Management Report

Dear Unitholders,

With this report, we want to give you an overview of the general economic environment and the development of the most important capital markets of our Fund SEB European Equity Small Caps.

We would like to thank you for your confidence and will do everything within our power to justify your decision of investing in our Fund.

Equities gain on hopes and expectations

The start of 2019 has perfectly contrasted the end of 2018. The doom and gloom that dominated the latter part of last year has been overtaken by a renewed optimism. As such, we have seen a significant rally in global equities that have brought the all-important SP500 index to historically new highs. The two primary drivers of this rally have been the rising expectations of a more dovish global monetary policy and an expectation that the US and China would come to terms regarding the ongoing trade war.

The trade war has captured headlines since the election of Donald Trump in 2016. While still on the campaign trail he promised that his administration would try to close the current account deficit and bring jobs home to the US. However, it wasn't until 2018 that the trade war started to have a material impact on global equity markets. We saw a sharp correction in Q4 2018 of global equity markets as the US raised tariffs on Chinese imports and introduced a hawkish tone toward the trade terms between the two countries. Just as this hawkish tone drove equities down in the latter part of 2018, renewed optimism and a lighter tone drove equities higher in 2019.

During the first months of 2019, the Trump administration showed a more accommodating attitude toward the trade war and the likelihood of agreeing on a deal. The market interpreted these comments as sure signs that the outlook was improving. The market then started to discount in a deal and a resurgence in global trade and manufacturing, but a deal proved to be elusive. At the time of writing, late June 2019, the US and China are in a truce phase of the process. It was the expectation of a truce that helped propel equities higher in 2019.

Given that market sentiment on the trade war shifted back and forth in 2019, we believe it was unlikely that trading would be at all-time high levels by late June unless the trade war optimism was supported by another factor. In our view, the other factor was the significant turnaround among global central banks in general, and the US Federal Reserve Bank in particular. The market started to price in nearly three rate cuts for the Fed in 2019. This significant reversal of monetary policy - keeping in mind that the Fed's official forecast on 1 January 2019 was for three rate hikes during the year. This led to a fall in global rates and a rise in equity multiples.

So far, 2019 has been a year of expectations. Whether the markets will continue to rise depends, in our view, largely on whether these expectations are fulfilled and whether they will have a positive knock-on effect on global growth.

Financial markets

The first six months of 2019 as measured by the SP500 turned out to be the strongest since 1997. The rally in equities was largely driven by multiples such as price to earnings rising higher as earnings in Q1 and Q2 2019 presented weak actual growth and as expectations for future earnings dropped significantly in 2019. In terms of valuations, the market is once again trading at elevated levels. This is similar to the levels in summer 2018, which was a period of largely unchallenged belief in robust growth for 2019.

In contrast to the exuberant equity markets, yields fell significantly in Europe and the US. For example, the German 10-year bond fell to -0.3% which is the lowest level ever. The sharp drop in yields reflected the Fed's very dovish pricing. Early in the first half of the year the market priced in three cuts for 2019.

Despite the large shifts in fixed income markets, the US dollar remained fairly stable. The trade-weighted USD traded within a fairly tight range despite the Fed's significant repricing.

Macro environment developments

Macro has fallen below the expectations of most analysts throughout 2019. Trade and production numbers in particular have been weaker than expected due to trade tensions. Considering the leading indicators for the global manufacturing sector, the economy is now in contraction territory for the first time in many years and it is natural that uncertainty regarding the global outlook has increased.

We believe the global trade war is the main cause for the slowdown in the global growth momentum. Weakness has, so far, been largely isolated to the sectors that are most dependent on trade and global production chains such as the semiconductor industry. Looking beyond these sectors, data from the US is still fairly strong. The US labour market continues to be reasonably robust and the service sector has not yet felt the full effect of the trade war. It is these bright spots that keep consensus growth expectations at non-recession levels. In other words, analysts expect the manufacturing slowdown to be a temporary event that will diminish in the second half of 2019 rather than an indication of a world on the brink of recession.

