Tracking Error

Each of the Funds listed in the table employs a “passive” investment strategy designed to replicate the performance of its benchmark index. Some of the Funds attempt to fully replicate the index by holding all of the component securities, in approximately the same proportion as their weighting in the index. Other Funds instead use an index sampling process, holding a representative sample of securities which approximates the full index in terms of key risk factors and other characteristics. The table below excludes actively-managed funds.

Tracking error measures the volatility of the return difference between each Fund and its relevant index. It is calculated as the standard deviation of the tracking difference between the Fund and the index (gross of fees for the trailing 36-month period, or since the Fund’s inception if it does not have 36 months of performance history). Realised tracking error may vary from the anticipated tracking error, depending on a range of circumstances. These include transaction costs, securities lending income and withholding tax differences. The anticipated tracking error and realised tracking error are not expected to vary significantly under normal circumstances.

The Realised Tracking Error excludes adjustments for swing pricing.

For the period ended 30 June 2025, the following tracking error disclosed for each Fund is based on an accumulation shares class that is in the same currency as the Fund’s base currency:

Fund	Tracking Error		Explanation for Divergence
	Anticipated (%)	Realised (%)
Equity
Vanguard Emerging Markets Stock Index Fund USD Acc <sup>1</sup>	0.500	0.555	The difference in tracking error is due to the fund divesting its Russian holdings that had previously been valued at zero and were not part of the benchmark.
Vanguard ESG Developed Europe Index Fund EUR Acc <sup>1</sup>	0.300	0.374	The difference in tracking error arises from the fund being benchmarked against an unrestricted index until June 2024, while the portfolio was screened for securities aligned with socially responsible investment criteria. Since the tracking error is calculated over a 36-month period, it reflects 24 months during which the fund was restricted but the benchmark was not, followed by 12 months where the portfolio and index were aligned.

<sup>2</sup> The fund seeks to replicate the index by investing all, or substantially all, of its assets in the securities that make up the index, holding each in approximately the same proportion as its weighting in the index.

<sup>3</sup> The Fund was launched on 12 June 2025. Due to the insufficient performance history, a statistically meaningful tracking error cannot yet be calculated.

Vanguard Emerging Markets Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the MSCI Emerging Markets Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of companies in emerging markets.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2025, global financial markets were largely influenced by shifts in trading policy, a decline in the US dollar and more expansive fiscal policy in Europe.
- Early in the period, optimism in the US about the prospect of further deregulation, tax cuts and robust corporate earnings was at times tempered by market concerns about interest rates, stretched equity valuations and the potential inflationary impact of tariffs. European equities posted a strong first quarter, supported by more attractive valuations, a dovish central bank policy path and the passage of a stimulative fiscal package in Germany. Although the second quarter began with a spike in volatility triggered by the US announcing an array of tariffs, global equity markets went on to show resilience.
- With inflation still running above target and continued uncertainty about tariff impacts, the US Federal Reserve kept short-term interest rates at 4.25%-4.50%. Meanwhile, policymakers in Europe adopted a more accommodative monetary stance: The European Central Bank cut its primary policy interest rate four times, to 2.0%, during the first half of the year, and the Bank of England trimmed the Bank Rate twice, to 4.25%.
- Global stocks posted solid gains for the six months, with Europe performing particularly well.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 15.27% for the six months. All 11 sectors posted gains. Financials and information technology, which together represented about half of the benchmark by weight, were the top contributors.
- By market, China, South Korea and Taiwan contributed most to the benchmark's return, all with double-digit gains. Of the 26 countries in the index, only five detracted.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard ESG Developed Europe Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The fund aims to provide long-term growth of capital by seeking to achieve the performance of the FTSE Developed Europe Choice Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of common stocks of large and mid-sized companies in developed countries in Europe.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2025, global financial markets were largely influenced by shifts in trade policy, a decline in the US dollar and more expansive fiscal policy in Europe.
