March and were more crowded trades, depreciated in the second quarter.

In H.C., spread return (+4.27%) was the main source of performance with JPM EMBIG spread tightening by 64bps in 2017 H1 to 328 bps.

Outlook:

Since we launched the fund in May 2016, we have maintained a positive long-term view of the prospects for investments in local currency denominated debt instruments, and argued that a benchmark-agnostic investor would be better served by allocating more aggressively to local currency, and we continue to believe in this approach over a long-term horizon. However, we feel that due to a combination of herd behaviour and excess liquidity, market participants have gone from being too cautious in early 2016, to excessively euphoric now.

We believe that in the short term, Emerging Market assets, and possibly those in other asset classes, are going to be impacted by the following shocks:

- 1. With US unemployment rate at 4.4%, 1% below where it stood when the Fed started tightening rates back in December 2004 in the previous tightening cycle and with financial conditions having expanded in the US economy since the Fed started its latest tightening cycle in December 2015, we believe the Federal Reserve has little room to allow the present monetary conditions to prevail. As a result, we expect that over the next few months, as economic data strengthens, the market to start pricing in the fact that the Fed is likely to tighten as much as the dots imply<sup>5</sup>. The impact of this adjustment, may lead to meaningful price losses EM EM H.C. given the 6.8 year duration of JP Morgan EMBIG index.
- 2. The current abundance of global liquidity, driven to a large extent by the massive expansion in the balance sheet of the ECB<sup>6</sup> is unsustainable, in our opinion. We estimate that the negative term premium with which the 10-year bond trades at today is in the area of 70-80 basis points and that is the initial amount of adjustment that we would expect to see in rates when the market prices the beginning of the end of quantitative easing in Europe. Such a move in rates would likely also trigger some reverse migration from substitute asset classes into government bonds in Europe. This will be relevant to EM Debt, as over the past few years with China decreasing its current account surplus and the Middle Eastern countries losing their current account surpluses, the main marginal buyer of EM debt, as well as, other substitutes for government bonds have been European investors.

These two shocks are likely to strike against a backdrop of a heavily long risk<sup>7</sup> market and valuation that are fairly stretched. A significant portion of the increase in market position seems to have occurred at full price/rich levels of valuations and thus may lack the conviction to remain long if we get the two shocks described above. In the H.C. the increase in the weight of ETF funds may exacerbate price volatility in a market correction, as by definition they need to be 100% invested. The price movement in the first week of July 2017, when ETF funds experienced a USD1bn outflow provides a live example of what may be such an impact.

As valuations are concerned, in H.C., JPM EMBIG spread is roughly at the same level where it was on average between the middle of 2012 and 2014 Q3, despite oil prices in that period being close to USD100 per barrel and commodity prices being two times, or more, the level where they are today, and the universe having gone from being three quarters investment grade to just 50% investment grade. Lastly, the spread contribution by type of credit, shows a significantly disproportional contribution, versus market weight, coming from fragile countries (such as Lebanon, Venezuela and Ukraine) and frontier markets. As some of these countries are likely to face credit events in the coming years, those will ultimately produce returns lower than the current yield of the index, and with higher volatility.

In L.C., the valuation of the currencies that are part of the JPM GBI-EM GD index, on average, relative to the dollar are still relatively attractive, below the lows reached during the global financial crisis, and at levels of valuations similar to mid-2000s, which was a period that preceded several years of very strong returns. However, EM FX valuations (adjusted by inflation differential) relative to the EUR, look expensive. Suggesting that it would require a EUR appreciation relative to the USD or to the yen, to allow further capital gains from currency appreciation in EM currencies.

In this environment, an investment approach combining flexibility, selectivity and focus on downside protection, such as the one of this Fund, is crucial.

Fund Activity:

We gradually reduced market exposure starting at the end of February, from an average of 120% in January to 78% in February and -18% in June. Currently the level of risk of the fund is as low as that the team used to run in the couple of months prior to the tapering event in 2013.

