Portfolio Structure

Investment Strategy

The investment objective is to achieve a higher and long-term increase in value. Investments are made predominantly in equity funds denominated in euros and other currencies (approximately 70% of the investment assets) and bond funds (approximately 30% of the investment assets). The investments are spread worldwide. The portfolio is primarily aimed at risk-oriented investors who should have an investment horizon of at least five years. The portfolio has a high level of risk. In addition to the typical risks of the funds contained in the portfolio or the assets held by these funds (such as creditworthiness risks, price risks, interest rate risks, etc.), this portfolio also has an exchange rate risk due to the different reference currencies of the funds contained in the portfolio and the diversification of the assets of these funds.

Manager Comment

The traditionally difficult month of September on the stock markets showed a surprisingly positive side this year. This may also be due to the fact that the US Federal Reserve not only unexpectedly lowered its key interest rate by 50 basis points, but also held out the prospect of further interest rate cuts for this year and next. With this major move, the central bankers apparently wanted to send a strong signal in the direction of fears of recession and the labour market, which had recently weakened and fuelled these fears. Inflation is no longer a headache for either the Fed or the ECB. In the eurozone, the ECB has also lowered its key interest rate by 25 basis points. Further interest rate cuts are also expected here in the coming months, Fund Allocation especially as the economy in the eurozone remains very weak.

In Asia, everything revolves around the monetary stimulus provided by the Chinese central bank, which triggered a brilliant rally in China. It is questionable whether this development will be sustainable, especially as the crisis of confidence continues to smoulder there due to the still-struggling property market.

In this environment, all Moventum strategies were able to generate a positive monthly performance. Bond funds, which had already benefited from the interest rate cut fantasy in advance, further extended their price gains. The equity side also benefited from the positive impetus on the interest rate side. The recovery on the equity markets was also reflected in our strategies. We are entering the month of October with confidence.