- Early in the period, optimism in the US about the prospect of further deregulation, tax cuts and robust corporate earnings was at times tempered by market concerns about interest rates, stretched equity valuations and the potential inflationary impact of tariffs. European equities posted a strong first quarter, supported by more attractive valuations, a dovish central bank policy path and the passage of a stimulative fiscal package in Germany. Although the second quarter began with a spike in volatility triggered by the US announcing an array of tariffs, global equity markets went on to show resilience.
- With inflation still running above target and continued uncertainty about tariff impacts, the US Federal Reserve kept short-term interest rates at 4.25%–4.50%. Meanwhile, policymakers in Europe adopted a more accommodative monetary stance: The European Central Bank cut its primary policy interest rate four times, to 2.0%, during the first half of the year, and the Bank of England trimmed the Bank Rate twice, to 4.25%.
- Global stocks posted solid gains for the six months, with Europe performing particularly well.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark returned 6.93% for the six months. The fund's return differed from that of its benchmark due in part to the treatment of withholding tax. Of the 11 sectors in the fund's index, financials contributed most; other contributors included technology, telecommunications, consumer staples and industrials. Health care detracted most.
- Of the markets in the fund's index, only Denmark – and, to a lesser extent, Belgium/Luxembourg – saw negative returns. Stocks in Germany, Switzerland, Spain and France contributed most to results.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard ESG Developed World All Cap Equity Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The Fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by seeking to achieve the performance of the FTSE Developed All Cap Choice Index.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2025, global financial markets were largely influenced by shifts in trade policy, a decline in the US dollar and more expansive fiscal policy in Europe.
- Early in the period, optimism in the US about the prospect of further deregulation, tax cuts and robust corporate earnings was at times tempered by market concerns about interest rates, stretched equity valuations and the potential inflationary impact of tariffs. European equities posted a strong first quarter, supported by more attractive valuations, a dovish central bank policy path and the passage of a stimulative fiscal package in Germany. Although the second quarter began with a spike in volatility triggered by the US announcing an array of tariffs, global equity markets went on to show resilience.
- With inflation still running above target and continued uncertainty about tariff impacts, the US Federal Reserve kept short-term interest rates at 4.25%–4.50%. Meanwhile, policymakers in Europe adopted a more accommodative monetary stance: The European Central Bank cut its primary policy interest rate four times, to 2.0%, during the first half of the year, and the Bank of England trimmed the Bank Rate twice, to 4.25%.
- Global stocks posted solid gains for the six months, with Europe performing particularly well.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 8.54% for the six months.
- Ten of the 11 sectors posted gains for the period, with technology and financials contributing most to the benchmark's return, followed by consumer discretionary, telecommunications, industrials and consumer staples. Health care was the lone detractor.
- US stocks, which make up roughly 70% of the index, contributed most to the benchmark's performance because of the country's weighting. Japan, Germany and Switzerland were also top contributors.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard ESG Emerging Markets All Cap Equity Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the FTSE Emerging All Cap Choice Index.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2025, global financial markets were largely influenced by shifts in trading policy, a decline in the US dollar and more expansive fiscal policy in Europe.
- Early in the period, optimism in the US about the prospect of further deregulation, tax cuts and robust corporate earnings was at times tempered by market concerns about interest rates, stretched equity valuations and the potential inflationary impact of tariffs. European equities posted a strong first quarter, supported by more attractive valuations, a dovish central bank policy path and the passage of a stimulative fiscal package in Germany. Although the second quarter began with a spike in volatility triggered by the US announcing an array of tariffs, global equity markets went on to show resilience.
- With inflation still running above target and continued uncertainty about tariff impacts, the US Federal Reserve kept short-term interest rates at 4.25%–4.50%. Meanwhile, policymakers in Europe adopted a more accommodative monetary stance: The European Central Bank cut its primary policy interest rate four times, to 2.0%, during the first half of the year, and the Bank of England trimmed the Bank Rate twice, to 4.25%.
- Global stocks posted solid gains for the six months, with Europe performing particularly well.
- For the period, the fund's benchmark index returned 11.46%. The fund's return differed from that of its benchmark owing in part to the treatment of capital gains in some markets.