In H.C. segment, the fund ended the semester with a duration weighted exposure (DWE) of 0.4 years at the low end of its historical ranges and reflects the view that the risk of a tighter-than-expected policy in the US and Euro area is higher than that of a more expansive policy. Long exposure in this segment was comprised of short-dated USD bonds, where the movement of pull-to-par offers protection from a potential upward move in USD interest rates and volatility in EM spreads, to countries such as Mexico, Turkey, Indonesia and South Africa.

Similarly, with EM spreads<sup>8</sup> trading at levels that are well in excess of one standard deviation tight to its 2-year average, in a period where the credit quality has deteriorated, we took the spread DWE exposure of the portfolio from 0.7 at the end of 2016 to -0.8yrs at the end of June via CDS protection in Russia, Lebanon, Kazakhstan, Saudi Arabia, Turkey, South Africa, Indonesia and South Korea.

In L.C. the Fund's closed June with a net short to EM currencies of -20%, the more defensive positioning it has had since the inception of the Fund at Man GLG, and that contrast with the average long position of 37% and 29% we had in January and February.

However, we believe that the EM debt asset class is in a much stronger structural position to deal with shocks from the external environment, then they were in the late 1990's, as the majority of large EM economies have been successfully employing a combination of floating currency regimes with relatively orthodox monetary policy. Hence, we are prepared to redeploy our capital quickly once valuations adjust and positioning becomes more supportive.

Performance:

In 2017 H1, Man GLG Global Emerging Markets Debt Total Return (GEM Debt Total Return) gross and net returns were +4.00% and +3.51%, respectively, in a period that the blend of the index for the EM Hard currency and Local Currency returned +8.27%, with a volatility of returns that was about half of that of the blend (2.47% versus 5.07%).

Per quarter the net result was in 3.02% in 2017 Q1 and 0.48% in 2017 Q2, in tandem with the portfolio's light positioning from March onwards.

The fund local currency exposure contributed with +3.12% to the 2017H1's gross return, mostly originated by the fund's long position in EM FX in January and February, while the EM hard currency and UST exposures added 0.33% and 0.65%, respectively.

In L.C., the long position to the MXN, COP and TRY, that the fund held in the first months of the year, as well as the short to the BRL were the largest contributor to performance, while the short exposure to PLN detracted from performance.

In the H.C. segment, the long exposures to Mexico, Brazil, South Africa and Colombia were the main sources of positive performance, and more than offset the negative return coming from the shorts to Lebanon, Kazakhstan and Chile.

<sup>7</sup>During 2017 H1, our proprietary regression peer analysis models, both for the L.C. and H.C. benchmark funds, showed an increase in the beta exposure for most of these funds. Other data, such as evolution of speculative position at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange on a basket of currencies that is highly correlated with the performance of the EM local currency index, shows these players going from a short position in EM currencies for most of the period of January 2016 to the end of May

Man GLG Innovation Equity Alternative - Semi - Annual Report Commentary

Outlook:

Currently we are focused on the second quarter earnings season and seeking to take advantage of situations where we believe market expectations are missing core micro fundamental changes. We are selectively using options when appropriate to further isolate the event and to be more capitally efficient in driving outperformance during earnings season when our theses are often tested.

Looking forward, there is a lot of discussion of bubble like conditions in some large cap secular growth US tech stocks which have generally led the US market higher. In addressing the valuation aspect, we would agree that there has been, in some cases, significant multiple expansions in addition to strong positive earnings revisions. However, having managed money before, during and after previous tech bubbles we will express our view that the absolute levels of valuation for most of these stocks (while elevated) remain far from previous bubble like multiples. In fact on some metrics like price/free cash flow, some of these same names still look cheap vs history.

