General information

Legal structure

Triodos SICAV I (the fund) is an open-ended investment company with a designated management company, incorporated in 2006 under the laws of the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg as a “Société d’Investissement à Capital Variable” (SICAV) in the form of a “société anonyme” for an unlimited period. sustainable mobility and infrastructure, renewable resources, circular economy, prosperous and healthy people, innovation for sustainability, and social inclusion and empowerment. In addition, all investments must meet strict minimum standards. Each sub-fund has its own risk-return profile, applies a long-term investment strategy and has a concentrated portfolio.

Report of the management company

Through its public market Socially Responsible Investing (SRI) strategy, the fund invests for positive change alongside a financial return.

As of April 1, 2018, Triodos Investment Management has brought the investment management of Triodos SICAV I in-house, is applying fully integrated analysis and has further strengthened its engagement activities with the aim to maximise positive change. As a result, the investment management services previously provided by NN Investment Partners have been phased out per the second quarter of 2018.

In the first half of 2018, the Triodos SICAV I sub-funds each earned the prestigious Nordic Swan Ecolabel. The sub-funds are the first Nordic Swan Ecolabeled funds available to Dutch, UK, German, Belgian and Danish investors. Triodos Sustainable Bond Fund is the first ever fixed-income fund to be granted the label, and the remaining three sub-funds are the first global, sector diversified, equity funds to earn the label.

Investment approach

The investment process starts with forming a long-term vision on sustainability and the transition towards a more sustainable economy. We integrate global trends, their resulting challenges and the sustainability solutions needed to meet these challenges into our vision. This vision translates into seven sustainable transition themes. These themes comprise the core of our stock selection process, as each company in the portfolio must positively contribute to: sustainable food and agriculture, sustainable mobility and infrastructure, renewable resources, circular economy, social inclusion and empowerment, innovation for sustainability, and prosperous and healthy people.

The fund follows a four-fold approach to ensure that the portfolio remains anchored in driving solutions for the sustainable transition themes:

1. Positive inclusion: the fund selects companies that positively contribute to our seven sustainable transition themes through their products, services, and operating models.

2. Minimum standards check: the fund continuously reviews companies for the possible risk that their business practices could jeopardise this transition, by evaluating the company against the process, product and precautionary minimum standards. Companies that do not meet those standards are no longer eligible for investment by our sub-funds.
3. Integrated analysis: the fund conducts a comprehensive integrated financial and sustainability analysis. This step focuses on the potential impact of sustainability factors on a company's future financial value, making the approach both solutions-focused and forward-looking.
4. Stewardship: the fund actively engages with companies to drive sustainability at board level. Through a collaborative dialogue and active use of shareholder responsibilities, the fund aims to maximise the positive impact of its investee companies by strengthening their insight into material sustainability issues, thus adding to their ability to deliver long-term value.

Transition themes

Triodos Investment Management has identified seven sustainable transition themes to guide the portfolio construction and impact management.

Sustainable food and agriculture

Companies that preserve soil, water systems, nature and biodiversity, and those that promote sustainable food products and healthy diets.

Sustainable mobility and infrastructure

Companies that offer solutions for sustainable mobility and infrastructure, such as urban mobility, sustainable buildings and electric vehicles.

Renewable resources

Companies that provide an alternative to fossil fuel-based resources, such as renewable energy, companies that produce bio-based materials as alternatives to finite resources, and businesses that contribute to an efficient water infrastructure.

Circular economy

Companies that follow the principles of circular economics, including efficient waste management and recycling, product-as-a-service business models and eco-efficiency combined with product-life extensions.

Social inclusion and empowerment

Companies that provide education, inclusive financial services and access to media and information, as well as companies that excel as a role model in advancement of social inclusion and equality.

Innovation for sustainability

Companies that are front-runners in sustainable innovation and technology, including cybersecurity, telecommunications, robotics and information technology.