- Among the 11 sectors, financial stocks were by the far the largest contributor to returns. Consumer discretionary and telecommunications also contributed, while energy detracted from performance.
- Among markets, China, which represented over one quarter of the index's market value, helped performance most. Thailand, Saudi Arabia and Indonesia detracted most.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard European Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI Europe Index, which is made up of common stocks of companies located in Europe.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2025, global financial markets were largely influenced by shifts in trade policy, a decline in the US dollar and more expansive fiscal policy in Europe.
- Early in the period, optimism in the US about the prospect of further deregulation, tax cuts and robust corporate earnings was at times tempered by market concerns about interest rates, stretched equity valuations and the potential inflationary impact of tariffs. European equities posted a strong first quarter, supported by more attractive valuations, a dovish central bank policy path and the passage of a stimulative fiscal package in Germany. Although the second quarter began with a spike in volatility triggered by the US announcing an array of tariffs, global equity markets went on to show resilience.
- With inflation still running above target and continued uncertainty about tariff impacts, the US Federal Reserve kept short-term interest rates at 4.25%–4.50%. Meanwhile, policymakers in Europe adopted a more accommodative monetary stance: The European Central Bank cut its primary policy interest rate four times, to 2.0%, during the first half of the year, and the Bank of England trimmed the Bank Rate twice, to 4.25%.
- Global stocks posted solid gains for the six months, with Europe performing particularly well.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 23.05% for the six months. The fund's return differed from that of its benchmark during the period due in part to the treatment of withholding tax and to swing pricing, an anti-dilution mechanism designed to protect fund investors from the costs of other investors buying or selling units in the fund. All 11 sectors represented in the index posted positive returns. The top contributors were financials, industrials and consumer staples.
- Of the 15 markets in the fund's index, only Denmark detracted. The strongest contributors were Germany, the United Kingdom and France.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Eurozone Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The Fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI EMU Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of common stocks designed to capture 85% of the underlying Euro Zone countries' market capitalisation.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2025, global financial markets were largely influenced by shifts in trade policy, a decline in the US dollar and more expansive fiscal policy in Europe.
- Early in the period, optimism in the US about the prospect of further deregulation, tax cuts and robust corporate earnings was at times tempered by market concerns about interest rates, stretched equity valuations and the potential inflationary impact of tariffs. European equities posted a strong first quarter, supported by more attractive valuations, a dovish central bank policy path and the passage of a stimulative fiscal package in Germany. Although the second quarter began with a spike in volatility triggered by the US announcing an array of tariffs, global equity markets went on to show resilience.
- With inflation still running above target and continued uncertainty about tariff impacts, the US Federal Reserve kept short-term interest rates at 4.25%–4.50%. Meanwhile, policymakers in Europe adopted a more accommodative monetary stance: The European Central Bank cut its primary policy interest rate four times, to 2.0%, during the first half of the year, and the Bank of England trimmed the Bank Rate twice, to 4.25%.
- Global stocks posted solid gains for the six months, with Europe performing particularly well.
- For the period, the fund's benchmark returned 12.85%. The fund's return differed from that of its benchmark due in part to the treatment of withholding tax. Nine of the 11 benchmark sectors contributed positively; standouts included financials, which had both the largest weighting and the strongest return, and industrials. Consumer discretionary and health care detracted.
- Among markets, Germany, France and Spain were the top contributors. All 10 markets reported positive returns.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

Returns are based on NAV with income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Global Small-Cap Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI World Small Cap Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of small-cap companies in developed countries.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2025, global financial markets were largely influenced by shifts in trading policy, a decline in the US dollar and more expansive fiscal policy in Europe.
- Early in the period, optimism in the US about the prospect of further deregulation, tax cuts and robust corporate earnings was at times tempered by market concerns about interest rates, stretched equity valuations and the potential inflationary impact of tariffs. European equities posted a strong first quarter, supported by more attractive valuations, a dovish central bank policy path and the passage of a stimulative fiscal package in Germany. Although the second quarter began with a spike in volatility triggered by the US announcing an array of tariffs, global equity markets went on to show resilience.