What is more concerning to us is positioning and crowding and hence one of the reasons that, over the last couple of months, we had substantially reduced down the cash position sizing of some large cap US tech names despite the fact that we are still bullish. While they have always correlated with growth and often momentum, they are increasingly correlating with low realized volatility. This remains a factor that we closely watch for the portion of our portfolio where it applies. The lower volatility means that these specific large cap names can get increasingly over owned by specialist, generalist, quant, long only and hedge fund money. Longer term, we believe our biggest long term risk on these stocks remains regulation although that currently looks like a lower legislative priority in the US.

As a long short fund, these positioning rotations also remain an opportunity especially as we enter reporting season where stock specific factors should continue to dominate. Our strategy looks to monetise outperformance by focusing on areas where consensus expectations appear wrong both on the long book and the short book.

Man NewSmith UK Equity Alternative - Semi - Annual Report Commentary

For the half year ended 30th June 2017 the Fund produced a return of +2.5%<sup>1</sup>.

During Q1 2017, the best performing sectors were Financials, Consumer Staples and Technology and the worst performing sectors were Consumer Discretionary, Materials and Energy. During Q2 2017, the best performing sectors were Financials, Information Technology and Utilities and the worst performing sectors were Consumer Staples, Industrials and Materials.

Our risk levels and market exposure within the Fund remain at low levels compared to history. The immediate economic effects of the UK's decision to leave the EU were less severe than many feared but we are seeing increasing signs of economic growth slowing. In particular, recent months have shown data points pointing to a deterioration in consumer confidence and spending as an inflating cost of living squeezes disposable incomes and Brexit uncertainty leads to caution. The recent outcome of the UK general election is likely to add further uncertainty to the situation.

Our view is less cautious on UK equities as a whole given the high degree of overall earnings derived overseas. The referendum result may have reduced near term economic growth but it is not unequivocally bad news due to additional monetary and fiscal policy stimulation, the rising value of the overseas earnings of UK corporates and also the potential benefit for export businesses and tourism in the medium-term, and the potential for more inbound M&A activity due to GBP weakness. Economic leading indicators in Europe have continued to improve since late 2016 and Trump's election in the US promises more economically stimulatory policies.

Man AHL Multi Strategy Alternative - Semi - Annual Report Commentary

The first half of the year for the fund was characterised by steady gains punctured by a couple of short, sharp shocks. Three of the five styles were positive over the period, with fundamental and momentum trading both performing similarly well and volatility trading the top style after a run of extremely consistent performance. Both technical and equity trading ended June down for the year.

Technical models faced the most challenging conditions as short-term breakout models; some mean reversion models and fixed income relative value struggled over the first quarter. During May and June, however, pattern recognition models in equities successfully navigated the turbulent markets to pull back some of the losses.

Equity trading was choppy with no real traction gained in any of the regions traded apart from Japan, which bucked the prevailing conditions and was profitable over the period.

Fundamental models were enjoying a good year, until the turbulence in June hit fixed income carry models with yields rallying as markets quickly digested what was seen as a change in tone by central banks. The currency fundamental model was also hit in June, which largely wiped out its gains for the year. Thankfully, the stock index relative value model proved more robust and its gains ensured that fundamental models in aggregate remained up over the first half of the year.

Momentum trading had a good first half of the year with gains largely fuelled by stock indices which shrugged off political concerns to record frequent new highs. The new pattern recognition based momentum model had a good start with profits driven by performance in currencies in addition to rallying stock indices.

Volatility was the top trading style as persistently low, or declining, volatility combined with a steep term structure provided ideal conditions for volatility models. The market turbulence in May and again in June dented profits somewhat but even these months were positive overall.

Man AHL TargetRisk - Semi - Annual Report Commentary

Man AHL TargetRisk posted a return of +6.6%<sup>1</sup> net of fees for the first half of 2017.

