

Investment strategy

The fund invests in equity markets throughout the world, such as the Eurozone, Europe, North America and Asia. It seeks to minimise its price risk by optimising the spread of its investments across the different regions. After all, these markets are not always interdependent: a fall in, say, Asian stocks does not necessarily influence the American stocks in the portfolio. To make the best selection from the huge global array of equities, the fund managers seek the advice of a large number of local analysts. The fund focuses on the most promising sectors and stocks with the right risk/return ratio.