- With inflation still running above target and continued uncertainty about tariff impacts, the US Federal Reserve kept short-term interest rates at 4.25%–4.50%. Meanwhile, policymakers in Europe adopted a more accommodative monetary stance: The European Central Bank cut its primary policy interest rate four times, to 2.0%, during the first half of the year, and the Bank of England trimmed the Bank Rate twice, to 4.25%.
- Global stocks posted solid gains for the six months, with Europe performing particularly well.
- The fund's benchmark index returned 7.42% for the period. Results were positive in nine of the benchmark's 11 sectors. By sector, industrials, financials and materials helped performance most. Health care and energy detracted.
- By market, Japan, the United Kingdom and Canada contributed most to results. The United States, which accounted for over half of the index by weight, was the only detractor.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Global Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI World Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of common stocks of companies in developed countries.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2025, global financial markets were largely influenced by shifts in trading policy, a decline in the US dollar and more expansive fiscal policy in Europe.
- Early in the period, optimism in the US about the prospect of further deregulation, tax cuts and robust corporate earnings was at times tempered by market concerns about interest rates, stretched equity valuations and the potential inflationary impact of tariffs. European equities posted a strong first quarter, supported by more attractive valuations, a dovish central bank policy path and the passage of a stimulative fiscal package in Germany. Although the second quarter began with a spike in volatility triggered by the US announcing an array of tariffs, global equity markets went on to show resilience.
- With inflation still running above target and continued uncertainty about tariff impacts, the US Federal Reserve kept short-term interest rates at 4.25%-4.50%. Meanwhile, policymakers in Europe adopted a more accommodative monetary stance: The European Central Bank cut its primary policy interest rate four times, to 2.0%, during the first half of the year, and the Bank of England trimmed the Bank Rate twice, to 4.25%.
- Global stocks posted solid gains for the six months, with Europe performing particularly well.
- The fund's benchmark index returned 9.47% for the period. Of the benchmark's 11 sectors, nine posted gains. Financial stocks were the top contributor. Information technology, which accounted for almost a quarter of the index's weighting, also helped performance, as did industrials. Health care and consumer discretionary detracted.
- US stocks, which accounted for almost three quarters of the index, contributed the most. Germany, the United Kingdom and Japan boosted performance the most. Denmark detracted.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Returns are based on NAV with income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Japan Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the MSCI Japan Index, which emphasises stocks of companies located in Japan.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2025, global financial markets were largely influenced by shifts in trading policy, a decline in the US dollar and more expansive fiscal policy in Europe.
- Early in the period, optimism in the US about the prospect of further deregulation, tax cuts and robust corporate earnings was at times tempered by market concerns about interest rates, stretched equity valuations and the potential inflationary impact of tariffs. European equities posted a strong first quarter, supported by more attractive valuations, a dovish central bank policy path and the passage of a stimulative fiscal package in Germany. Although the second quarter began with a spike in volatility triggered by the US announcing an array of tariffs, global equity markets went on to show resilience.
- With inflation still running above target and continued uncertainty about tariff impacts, the US Federal Reserve kept short-term interest rates at 4.25%–4.50%. Meanwhile, policymakers in Europe adopted a more accommodative monetary stance: The European Central Bank cut its primary policy interest rate four times, to 2.0%, during the first half of the year, and the Bank of England trimmed the Bank Rate twice, to 4.25%.
- Global stocks posted solid gains for the six months, with Europe performing particularly well.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned –1.43% for the six months. Seven of the 11 sectors had negative returns, with consumer discretionary and health care hurting performance most. Communication services led positive contributors.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Pacific ex-Japan Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI Pacific ex-Japan Index, which is made up of common stocks of companies located in the Pacific region.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2025, global financial markets were largely influenced by shifts in trading policy, a decline in the US dollar and more expansive fiscal policy in Europe.