Global equity markets rallied in the first two quarters as overall confidence in the global economy continued to grow. This was especially true in the US markets were TargetRisk saw its greatest contribution. The technology heavy NASDAQ and the S&P 500 each contributed over 1% to the fund. Credit markets also performed well in this market environment. European and US High Yield credit names added the most to the fund.

Global fixed income markets also increased throughout the first half of the year as uncertainty about the new US president efficacy of initiating the proposals mentioned during last year's campaign caused yields to tighten. However, at the end of June, European Central Bank ("ECB")came out with hawkish comments causing bonds to sell off. Despite this the fixed income sector added 1.08% to the fund during the period.

Commodities continue to be a difficult space where the markets have continued to be dominated by oil selling off again as production in the US continues to grow putting downward pressure on the price. Overall the sector was down -1.39% for the fund in the period.

For most of the period the overlays remained relatively quiet as the portfolio saw good diversification across all the markets it trades. However, after the ECB comments which sent yields up, we saw overall portfolio volatility increase. Our volatility overlays were active in reducing over 25% of the exposure in the final days of the period.

Man AHL Volatility Alternative—Semi - Annual Report Commentary

The first half of 2017 was characterised by overall low levels of implied volatility and exceptionally low levels of realised volatility across most markets, with a few exceptions centred around political events. Despite brief rises during setbacks in the US healthcare legislative process and a short selloff in tech stocks, the overall implied volatility levels on the S&P fell to record lows, with the VIX ending at 9.75 on June 2nd. European equity volatility rose briefly around the UK and French elections, but quickly fell again after both. Towards the end of June, bond and FX volatilities rose on news of central bank policy normalisation, but this did little to dent their overall downward trend through the first half of 2017.

Both the Gamma and Vega strategies contributed positively year to date. On a standalone basis, the Vega strategy was by far the best performer, as in additional to continually declining throughout the first two quarters, the term structure of S&P volatility also remained extremely steep. In addition, the Gamma strategy has yielded positive returns in all asset classes year-to-date. Within the Gamma strategy, short positions in bond volatility markets yielded the greatest returns, especially in the US. Equity markets were generally profitable as well, with the only exception a long volatility position in the KOSPI200 the detracted from performance from May onward. A similar long position in the Nasdaq cost the strategy in April and May but paid off in June during the brief but relatively sharp tech selloff in the US. Volatility positions in FX returned mixed results, with gains on the Australian dollar, Japanese Yen, and Euro partially offset by losses on the Canadian and New Zealand Dollars.

Man Numeric Market Neutral Alternative - Semi - Annual Report Commentary

Market Overview

The equity markets began 2017 on a high note, with global equities, as measured by the MSCI All Country World Index, posting their best quarter since 2013. Markets continued to rally during the second quarter, as the MSCI ACWI index gained 4.3% on top of a 6.9% gain during the first quarter of the year. Central Bank policy remained at the forefront of economic headlines, as the US Federal Reserve raised interest rates for the second time this year, and the fourth time this cycle, with expectations of one or two more raises this year. The European Central Bank appears to be considering reducing its stimulus as well. Emerging Market equities continued their strong run against the backdrop of solid economic factors, as the MSCI Emerging Markets Index finished up more than 18% for the period. Despite the potential interest rate tightening cycle, rising yields and the volatile political climate globally, equity market volatility remains near all-time lows. Growth stocks have dominated Value stocks for a majority of the year, as modest economic improvement has been a tailwind for strong equity market returns.

Performance Commentary

For the six month period ending June 30, 2017, the Man Numeric Market Neutral Alternative Fund (the "Fund") return was -3.34% net-of-fees. The fund is comprised of three complementary components: Diversified Market Neutral ("DMN"), Fundamental Statistical Arbitrage ("FSA") and the Innovation Portfolio ("IP"). During this reporting period, all three components detracted from performance.

The IP component was the main detractor from performance; the primary detractors within IP were the Retail and Bond sleeves. The DMN component also detracted from performance, as five of the eight portfolios within DMN had negative returns. The FSA component further detracted from performance for the period, with all three regions producing negative returns.