Prosperous and healthy people

Companies that advance health solutions, such as medical technology, health care, personal hygiene and fitness, as well as companies that help maintain health by preserving the environment.

Impact

The fund selects companies for their contribution to the previously-mentioned seven transition themes. The fund is currently implementing a new quantitative impact reporting methodology. In the next reports, we will be able to present the contribution of the investee companies to solving the sustainability challenges that the world faces, measured in their carbon, water and waste footprints.

Sustainability performance

The fund believes companies that successfully balance their impact on the environment and society with business considerations will deliver optimal long-term value to all stakeholders, including their shareholders.

Sustainability criteria

In addition to its selection based on the contribution to the transition themes, Triodos SICAV I applies some of the strictest sustainability criteria in the market. The fund's views on sustainable corporate behaviour evolve over time with increasing knowledge and insight; the fund's criteria, therefore, also continuously evolve. Triodos SICAV I regularly updates its criteria to ensure it reflects the latest views on sustainability within Triodos Investment Management and society at large.

¹ The scores are based on Sustainalytics ratings, using customised weight settings. For bonds, the sustainability scores relate to the non-sovereign constituents of the portfolio and the index. Ratings are available for all but two companies and institutions in the portfolio; for the index, approximately 82% of the constituents are covered. Sovereign bonds are not included in the scores given above. The equity portfolio consists of companies with sustainable products and services and companies that are considered 'best in class' within their sector. The average sustainability score of the equity fund portfolio represents 97% of the fund's invested assets. The remaining companies for which no sustainability rating is available are companies with sustainable activities. The table shows scores as per March 31, 2018.

In 2018, the fund reconsidered its position on some of the minimum criteria:

- Data protection and privacy: to address risks related to data protection and privacy rights, we will engage on these risks with companies that collect and monetise consumer data. This engagement will also provide us with more information about how companies mitigate such risks, allowing us to consider specific policy requirements – under our minimum standards on human rights – at a later stage.
- Deforestation: the threshold for sourcing wood (and pulp/paper) with sustainable forestry certification has been raised. If substantial amounts of wood, paper and pulp are used, these must all originate from certified sources and/or must be post-consumer recycled content (previously the threshold was set at 50%). If the 100% level is not yet met, the company must have a programme aimed at reaching this level within the foreseeable future, or, when certification schemes are lacking for specific commodities, show strong efforts to source in a responsible way.
- Marketing of breastmilk substitutes: unfortunately, violations of the World Health Organization (WHO) Code on Marketing of Breastmilk Substitutes are still very common. To foster the crucial role of natural breast feeding for infant health, and to address the risk of abuse of the WHO Code, a policy requirement has been re-introduced – as part of our minimum standards on International Codes and Conventions - for companies deriving more than 5% of their total revenues from the production, sale, distribution and/or marketing of breast milk substitutes and related products. Such companies must have a policy that explicitly acknowledges, and preferably implements, the WHO Code and the additional resolutions. The policy must apply worldwide.

A full overview of the fund's sustainability criteria is available on www.triodos-im.com.

Sustainable investment research

The fund actively monitors the companies in its fund portfolios. When it suspects a potential breach of the minimum standards, it initiates a dialogue with the company involved. If a breach of the minimum standards is identified and the company does not have a legitimate plan for solving such issue, or if the fund concludes that the issue constitutes a major breach of the minimum standards, that company will be removed from the fund portfolios.

Two companies are under review: BMW, due to investigations into illegal price setting, and Swedish company Epiroc, a recent spin-off from Atlas Copco, that must be fully assessed against the minimum standards before it can be selected for investment. Holdings in 8point3 Energy, Achmea, Aptiv, Aqua Metals, Boston Properties, Comcast, Delphi Technologies, Dentsply Sirona, Liberty Global, Saint-Gobain, SunPower, Tesla, Time Warner, and Zimmer Biomet were removed from all fund portfolios due to corporate developments and/or for valuation reasons.