- Early in the period, optimism in the US about the prospect of further deregulation, tax cuts and robust corporate earnings was at times tempered by market concerns about interest rates, stretched equity valuations and the potential inflationary impact of tariffs. European equities posted a strong first quarter, supported by more attractive valuations, a dovish central bank policy path and the passage of a stimulative fiscal package in Germany. Although the second quarter began with a spike in volatility triggered by the US announcing an array of tariffs, global equity markets went on to show resilience.
- With inflation still running above target and continued uncertainty about tariff impacts, the US Federal Reserve kept short-term interest rates at 4.25%–4.50%. Meanwhile, policymakers in Europe adopted a more accommodative monetary stance: The European Central Bank cut its primary policy interest rate four times, to 2.0%, during the first half of the year, and the Bank of England trimmed the Bank Rate twice, to 4.25%.
- Global stocks posted solid gains for the six months, with Europe performing particularly well.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 1.12%. Financials, which accounts for more than a third of the index, contributed most to benchmark returns. Materials and health care detracted most.
- By market, Australia, with more than half the index's weight, detracted from performance, but Singapore and Hong Kong lifted it into positive territory.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard U.S. 500 Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the S&P 500 Index, a widely recognised benchmark of US stock market performance that is dominated by the stocks of large US companies.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2025, global financial markets were largely influenced by shifts in trade policy, a decline in the US dollar and more expansive fiscal policy in Europe.
- Early in the period, optimism in the US about the prospect of further deregulation, tax cuts and robust corporate earnings was at times tempered by market concerns about interest rates, stretched equity valuations and the potential inflationary impact of tariffs. European equities posted a strong first quarter, supported by more attractive valuations, a dovish central bank policy path and the passage of a stimulative fiscal package in Germany. Although the second quarter began with a spike in volatility triggered by the US announcing an array of tariffs, global equity markets went on to show resilience.
- With inflation still running above target and continued uncertainty about tariff impacts, the US Federal Reserve kept short-term interest rates at 4.25%–4.50%. Meanwhile, policymakers in Europe adopted a more accommodative monetary stance: The European Central Bank cut its primary policy interest rate four times, to 2.0%, during the first half of the year, and the Bank of England trimmed the Bank Rate twice, to 4.25%.
- Global stocks returned 10.09% for the six months, as measured by the FTSE Global All Cap Index in US dollars. The decline of the US dollar boosted returns of European stocks in particular.
- The fund's benchmark index returned 5.99% for the six months. Nine of 11 sectors recorded positive returns. Information technology, which accounts for more than 30% of the index, contributed most. Financials, industrials and communication services also boosted the benchmark. Consumer discretionary and health care detracted most.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard U.S. Opportunities Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC, and sub-managed by PRIMECAP Management Company.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by investing in stocks with above-average earnings growth potential that is not reflected in their current market prices.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2025, global financial markets were largely influenced by shifts in trade policy, a decline in the US dollar and more expansive fiscal policy in Europe.
- Early in the period, optimism in the US about the prospect of further deregulation, tax cuts and robust corporate earnings was at times tempered by market concerns about interest rates, stretched equity valuations and the potential inflationary impact of tariffs. European equities posted a strong first quarter, supported by more attractive valuations, a dovish central bank policy path and the passage of a stimulative fiscal package in Germany. Although the second quarter began with a spike in volatility triggered by the US announcing an array of tariffs, global equity markets went on to show resilience.
- With inflation still running above target and continued uncertainty about tariff impacts, the US Federal Reserve kept short-term interest rates at 4.25%–4.50%. Meanwhile, policymakers in Europe adopted a more accommodative monetary stance: The European Central Bank cut its primary policy interest rate four times, to 2.0%, during the first half of the year, and the Bank of England trimmed the Bank Rate twice, to 4.25%.
- Global stocks returned 10.09% for the six months, as measured by the FTSE Global All Cap Index in US dollars. The decline of the US dollar boosted returns of European stocks in particular.
- The fund's benchmark returned 5.54% for the period. Eight of the index's 11 sectors recorded positive results. Communication services, industrials and utilities produced the strongest returns. Share prices declined in the consumer discretionary, health care and energy sectors.
- The fund modestly outperformed its benchmark for the six months. Selection in information technology and consumer discretionary helped fund performance the most. Selection in industrials and an overweight allocation to health care detracted the most.