2. Summary of significant accounting policies

(a) Accounting convention

The unaudited financial statements are prepared in accordance with IAS 34 International Accounting Standard 34: Interim Financial Reporting ("IAS 34") as adopted by the EU. The unaudited financial statements have been prepared using the historical cost basis except for financial assets and liabilities held at fair value through profit or loss which have been measured at fair value.

The unaudited financial statements do not include all the information and disclosures required in the annual financial statements, and should be read in conjunction with the Fund's audited annual financial statements as at 31 December 2016 which have been prepared in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS") as adopted by the European Union. These unaudited interim financial statements have been compiled using accounting policies, methods of computation and presentation which are consistent with the audited annual financial statements for the year ended 31 December 2016, unless otherwise stated.

The preparation of unaudited financial statements in accordance with IFRS requires management to make judgements, estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported and disclosures made in these unaudited financial statements and accompanying notes, including certain valuation assumptions. Uncertainty about these assumptions and estimates could result in outcomes that require a material adjustment to the carrying amount of assets or liabilities in the future.

The combined company balances are expressed in US$, being the presentation currency of the Fund as a whole. For combined company balances in unaudited statement of financial position, the non US$ Portfolios are translated using the exchange rate at the date of unaudited statement of financial position. For combined company balances in unaudited statement of comprehensive income, the non US$ Portfolios are translated at the average exchange rate prevailing during the period. The combined subscriptions and redemptions in the unaudited statement of changes in net assets are also translated at the average rate prevailing during the current period. The translation gain resulting from the preparation of the combined company balances in the unaudited financial statements amounting to US$134,228,192 (30 June 2016: US$32,646,931) has been shown in the combined company column of unaudited statement of comprehensive income. The gain does not have any effect on the individual Portfolios.

(b) Changes in accounting policy and disclosure

The accounting policies adopted in the preparation of the unaudited financial statements are consistent with those followed in the preparation of the Fund's audited financial statements for the year ended 31 December 2016.

Standards issued but not yet effective:

IFRS 9 - Financial Instruments

In July 2014, the IASB issued the final version of IFRS 9 Financial Instruments which reflects all phases of the financial instruments project and replaces IAS 39 Financial Instruments: Recognition and Measurement and all previous versions of IFRS 9. The standard introduces new requirements for classification and measurement, impairment, and hedge accounting. IFRS 9 is effective for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2018, with early application permitted. Retrospective application is required but comparative information is not compulsory. Early application of IFRS 9 (2009, 2010 and 2013) is permitted if the date of initial application was before 1 February 2015. Management is currently assessing the impact of this standard on the Fund. At present, management believes the adoption of IFRS 9 is unlikely to have a material effect on the classification and measurement of the Fund's financial assets or financial liabilities.

IFRS 15 - Revenue from Contracts with Customers

IFRS 15 was issued in May 2014 and establishes a new five-step model that will apply to revenue arising from contracts with customers. Under IFRS 15 revenue is recognised at an amount that reflects the consideration to which an entity expects to be entitled in exchange for transferring goods or services to a customer. The principles in IFRS 15 provide a more structured approach to measuring and recognising revenue.

The new revenue standard is applicable to all entities and will supersede all current revenue recognition requirements under IFRS. Either a full or modified retrospective application is required for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2018 with early adoption permitted. Management is currently assessing the impact of IFRS 15 and plans to adopt the new standard on the required effective date.

At the date of authorisation of the unaudited financial statements there were a number of other Standards and Interpretations which were in issue but not yet effective. Management anticipates that the adoption of these Standards and Interpretations in future periods will have no material impact on the unaudited financial statements of the Fund.