Stewardship

We believe that active stewardship starts with proper impact investment decisions. A vital part of our stewardship approach is investing in companies that support the transition to a sustainable society. We actively engage in dialogue and various other feedback loops with companies to positively influence their business. Where appropriate, we discuss substantial and relevant issues regarding company sustainability performance. We also regularly collaborate with other institutional investors to further steer sustainability-related best practices. Additionally, we believe that by exercising our shareholder voting rights, we can exert a positive influence on a company's long-term strategy. Our policy is to vote at the shareholder meetings of all companies in which we are invested.

NOVO NORDISK

Novo Nordisk is a world leader in Diabetes care, offering a broad range of products from insulin to insulin pens. The company aims to help turn the tide of the diabetes pandemic: the number of adults with diabetes has doubled within the past three decades as a result of population growth, ageing and a lifestyle of unhealthy diet and physical inactivity. Novo Nordisk contributes by raising awareness, improving access to care and addressing psychosocial aspects of diabetes. With its NovoHealth program the company also stimulates healthy living among its employees. The company has strong business ethics standards, captured in the Novo Nordisk Way. They include policies on animal testing and on genetic engineering that meet the strict Triodos requirements. The company adheres to ethical guidelines for clinical trials, which are considered best practice, and to the WHO Ethical Criteria for Medical Drug Promotion. All its production sites are Health & Safety (OHSAS 118001) and environment (ISO 14001) certified.

Dialogue

Encouraging investee companies to improve their sustainability performance is part of the investment strategy of the fund. During its engagement with companies, the fund raises awareness on sustainability issues and provides insights to convince, motivate or enhance the company's sustainable performance.

Engagement takes place throughout the initial research process and subsequent dialogues and by providing companies with a written analysis of the sustainability performance of their operations. This dialogue strengthens a company's insight into those issues that are important to shareholders. During the first six months of 2018, the fund engaged with 75% (2017: 80%) of the companies represented in the portfolios as per June 30, 2018.

The most prominent topics of engagement were basic labour rights (22%), animal testing (9%) and conflict minerals (9%). Engagement on basic labour rights included the living wages project dialogue with garment and footwear companies. Engagement on animal testing and conflict minerals took place throughout the analysis of healthcare and technology companies to confirm that the companies meet the fund's minimum standards.

Collaborative engagement

Bangladesh Accord

The five-year term of the 'Bangladesh Accord for Fire and Building Safety' signed in 2013 and aimed at improving worker safety in Bangladesh' textiles industry, expired in May of this year. As not all remediation measures could be completed within the term of the Accord, a three-year extension period was negotiated last year. Many companies signed up for this new period, but a significant number of companies hesitated to continue their support for the Accord.

Therefore, in January, a large group of global investors, coordinated by the Interfaith Center on Corporate Responsibility, issued a new investor statement, calling on signatories of the expiring Accord to continue their support for this important work and sign up to the extended Accord. This ensured that it retained a strong support base.

Strong support is crucial for the Accord to continue its mission to improve workers' safety in the industry. In April the investor group published the annual investor letter to all signatories of the Accord, calling for continued commitment to the good work done and the completion of pending remediations.

Climate change

The fund participates in the 'RE100 investor group,' an engagement project focusing on climate change led by ShareAction, a UK non-profit investor organisation. The project calls on companies to commit to using 100% renewable energy (RE100) and, as of 2017, to doubling energy productivity before a set deadline (EP100).

Child labour in the cobalt supply chain

Following the publication of a 2016 report by Amnesty International, the fund in 2016 joined a group of 23 international institutional investors, including other Dutch and Scandinavian institutional investors, and led by Dutch pension investor APG to engage with relevant industries about the risk of child labour in the cobalt supply chain. This investor group intends to engage with 13 companies that have been identified by Amnesty International as being at risk of using cobalt from the Democratic Republic of Congo. These companies include Apple, Microsoft, Samsung, Sony, and Volkswagen.