- The United States, which accounts for about 85% of the fund's assets, detracted from relative performance due to its lower weighting and slightly lower returns versus the benchmark. But holdings outside the United States, particularly those of Chinese companies, added to performance overall and more than offset the underperformance of US shares.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Vanguard 20+ Year Euro Treasury Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Euro Treasury 20+ Year Bond Index, a market-weighted index designed to reflect the total universe of euro-denominated euro zone treasury securities with maturities of at least 20 years and a minimum credit rating of AA–.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2025, global financial markets were largely influenced by shifts in trade policy, a decline in the US dollar and more expansive fiscal policy in Europe.
- Early in the period, optimism in the US about the prospect of further deregulation, tax cuts and robust corporate earnings was at times tempered by market concerns about interest rates, stretched equity valuations and the potential inflationary impact of tariffs. European equities posted a strong first quarter, supported by more attractive valuations, a dovish central bank policy path and the passage of a stimulative fiscal package in Germany. Although the second quarter began with a spike in volatility triggered by the US announcing an array of tariffs, global equity markets went on to show resilience.
- With inflation still running above target and continued uncertainty about tariff impacts, the US Federal Reserve kept short-term interest rates at 4.25%–4.50%. Meanwhile, policymakers in Europe adopted a more accommodative monetary stance: The European Central Bank cut its primary policy interest rate four times, to 2.0%, during the first half of the year, and the Bank of England trimmed the Bank Rate twice, to 4.25%.
- Global bonds posted gains for the six months on a hedged basis.
- The fund's benchmark index returned –6.78% for the period.
- All countries in the index posted negative returns, with Germany, the index's largest market, declining more than 8%.
- Bonds maturing in more than 30 years saw a bigger decline than those maturing in 20 to 30 years. Higher-rated bonds fared worse than lower-rated bonds.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Emerging Markets Bond Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The Fund seeks to provide total return while generating a moderate level of income by investing primarily in bonds of issuers in emerging-market countries.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements. The fund is actively managed and seeks to invest as described in the prospectus. The following performance information shows how the fund's returns compare with those of the J.P. Morgan EMBI Global Diversified Index, a market index that has investment characteristics similar to those of the fund.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2025, global financial markets were largely influenced by shifts in trade policy, a decline in the US dollar and more expansive fiscal policy in Europe.
- Early in the period, optimism in the US about the prospect of further deregulation, tax cuts and robust corporate earnings was at times tempered by market concerns about interest rates, stretched equity valuations and the potential inflationary impact of tariffs. European equities posted a strong first quarter, supported by more attractive valuations, a dovish central bank policy path and the passage of a stimulative fiscal package in Germany. Although the second quarter began with a spike in volatility triggered by the US announcing an array of tariffs, global equity markets went on to show resilience.
- With inflation still running above target and continued uncertainty about tariff impacts, the US Federal Reserve kept its target for short-term interest rates at 4.25%–4.50%. Meanwhile, policymakers in Europe adopted a more accommodative monetary stance: The European Central Bank cut its primary policy interest rate four times, to 2.0%, during the first half of the year, and the Bank of England trimmed the Bank Rate twice, to 4.25%.
- Global bonds returned 7.27% for the six months, as measured by the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Index in US dollars on an unhedged basis. The decline of the US dollar boosted returns for non-US bonds in particular.
- The fund returned 5.95% for the period, outpacing its benchmark index, which returned 5.64%.
- Security selection in Mexico, Argentina and the Dominican Republic contributed the most to relative performance, whereas the fund's overweight allocations to Ukraine and South Africa and underweights to Venezuela and Lebanon were headwinds. Rates added value while currency positioning detracted.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Vanguard ESG Global Corporate Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg MSCI Corporate Float-Adjusted Bond Screened Index, a multi-currency benchmark that includes investment grade corporate fixed-rate bonds from both developed and emerging markets issuers.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2025, global financial markets were largely influenced by shifts in trade policy, a decline in the US dollar and more expansive fiscal policy in Europe.