4. Financial assets and liabilities at fair value through profit or loss

Forward contracts

As part of its portfolio management techniques, the Fund may use forward contracts to economically hedge any non-functional currency exposure (although formal hedge accounting is not used). Forward contracts may also be used for trading purposes. Forward contracts entered into by the Fund represent a firm commitment to buy or sell an underlying asset, or currency at a specified value and point in time based upon an agreed or contracted quantity.

Forward contracts may expose the Fund to the risks associated with the absence of an exchange market on which to close out an open position. The investment manager closely monitors the Fund's exposure under forward contracts as part of the overall management of the Fund's market risk.

Fair value of financial instruments

The Fund classifies fair value measurements using a fair value hierarchy that reflects the significance of the inputs used in determining the measurements in line with IFRS 13.

The fair value hierarchy has the following levels:

- Level 1 Quoted market price in an active market for an identical instrument.
- Level 2 Valuation techniques based on observable inputs. This category includes instruments valued using: quoted market prices in active markets for similar instruments; quoted prices for similar instruments in markets that are considered less than active; or other valuation techniques where all significant inputs are directly or indirectly observable from market data.
- Level 3 Valuation techniques using significant unobservable inputs. This category includes all instruments where the valuation technique includes inputs not based on observable data and the unobservable inputs could have a significant impact on the instrument's valuation. This category includes instruments that are valued based on quoted prices for similar instruments where significant unobservable adjustments or assumptions are required to reflect differences between the instruments.

Valuation techniques

Listed or publicly traded investment in equity and debt securities, managed funds and derivatives

When fair values of listed or publicly traded equity and debt securities, equities and managed funds and derivatives are based on quoted market prices, or binding dealer price quotations, in an active market for identical assets without any adjustments, the instruments are included within Level 1 of the hierarchy.

Unlisted debt securities and treasury bills

The Fund invests in debt securities, corporate and government bonds and treasury securities. In the absence of a quoted price in an active market, they are valued using observable inputs such as recently executed transaction prices in securities of the issuer or comparable issuers and yield curves. Adjustments are made to the valuations when necessary to recognise differences in the instruments terms. To the extent that the significant inputs are observable, the Fund categorises these investments as Level 2.

Over-the-counter derivatives

The Fund uses widely recognised valuation models for determining fair values of over-the-counter interest rate swaps, currency swaps and forward foreign exchange contracts. The most frequently applied valuation techniques include forward pricing and swap models, using present value calculations. The models incorporate various inputs including both credit and debit valuation adjustments for counterparty and own credit risk, foreign exchange spot and forward rates and interest rate curves. For these financial instruments, significant inputs into models are market observable and are included within Level 2.

Unlisted equity investments

The Fund invests in private equity companies which are not quoted in an active market. Transactions in such investments do not occur on a regular basis. The Fund uses a market based valuation technique for these positions. The Fund's Investment Manager determines comparable public companies (peers) based on industry, size, leverage and strategy, and calculates an appropriate trading multiple for each comparable company identified. The multiple is calculated by dividing the enterprise value of the comparable company by an earnings measure. The trading multiple is then discounted for considerations such as illiquidity and size differences between the comparable companies based on company-specific facts and circumstances. The discounted multiple is applied to the corresponding earnings measure of the investee company to measure the fair value. The Fund classifies the fair value of these investments as Level 3.

For all other financial instruments, fair value is determined using valuation techniques. Valuation techniques include net present value techniques, comparison to similar instruments for which market observable prices exist, options pricing models and other relevant valuation models.

All net realised and unrealised gains/(losses) in the tables above are reflected in the accompanying unaudited statements of comprehensive income. Net amount of US$213,986 (31 December 2016: US$49,458) relates to those Level 3 financial instruments held by the Fund at 30 June 2017 and is reflected in net gains/(losses) on financial assets at fair value through profit or loss in the unaudited statement of comprehensive income.