By participating in this collaborative engagement, the fund aims to be an active voice in the joint effort of investors, businesses, organisations, civil society and governments to mitigate the human rights risks in the supply chains for minerals and to encourage companies to improve their responsible sourcing practices. To this end the fund also contributed to a Principles for Responsible Investment (PRI) briefing on this topic for investors, 'Drilling down into the cobalt supply chain: how investors can promote responsible sourcing practices', published in April 2018. As a follow-up, the PRI will take a more active role in supporting this investor engagement.

Investor statements

To express support for the topics of concern, the fund has signed several investor letters/statements, including:

- an investor letter to the International Organization of Securities Commissions (IOSCO), initiated by the PRI, calling upon the IOSCO to endorse the Sustainable Stock Exchanges' Model Guidance on Reporting ESG Information to Investors as a consistent principles-based approach to reporting on ESG issues, and to engage with the World Federation of Exchanges (WFE) about their ongoing work on examining metrics as a starting point for developing a minimum, baseline level of disclosure. The letter also asked for IOSCO's endorsement of the recommendations of the Financial Stability Board Taskforce on Climate-related Financial Disclosures as a means of enabling a deeper examination of climate-related disclosures.

- an investor letter, initiated by the Institutional Investors Group on Climate Change, calling upon the G7 and G20 leaders to commit to achieving the Paris Agreement's goals, accelerating private sector investment into the low carbon transition and improving climate-related financial reporting.

Voting

To motivate and stimulate change within companies included in the portfolios, the fund votes at the Annual General Shareholders' meetings of those companies. In the first half of 2018, the fund voted at 87 shareholder meetings. Voting advice is obtained from Pensions & Investments Research Consultants Services. Triodos SICAV I then applies its own voting guidelines and reviews each recommendation before voting.

Monitoring

Triodos SICAV I is constantly on the lookout for new candidates for sustainable investment and monitors companies that have already been selected. Once a company has been selected for inclusion in the investment universe, it is actively monitored by the fund and subjected to a full re-assessment once every year. A potential breach of Triodos' minimum standards leads to an in-depth investigation. Examples of monitoring activities that took place in 2018 include:

- Heineken: dialogue following questions about alleged abuse of beer promotion girls in African countries.
- Liberty Global: discussion about the company's human rights policy and remuneration. The company does not have a specific policy on human rights, but privacy and data security are high on its agenda and it is well-prepared to comply with the EU GDPR legislation that was implemented in May. The company only operates in countries that have well-established human and civil rights.

response rate
on engagement questions

- PayPal: dialogue with PayPal about the company's human rights policy and its reasons for not doing business in certain countries or high-risk areas. The company explained that certain 'Know-Your-Client rules' cannot be complied with in those regions and that the company is therefore not able to offer its services there.

Further information

Triodos SICAV I supplies more detailed information about its sustainability research methodology, investment criteria, portfolios, proxy voting guidelines and proxy voting advice per company. This information, as well as its engagement report, can be found on www.triodos-im.com. A full overview of newly selected companies and companies that were removed from the fund's portfolios is given in Appendix A.

Market developments

Macro-economy

Risks and uncertainties grew throughout the first half of 2018, amid correcting stock markets, protectionist action from the US and other countries, rising oil prices and a global 'growth scare'. Global economic growth lost momentum. In several economies, including Japan and the euro area, growth slowed sharply in the first quarter of 2018. Although this was likely a soft-patch, the global economy is, in all probability, now past peak growth. Leading indicators rolled over and confidence indicators came down from their highs in 2017. They are now more aligned with what the real economy is likely to deliver: solid economic growth. Despite the unrest and less positive indicators, the outlook for the global economy has been adjusted only modestly.

However, this increase in wealth is not inclusive and does not reflect increased well-being for all. The more privileged members of society are the main beneficiaries of this growth. Rising inequality is a widespread concern - both within and between countries. Although some inequality is inherent to the effective functioning of an economy and the incentives needed for investment and growth, too much inequality can be destructive and hurt macro-economic stability. Moreover, it leads to unequal opportunities and limits social mobility.

Inflation and monetary policy

Inflation is rising slowly, but surely. Although partly driven by temporary factors such as oil price hikes, the rise in price levels gives central banks scope to slowly scale back their highly expansionary monetary policies. The Fed has continued to reduce its sizeable portfolio of government bonds and mortgage-backed securities. In addition, the Fed has raised its rates twice this year. The ECB halved its bond-buying programme to 30 billion euros per month as of January. In addition, the central bank has announced that asset purchases will be tapered one last time, to 15 billion from October to December, and then cease. In Japan, monetary policy has officially been left unchanged, but in practice the purchase of government bonds is decreasing. All in all, liquidity is slowly decreasing.

Although the end of ample liquidity will lead to higher interest rates, this might be a good thing. Quantitative easing has inadvertently reallocated capital to failing companies. Those companies were kept alive and employment was saved. However, it also prevented a shift away from these ineffective companies to those companies that could have been more productive today.

In sum, we interpret that the Goldilocks scenario of improving growth and low inflation has come to an end. We are now in a more reflationary environment.

Fixed income markets

The European fixed income markets showed some remarkable volatility over the first half year of 2018. In the first quarter, interest rates rose sharply as the result of the euphoric sentiment about the macro-economic developments in Europe and the US. On top of that, central banks made it clear that a "normalisation" of monetary policy was imminent. Yet in the second quarter, interest rates corrected back to the levels of the start of the year, because higher uncertainty amongst investors caused another flight to quality. This flight to quality was caused by the political turmoil in Italy, and the trade war between the US and large parts of the rest of the world, which may have strong repercussions on the economy. The flight to quality caused a strong divergence of results for bond investors. While core European sovereigns returned close to 1% positive in the second quarter, the broad market posted a clear negative 0,5% return. Most of these losses can be attributed to Italian sovereigns which lost over 5% this quarter.

Currency markets

Besides the fund's investments in euros, the US dollar is the most important currency for the fund. While the US Dollar Index (an index that compares the value of the US dollar with the currencies of the main trade partners of the US) experienced an initial fall in start of 2018, an initial fall of the US Dollar Index (an index that compares the value of the US dollar with the currencies of the main trade partners of the US), it had more than recovered by the end of June. Mainly because the expectations of monetary policy convergence faded during the first half of 2018.

Equity markets

During the first half of the year, global equity markets performed well (+3.4% in EUR), with the US leading the pack on the back of a stronger dollar and decent earnings growth. A few sectors and one acronym (FANG) stood out in developed markets: the Information Technology (Facebook, Google) and Consumer Discretionary (read: Amazon, Netflix) sectors continued to rally despite lofty valuations, clearly reflecting the narrow leadership in global markets. Healthcare performance was driven by equipment and services momentum and the Energy sector followed the rising oil price (prices rose +25% per barrel of crude in the first half of 2018). Despite the fact that higher oil prices make renewable energy more cost-competitive, especially solar stocks lagged during the first half of the year as the US imposed import tariffs on China-made solar panels and China itself cut subsidies to the solar industry as the country's funds are running dry.

Triodos Sustainable Bond Fund

Investment policy

Over the first half year, sovereign bonds outperformed corporate bonds. High-rated corporates performed relatively well, while lower-rated corporates struggled. In relative terms, impact bonds registered a decent performance, and the number of issues continues to steadily grow. The green bond market, a subset of the impact bond market, is becoming more mature, and, in June a further update of the International Capital Markets Association's Green Bond Principles was published.

To generate more positive impact in line with the transition themes, the sub-fund is gradually expanding its position in corporate bonds, as well as in impact bonds. The sub-fund maintained a small underweight duration position, characterised by a strong underweight of peripheral sovereigns. The sub-fund participated in the successful issuance of a benchmark-size Île-de-France green bond issue. Furthermore, the reopening of the French government Green OAT was used to enlarge the existing position in this bond. The positions in WPP, Booking and Publicis, that contributed little or no impact with regard to the transition themes were sold and the proceeds were reinvested in green bonds.

As of June 30, 2018 the sub-fund's duration was 6.65, versus 6.48 for the benchmark.

Performance

In the first half of 2018, the total net assets of Triodos Sustainable Bond Fund declined from EUR 274.4 million to EUR 269.0 million. During this period, the sub-fund achieved a return after costs of 0.2% (Z-dis), against 0.1% for the benchmark.

Most of the outperformance can be attributed to the large underweight in Italian sovereigns, but the sub-fund's preference for better-quality corporates and sub-sovereign bonds also contributed positively. There was little or no relative return effect from the duration positioning, nor from the curve positioning.

³ Triodos Sustainable Bond Fund aims to achieve financial returns that are in line with the market. These are generally accepted indices for (non-sustainable) worldwide diversified bond funds. The investment policy that is pursued by Triodos Sustainable Bond Fund is not aimed at replicating or outperforming the benchmark. The sub-fund may deviate from the benchmarks because it only invests in bonds that meet strict sustainability criteria. The sub-fund therefore tends to invest in companies, impact bonds, sovereign and sub-sovereign bonds on the basis of a long-term investment horizon.

Triodos Sustainable Equity Fund

In Germany, Forum Nachhaltige Geldanlagen awarded Triodos Sustainable Equity Fund with three stars, the highest sustainability rating.

Investment policy

In the first half of the year many US companies benefitted from an improved earnings outlook owing to the economic momentum, the approved reduction of the corporate tax rate and the increase in share buy-backs by many companies. Especially companies in the Information Technology and Healthcare sectors were rewarded by double-digit share price increases. On valuation grounds, Triodos Sustainable Equity Fund decreased its weighting in Information Technology-related companies.

The sub-fund announced an updated investment process, which was gradually implemented as of the start of the second quarter. When selecting companies for portfolio candidates our focus is now on positive contribution to our seven sustainable transition themes, where previously we focused on top ESG performers ('Best-in-Class'). New companies in the portfolio must have a material fit with at least one of the transition themes and meet our minimum standards and in-house financial valuation modelling criteria. Selection is based on a fully integrated process using sustainable and financial indicators. Furthermore, Triodos Sustainable Equity Fund is adjusting the portfolio for greater diversification across geographical regions and industries.

As a result, the holdings in the following companies were sold: Aptiv, Booking Holding, Boston Properties, Comcast, Delphi Technologies, Dentsply Sirona, Liberty Global, Svenska Handelsbanken, Tesla and Zimmer Biomet Holdings. Furthermore, as US media company Time Warner was acquired by US Telecom AT&T, the sub-fund subsequently sold its shares in AT&T. Triodos Sustainable Equity Fund initiated holdings in the following themes: prosperous and healthy people (Adidas, Merck – Germany, Essity - Sweden), sustainable mobility and infrastructure (Bridgestone, Japan Central Railway - Japan), social inclusion and empowerment (Telenor - Norway).

Performance

In the first half of 2018, the total net assets of Triodos Sustainable Equity Fund grew from EUR 598.6 million to EUR 638.7 million. During this period, the sub-fund (Z-Dis) realised a return of 0.2% (including reinvestment of dividends), while the benchmark returned 3.4%.

The underperformance of Triodos Sustainable Equity Fund is mainly due to stock selection. Especially companies in the Healthcare, Consumer Staples and Utilities sectors contributed negatively. Being underweight in Financials and overweight in Consumer Staples contributed positively, while the absence of traditional energy stocks in the portfolio had a negative impact.

Triodos Sustainable Mixed Fund

In Germany, Forum Nachhaltige Geldanlagen awarded the sub-fund with three stars, the highest sustainability rating.

Investment policy

As per April 2018, Triodos Investment Management has in-housed the active portfolio management of the Triodos SICAV I sub-funds, including Triodos Sustainable Mixed Fund. The sub-fund will seek broader diversification across geographical regions and economic sectors. Our forward-looking company analysis integrates sustainable and financial indicators. New companies in the portfolio will have a clear fit with the transition themes and must furthermore meet our in-house financial valuation modelling and minimum standards. The sub-fund added a number of new companies to the portfolio, including Adidas, Bridgestone, Japan Central Railway and Telenor.

In the first half of 2018, the sub-fund moved to a slightly underweight position in equities, while increasing liquidities. This portfolio change was driven by weakening economic growth momentum in an environment of imminent “normalisation” of monetary policies, rich equity valuations, increased market volatility and geopolitical tensions. The position in fixed income remained slightly underweight.

As of June 30, 2018 the sub-fund’s duration was 6.96, versus 6.48 for the benchmark.

The selection effect for equities explains most of the sub-fund's negative financial return. Companies within the Healthcare, Consumer Staples and Utilities sectors had a negative impact on returns, as did the absence of traditional energy stocks. The allocation to, and selection of, fixed income assets contributed positively - mostly due to the sub-fund's large underweight in Italian sovereigns and its preference for better-quality corporates and sub-sovereign bonds.

Triodos Sustainable Pioneer Fund

In Germany, Forum Nachhaltige Geldanlagen awarded the sub-fund with three stars, the highest sustainability rating.

Investment policy

As per April 2018, Triodos Investment Management has in-housed the active portfolio management of the Triodos SICAV I sub-funds, including Triodos Sustainable Mixed Fund. The sub-fund will seek broader diversification across geographical regions and economic sectors. Our forward-looking company analysis integrates sustainable and financial indicators. New companies in the portfolio will have a clear fit with Triodos transition themes and must furthermore meet our in-house financial valuation modelling and minimum sustainability standards.

The previously mentioned seven transition themes serve as a lens to select investments. As a result, during the first half of the year the sub-fund sold its stake in Tesla, trimmed its positions in Teladoc, Align Technologies, Cerus, Red Hat, China Everbright International and Beijing Enterprise Water Group and initiated a holding in Shimano.

Going forward, the sub-fund will look to (gradually) diversify its investments over a broader range of the transition themes. Furthermore, the exposure to US stock markets will decrease as the sub-fund enhances its geographical diversification. Lastly, with economic growth closer to peak levels and interest rates likely to rise, the sub-fund will be gradually including some steady cash flow compounders with strong balance sheets, so as not to be too dependent on leveraged growth business models.

¹ Triodos Sustainable Pioneer Fund aims to achieve financial returns that are in line with the market. The sub-fund compares its returns with the MSCI World Small & Mid Cap Index (in EUR) as a generally accepted benchmark for global equity funds that invest in small and midcap companies. The investment policy that is pursued by Triodos Sustainable Pioneer Fund is not aimed at replicating or outperforming the benchmark. The sub-fund may deviate from the benchmark because it only invests in companies that meet strict sustainability criteria. The sub-fund believes that in the longer term sustainable investments offer more stable and higher financial returns than non-sustainable investments. The sub-fund therefore tends to invest in companies on the basis of a long-term investment horizon.

Outlook

The fund expects a further increase in the net inflow of capital from investors in 2018. In the second half of 2018, the fund has the intention to commence retail distribution to Spanish investors. Furthermore, the number of distributors in the countries where Triodos Bank is active and is expected to keep increasing further in 2018.

Impact

Triodos SICAV I distinguishes itself from other funds through its responsible shareholder policies and strict investment principles. In 2018, the fund will again review several minimum standards, following up on developments in the field of sustainability, within companies and within society at large.

The minimum standards regarding water scarcity are scheduled to be reviewed. The minimum standards of the fund have covered fresh water scarcity since 2014 and require companies with water-intensive production processes to actively show awareness of the issue through their policies and programmes. Companies have since been stepping up their efforts to reduce water use and preserve fresh water resources. Therefore, in 2018, the fund will investigate whether the requirements can be, again, strengthened.

Market developments

Macro-economic outlook

The question is not whether an inflection point for this business cycle will occur, but when. The global economy looks in solid shape, but leading indicators are decreasing. However, this is no reason for worries. Sentiments indicators were overbullish to begin with. They overshot relatively to what the economy was likely to deliver. The moderation in sentiment is little more than a return to reality. The growth peak probably lies behind us, but it is expected that advanced economies will continue to grow above potential in the near term. This does not detract from the fact that risks to growth are becoming asymmetrically skewed to the downside.

Cyclical inflation pressures are expected to rise modestly. Output gaps are closing. In addition, energy prices have risen, and tariffs might start to add to intermediate costs. However, it is unlikely that inflation in advanced economies is set to advance significantly above the inflation target of 2% for a prolonged period of time. Inflationary risk could be tilting higher. Central banks in developed markets are expected to look through the temporary inflation effects and to gradually tighten their monetary stance. This will continue to lead to bouts of financial volatility and risk-repricing. Next to interest rates, especially wage growth and wage-related inflationary expectations will be key to watch, not only in relation to future central banking policies but also in relation to corporate margin developments.

Fixed income markets

The outlook for bond markets has adjusted. Although the central banks maintain their course of a very gradual monetary tightening, the economic outlook is more uncertain. There are clear signs of upward price pressure, and a further round of higher trade tariffs will not help. At the same time, investment sentiment has deteriorated somewhat albeit coming from very high levels. Within Europe, the spreads between sovereigns are no longer converging, as uncertainty about the willingness to take the eurozone to the next level persists.

Equity markets

Several potentially disruptive trends are looming in the financial markets, while supportive trends for equity price movements are clearly fading. Economic growth momentum seems to have peaked, especially in Europe and China, and uncertainty relating to economic growth remains: what if president Trump delivers on his trade war and global trade partners start retaliating? Closer to home, Europe is suffering from a change in political landscape with populist parties getting more and more items on the agenda.

On the earnings side, little upside in US corporate margins is visible anymore due to tax and interest rate benefits and cost cutting leverage companies have been enjoying in recent years. On the other hand, ample profit recovery potential based on continued operating leverage is foreseen in Europe and Japan.

Last but not least, equity market valuations on an absolute basis are by no means cheap and leadership breadth seems to be narrowing, especially in US markets where increasing indications of limited participation is seen, while the chances of failure are becoming higher. The market cannot continue to rally with just a few large-caps (generals) leading the way.

In summary, the fund is relatively cautious on the equity markets for the remainder of the year, which is reflected in its equity positioning moving away from growth and more to quality.

The value of any cash on hand or on deposit, bills and demand notes and accounts receivable, prepaid expenses, cash dividends and interests declared or accrued as aforesaid and not yet received is deemed to be the full amount thereof, unless in any case the same is unlikely to be paid or received in full, in which case the value thereof is arrived at after making such discount as may be considered appropriate in such case to reflect the true value thereof.

The value of transferable securities, money market instruments and any other financial assets listed or dealt in on a regulated market, a stock exchange in another state or on any other regulated market is based on the last available price on the relevant market which is normally the principal market for such assets.

In the event that any assets are not listed or dealt in on any regulated market, any stock exchange in another state or on any other regulated market, or if, with respect to assets listed or dealt in on any such markets, the price as determined above is not representative of the fair market value of the relevant assets, the value