- Early in the period, optimism in the US about the prospect of further deregulation, tax cuts and robust corporate earnings was at times tempered by market concerns about interest rates, stretched equity valuations and the potential inflationary impact of tariffs. European equities posted a strong first quarter, supported by more attractive valuations, a dovish central bank policy path and the passage of a stimulative fiscal package in Germany. Although the second quarter began with a spike in volatility triggered by the US announcing an array of tariffs, global equity markets went on to show resilience.
- With inflation still running above target and continued uncertainty about tariff impacts, the US Federal Reserve kept its target for short-term interest rates at 4.25%–4.50%. Meanwhile, policymakers in Europe adopted a more accommodative monetary stance: The European Central Bank cut its primary policy interest rate four times, to 2.0%, during the first half of the year, and the Bank of England trimmed the Bank Rate twice, to 4.25%.
- Global bonds returned 7.27% for the six months, as measured by the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Index in US dollars on an unhedged basis. The decline of the US dollar boosted returns for non-US bonds in particular.
- The fund's benchmark returned 3.75% for the period.
- By country, the United States, which has the largest weighting in the index, performed better than the index as a whole. Ireland also outperformed. Denmark, Sweden and Germany were among the laggards.
- By sector, bonds issued by financial institutions returned more than those issued by industrial companies and utilities.
- From a credit-quality perspective, bonds on the bottom rungs of the investment-grade ladder performed better than their higher-rated counterparts. By maturity, results were mixed.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Euro Government Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Euro Government Float Adjusted Bond Index, a market-weighted index designed to reflect the total universe of euro-denominated euro zone treasury and government-related securities with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2025, global financial markets were largely influenced by shifts in trade policy, a decline in the US dollar and more expansive fiscal policy in Europe.
- Early in the period, optimism in the US about the prospect of further deregulation, tax cuts and robust corporate earnings was at times tempered by market concerns about interest rates, stretched equity valuations and the potential inflationary impact of tariffs. European equities posted a strong first quarter, supported by more attractive valuations, a dovish central bank policy path and the passage of a stimulative fiscal package in Germany. Although the second quarter began with a spike in volatility triggered by the US announcing an array of tariffs, global equity markets went on to show resilience.
- With inflation still running above target and continued uncertainty about tariff impacts, the US Federal Reserve kept short-term interest rates at 4.25%–4.50%. Meanwhile, policymakers in Europe adopted a more accommodative monetary stance: The European Central Bank cut its primary policy interest rate four times, to 2.0%, during the first half of the year, and the Bank of England trimmed the Bank Rate twice, to 4.25%.
- Global bonds posted gains for the six months on a hedged basis.
- The fund's benchmark returned 0.58% for the six months.
- By country, returns were a mixed bag. Italy, which makes up almost a fifth of the index, was the strongest performer. Austria and Ireland were the weakest.
- By maturity, longer-dated bonds underperformed the index while shorter-maturity bonds held up better. From a credit-quality perspective, lower-rated bonds did best. By sector, agency securities led.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Euro Investment Grade Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg EUR Non-Government Float Adjusted Bond Index, a market-weighted index of euro-denominated, investment-grade fixed income securities with maturities greater than 1 year and a minimum issue size of EUR 300 million, but excluding certain sectors as set out below. The Index includes securities issued by corporate, securitised, and government-related/supranational entities (including entities such as the European Union), but excludes treasury and government related entities from euro zone countries.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2025, global financial markets were largely influenced by shifts in trade policy, a decline in the US dollar and more expansive fiscal policy in Europe.
- Early in the period, optimism in the US about the prospect of further deregulation, tax cuts and robust corporate earnings was at times tempered by market concerns about interest rates, stretched equity valuations and the potential inflationary impact of tariffs. European equities posted a strong first quarter, supported by more attractive valuations, a dovish central bank policy path and the passage of a stimulative fiscal package in Germany. Although the second quarter began with a spike in volatility triggered by the US announcing an array of tariffs, global equity markets went on to show resilience.