The fair value of investments classified within Level 3 is based on unobservable inputs that may be subjected to significant variability. Because of the inherent uncertainty of valuation with respect to such investments, the Fund's estimates of fair value may differ significantly from fair values that would have been used observable inputs been available for the valuation of such investments, and the differences could be material.

The table below discloses the valuation technique used in the valuation for Level 3 investments and quantifies the effect of significant unobservable inputs used to value investments that fall in this category. The ranges of these inputs are not representative of the appropriate inputs to use when calculating the fair value of any one Level 3 asset or liability. Accordingly, the ranges of inputs presented below do not represent uncertainty in, or possible ranges of fair value measurements of the Fund's Level 3 assets/liabilities.

Derivative financial instruments

The Fund may trade derivative financial instruments, including contracts for difference, futures, forward contracts, currencies, swaps contracts and options whose values are based upon an underlying asset, index, currency or interest rate.

The Fund is subject to both market and credit risk in trading derivative financial instruments. Market risk is the potential for changes in value due to changes in market interest rates, foreign exchange rates, indices and changes in the value of the underlying financial instruments. Credit risk is the possibility that a loss may occur if a counterparty fails to perform according to the terms of the contract. Substantially all derivative contracts are transacted on a margin basis. Such transactions may expose the Fund to significant off-balance sheet risk in the event margin deposits and collateral investments are not sufficient to cover losses incurred.

The Investment Managers manages the risks associated with these transactions by maintaining margin deposits and collateral investments with its brokers in compliance with individual exchange regulations and internal guidelines. The Investment Managers also take an active role in managing and controlling the Fund's market and counterparty risks and monitoring trading activities and margin levels daily, and, as necessary, deposits additional collateral or reduces positions.

Derivative financial instruments are generally based on notional amounts which are not recorded in the financial statements. These notional amounts represent the theoretical principal value on which the cash flows of the derivative transactions are based. Unrealised gains or losses, rather than notional amounts, or the exchange-traded derivatives traded by the Fund are included in the unaudited statement of financial position. The net unrealised gains or losses, rather than contract or notional amounts, represent the Fund's approximate future cash flows from trading activities.

The Fund has adopted the corporate governance code for collective investment schemes and management companies issued by the Irish Funds Industry Association (the "IF Code"). The Directors are satisfied that they act independently and in the interests of the Fund as a whole and have determined that Eric Fortier and Ronan Daly are independent directors as that term is defined in the IF Code.

During the period Eric Fortier, Ronan Daly and Bronwyn Wright earned Directors' fee of €7,500 each. John Morton has elected to waive his Directors' fee as he is the Global Co-Head of Legal within Man Group Plc.

Each of the Directors is or may become involved in other financial investment and professional activities which may cause conflicts of interest with the management of the Fund. These activities include management or administration of other companies (including those with investment objectives similar to those of the Fund or structures that may be related to Man Group plc sponsored investment funds), purchases and sales of securities and other investments, investment and management counselling and serving as directors, advisers and/or agents of other companies, including companies and legal structures in which the Fund may invest and/or which may invest into the Fund.

Man Asset Management (Ireland) Limited (formerly GLG Partners Asset Management Limited) is a related party through its holding of 1 Subscriber Share in the Fund. John Morton, a director of the Fund, holds the second Subscriber Share.

GLG Partners LP is also a related party as the Investment Manager of the Fund, and therefore all subsidiaries of Man Group plc are also related parties.

*The amount paid to each of the Administrator and Investment Manager is determined between the parties from time to time, but, for the avoidance of doubt, the Investment Manager receives only the portion of the administration fee relating to the administrative support services it provides pursuant to the Administrative Services Agreement. Part of the administration fee will be paid by the Fund to the Manager (for on-payment to the Administrator) monthly in arrears and the remainder will be paid by the Fund to the Investment Manager.

The above amounts are payable on demand and do not bear interest. Furthermore, the above transactions were made on terms equivalent to those that prevail in arm's length transactions.