Outlook for markets & economic growth

We view the uncertainty around the outlook for the global financial markets as greater than normal. Following a period where equities rose on expectations of a more dovish global monetary policy and expectations of a resolution in the global trade war, we believe these expectations must be fulfilled in order to make the gains sustainable. This means that some form of monetary stimulus from either the ECB or the Fed and a de-escalation of the trade war are needed. Furthermore, as US equities are trading at new all-time highs it is increasingly obvious that the fulfilment of the two expectations in isolation is insufficient. What is needed is stronger growth that can support the lofty multiples at which equities are currently trading.

Despite the long list of uncertainties, we still believe that equities can deliver higher returns than fixed income. Especially since the yields on core government bonds have now fallen to levels last seen in 2016. Note that yields in Germany are at all-time lows. Although it seems unlikely that equities can be boosted by an increase in multiple expansion, we expect earnings growth to reappear and become the driving factor for them to outperform the negative yields of government bonds.

The information stated in the report is historical and is not representative of future results.

Notes to the Financial Statements

As at 30 June 2019

Note 1. Significant Accounting Policies

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Luxembourg regulations relating to Undertakings for Collective Investment.

The financial statements have been prepared based on the last Net Asset Value of the period which has been calculated on 28 June 2019 with the prices as of that date; the valuation at 28 June 2019 has been presented for the purpose of these financial statements.

Investments:

a) Transferable securities and money market instruments, which are officially listed on a stock exchange, are valued at the last available price.

b) Transferable securities and money market instruments, which are not officially listed on a stock exchange, but which are traded on another regulated market are valued at a price no lower than the bid price and no higher than the ask price at the time of the valuation and at which the Management Company considers to be an appropriate market price.

c) Transferable securities and money market instruments quoted or traded on several markets are valued on the basis of the last available price on the principal market for the transferable securities or money market instruments in question, unless these prices are not representative.

d) In the event that such prices are not in line with market conditions, or for securities and money market instruments other than those covered in a), b) and c) above for which there are no fixed prices, these securities and money market instruments, as well as other assets, will be valued at the current market value as determined in good faith by the Management Company, following generally accepted valuation principles.

e) Units or shares of UCI(TS) are valued at the last available Net Asset Value obtained from the Administrative Agent of such UCI(TS), except for Exchange Traded Funds which are valued at the latest available price found on the main stock exchange on which they are listed.

In the case that extraordinary circumstances occur which make it impossible or even wrong to make a valuation in accordance with the above-mentioned criteria, the Management Company is entitled to temporarily apply other generally accepted valuation procedures, which are determined by it in good faith, in order to make an appropriate valuation of the Fund's Assets.

Gains and losses on the sale of securities are determined using the average cost method.

Swing pricing:

The Investment Manager needs to perform transactions in order to uphold the desired asset allocation as a result of the flows in and out of the Fund. While performing these transactions brokerage and transaction costs will occur. Acting in the Unitholders' interest, the Net Asset Value will be adjusted upwards in case of large inflows and downwards in case of large outflows if on any Valuation Day the aggregate inflows and outflows in all Classes of the Fund result in a net increase or decrease which exceeds a threshold set by the Board of Directors of the Management Company from time to time (relating to the cost of market dealing for the Fund), the Net Asset Value per unit of the Fund will be adjusted to reflect both the estimated fiscal charges and dealing costs (brokerage and transaction costs) that may be incurred by the Fund and the estimated bid/offer spread of the assets in which the respective Fund invests following the net inflows/outflows of the Fund. The adjustment will be an addition when the net movement results in a net inflows of the Fund and a deduction when it results in a net outflows.

No swing pricing adjustment has been applied to the period end Net Asset Value per unit calculated on 28 June 2019.

Currency translation:

All assets denominated in a different currency to the Funds' currency are converted into the Funds' currency at the last available exchange rate.

Separate accounts are maintained for the Fund in the currency in which the Net Asset Value per unit to which it relates is expressed (the "accounting currency").