- With inflation still running above target and continued uncertainty about tariff impacts, the US Federal Reserve kept short-term interest rates at 4.25%–4.50%. Meanwhile, policymakers in Europe adopted a more accommodative monetary stance: The European Central Bank cut its primary policy interest rate four times, to 2.0%, during the first half of the year, and the Bank of England trimmed the Bank Rate twice, to 4.25%.
- Global bonds posted gains for the six months on a hedged basis.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 1.31% for the period.
- Corporate bonds, which accounted for more than half of the index, outperformed the index as a whole. Within corporates, financial institutions led, followed by positive performance from utilities and industrials. Securitised bonds also outperformed the index, while non-corporates lagged.
- Among the larger constituents, supranationals and the United States underperformed the benchmark as a whole. France and Germany outperformed.
- By credit quality and maturity, bonds with the lowest rating and shortest duration performed best.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Eurozone Inflation-Linked Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Global Inflation-Linked: Eurozone – Euro CPI Index, a market-weighted index of euro-denominated inflation-linked government securities within the euro zone, designed to serve as a hedge against inflation in the euro zone region, with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2025, global financial markets were largely influenced by shifts in trade policy, a decline in the US dollar and more expansive fiscal policy in Europe.
- Early in the period, optimism in the US about the prospect of further deregulation, tax cuts and robust corporate earnings was at times tempered by market concerns about interest rates, stretched equity valuations and the potential inflationary impact of tariffs. European equities posted a strong first quarter, supported by more attractive valuations, a dovish central bank policy path and the passage of a stimulative fiscal package in Germany. Although the second quarter began with a spike in volatility triggered by the US announcing an array of tariffs, global equity markets went on to show resilience.
- With inflation still running above target and continued uncertainty about tariff impacts, the US Federal Reserve kept short-term interest rates at 4.25%–4.50%. Meanwhile, policymakers in Europe adopted a more accommodative monetary stance: The European Central Bank cut its primary policy interest rate four times, to 2.0%, during the first half of the year, and the Bank of England trimmed the Bank Rate twice, to 4.25%.
- Global bonds posted gains for the six months on a hedged basis.
- The fund's benchmark index returned 1.43% for the period.
- Italy and Spain outperformed the benchmark as a whole; France and Germany underperformed.
- By maturity, shorter-dated bonds performed better than those with longer maturities. By credit quality, lower-rated bonds produced better results than their longer-dated counterparts.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Global Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited, and sub-managed by Vanguard Investments Australia Ltd.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Float Adjusted and Scaled Index, a market-weighted index of global government, government-related agency, corporate and securitised fixed income investments with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2025, global financial markets were largely influenced by shifts in trade policy, a decline in the US dollar and more expansive fiscal policy in Europe.
- Early in the period, optimism in the US about the prospect of further deregulation, tax cuts and robust corporate earnings was at times tempered by market concerns about interest rates, stretched equity valuations and the potential inflationary impact of tariffs. European equities posted a strong first quarter, supported by more attractive valuations, a dovish central bank policy path and the passage of a stimulative fiscal package in Germany. Although the second quarter began with a spike in volatility triggered by the US announcing an array of tariffs, global equity markets went on to show resilience.
- With inflation still running above target and continued uncertainty about tariff impacts, the US Federal Reserve kept short-term interest rates at 4.25%–4.50%. Meanwhile, policymakers in Europe adopted a more accommodative monetary stance: The European Central Bank cut its primary policy interest rate four times, to 2.0%, during the first half of the year, and the Bank of England trimmed the Bank Rate twice, to 4.25%.
- Global bonds posted gains for the six months on a hedged basis. The fund's benchmark, which is hedged to the US dollar, returned 2.98% for the period.
- By market, the United States, which has the largest weighting in the index, outperformed the index as a whole. Among other large markets, Italy outperformed. Germany, Spain and France underperformed. Japanese bonds produced a negative return.
- US mortgage-backed securities fared better than other parts of the market, including government and corporate bonds.
- By credit quality, results were mixed. By maturity, bonds with shorter maturities generally produced stronger results than their longer-dated counterparts.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.