The Fund has appointed Man Asset Management (Ireland) Limited as its UCITS management company. However, they do apply to Man Asset Management (Ireland) Limited, which has adopted a remuneration policy to ensure compliance.

Unaudited reporting requirements in respect of the Securities Financing Transaction Regulation For the six month period ended 30 June 2017

The Investment Manager may, on behalf of each sub-fund and subject to the conditions and within the limits laid down by the Financial Conduct Authority and the Prospectus, employ techniques and instruments relating to transferable securities, including investments in OTC Financial Derivative Instruments ("FDI") provided that such techniques and instruments are used for efficient portfolio management purposes or to provide protection against exchange risk or for direct investment purposes, where applicable.

The sub-funds engaged in securities lending activity during the year for the purposes of efficient portfolio management, and invested in total return swaps, repos or reverse repos.

Securities Lending

All securities lending transactions entered into by the sub-funds are subject to a written legal agreement between the sub-funds and the Lending Agent, which is the Bank of New York Mellon, London Branch, and separately between the Lending Agent and the approved borrowing counterparty. Collateral received in exchange for securities lent is delivered to an account in the name of the Depositary on behalf of the sub-fund. Collateral received is segregated from the assets belonging to the sub-fund's Depositary or the Lending Agent. The total income earned from securities lending transactions is split between the relevant sub-fund and the securities lending agent. The sub-fund receives at least 80% while the securities lending agent receives up to 20% of such income with all operational costs borne out of the securities lending agent's share. Income received during the year by each sub-fund from securities lending transactions is disclosed in other income in the unaudited statements of comprehensive income included as part of the unaudited financial statements.

The following table details the value of securities on loan, the maturity tenor of which is always open, as they are recallable or terminable on a daily basis. Additionally there is an analysis of the maturity tenor of the associated collateral received as at 30 June 2017 based on the respective transaction contractual maturity date, split between counterparty borrower, with the country of incorporation of the counterparty shown in brackets:

The Fund has appointed Man Asset Management (Ireland) Limited as its UCITS management company. However, they do apply to Man Asset Management (Ireland) Limited, which has adopted a remuneration policy to ensure compliance.

Unaudited reporting requirements in respect of the Securities Financing Transaction Regulation For the six month period ended 30 June 2017

The Investment Manager may, on behalf of each sub-fund and subject to the conditions and within the limits laid down by the Financial Conduct Authority and the Prospectus, employ techniques and instruments relating to transferable securities, including investments in OTC Financial Derivative Instruments ("FDI") provided that such techniques and instruments are used for efficient portfolio management purposes or to provide protection against exchange risk or for direct investment purposes, where applicable.

The sub-funds engaged in securities lending activity during the year for the purposes of efficient portfolio management, and invested in total return swaps, repos or reverse repos.

Securities Lending

All securities lending transactions entered into by the sub-funds are subject to a written legal agreement between the sub- funds and the Lending Agent, which is the Bank of New York Mellon, London Branch, and separately between the Lending Agent and the approved borrowing counterparty. Collateral received in exchange for securities lent is delivered to an account in the name of the Depositary on behalf of the sub-fund. Collateral received is segregated from the assets belonging to the sub-fund's Depositary or the Lending Agent. The total income earned from securities lending transactions is split between the relevant sub-fund and the securities lending agent. The sub-fund receives at least 80% while the securities lending agent receives up to 20% of such income with all operational costs borne out of the securities lending agent's share. Income received during the year by each sub-fund from securities lending transactions is disclosed in other income in the unaudited statement of comprehensive income included as part of the unaudited financial statements.

The following table details the value of securities on loan, the maturity tenor of which is always open, as they are recallable or terminable on a daily basis. Additionally there is an analysis of the maturity tenor of the associated collateral received as at 30 June 2017 based on the respective transaction contractual maturity date, split between counterparty borrower, with the country of incorporation of the counterparty shown in brackets:
